Towns to Assume State's Duties?

Larger Road Care Burden Feared

Brickwork construction on the new post office facility, south of Northwest Hwy. on Euclid, may be held up by a labor shortage, but work on the facility goes on. Expected completion for the building is July 31, post office authorities said. (Photo by John Kruissink)

By Richard Crabb

Officials of the northwest suburbs registered deep concern Friday night over the proposed reorganization of the highway program under which many miles of state and county roads would be transferred to township and municipal reponsibility.

Rep. W. Robert Blair (R-Park Forast) haad of the Legislature's Highway Study Commission, spoke at the meeting of the Northwest Municipal Conference in the Municipal Building in Rolling Meadows.

THE MEETING was attended by threa other members of the Legislature, including Reps. Arthur Simmons (R-Skokie), Eugenia Chapman (D-Arlington Heights) and Eugane F. Schlickman (R-Arlington Heights).

A lengthy direct axchange of views between northwest suburban officials and Rep. Blair took place after the talk. Blair gave the northwest municipal officials assurance that he would first press for the new revenue package in the Legislature and, if not passed, he would then not press for passage of the other bills implementing the reorganization of the state's highway system with its transfer of state and county highways to the municipalities.

Blair gave officials a review of present condition of Illinois' highway system which consists of 128,000 miles of state, county, township and municipal Roads. Half of the highway system is deficient, Blair told officials.

"The state's economic development cannot advance without an Improved highway system," said Blair. "The program our highway commission has developed will provide for revitalizing and development of a modarn highway system in Illinois."

BLAIR WARNED that the state must spend $1.3 billion a year for 20 years to develop a fully modern highway system. He reported that now 6,000 of the 16,000 miles of state highway, 6,500 of 17,000 miles of county highways, 38,000 of 73,000 miles of township highways, and 9,500 of 22,000 miles of municipal streets are now highly deficient.

Making allowance for about 3 per cent increase in the cost of building and maintaining highways, there will be a need to spend 1.3 billion.

The state now has available $800 million for highway development and care. An estimated $1.1 billion is needed annually to build new highways and maintain present ones, Blair reported.

HIS HIGHWAY study commission is proposing a 2½ cent increase in tha gasoline tax, an increase in the car licenses, increase in truck fuel taxes and a sales tax on tires, batteries and anti-freeze in order to secure the additional $300 million needed to devalop a modern highway system in Illinois.

Blair said that the 2½ cent increase in gasoline tax would produce an additional $95 million, the increase in truck fuel tax would produce 2.3 million dollars, increased car and truck license fees would produce $78.6 million. The 10 cents per pound of tires would produce $27.9 million, tax on batteries would produce $1.8 million and the anti-freeze tax would produce $3.2 million.

Robert O. Atcher, Schaumburg mayor, said that the northwest suburbs "are the fastest growing area in the United States.

"OUR CONCERN is that state and county highways will be turned over to the municipalities to maintain without providing them enough state motor fuel tax revenue to carry out the new responsibility."

"Of real concern to me and the northwest suburban area is that we have an explosive population growth with substandard highways," said Mayor John Woods of Arlington Heights.

"Unless these highways are turned over to us a fairly good condition, we are not likely to secure enough revenue to modernize them in 20 years."

Blair reported that Gov. Richard B. Ogilvie has given his support to the program ol the Blair commission. Ogilvie will deliver a special highway message to the Legislature on April 15.

Solicitor Regulation Isn't Prohibited: Mrs. Vidmar

Municipal laws regulating solicitors are legal because there is no law prohibiting their enforcement, according to Mrs. Barbara Vidmar, independent candidate for trustee.

Mrs. Vidmar reasoned that, if there is no law to prohibit something, it is legal, or at least not illegal.

"OTHER municipalities interpret an Illinois statute in such a way that allows them to pass ordinances regulating solicitors. "I say we can too," she said.

The Illinois statute to which Mrs. Vidmar refers is 11-42-5, Chapter 24, of the latest revision in the Illinois Municipal Code.

It states that the corporate authorities of each municipality may license, tax, regulate or prohibit hawkers, peddlers, pawnbrokers, itinerate merchants, transient vendors of merchandise, theatricial or other exhibitors, shows and amusements and may license, tax and regulate all places for eating or amusement, according to Mrs. Vidmar.

"Since there is nothing in the law to forbid a municipality from regulating solicitors, I think it is allowable. It certainly is not illegal.

"THERE is nothing in the law to make a city ordinance regulating solicitors enforceable, but there is nothing to prohibit such an ordinance," she said.

"I feel that the legality of an ordinance regulating solicitors is a matter of individual interpretation. We should pass an ordinance as other municipalities have and let the courts decide the legality of it, if and when it is challenged.

"If we remain the only municipality unprotected (without an ordinance of any kind), we will continue to fall prey to every group that wants to solicit in the village.

"Why should they fight an ordinance in other places when they can come to Arlington Heights which offers no resistance?

IN MY estimation the people of Arlington Heights are in for continued harassment from unscrupulous solicitors

Youth Admits $500 in Thefts From Store

A 17-year old Arlington Heights youth reportedly admitted stealing soma $500 worth of merchandise from the Turn-Style Store, 444 Rand Rd.

The boy was arrested by Arlington Heights police after being apprehended by the store's security guard for the alleged theft of a stereo tape player valued at $70.

Another boy, a 16-year old, also from Arlington Heights, was released to his parents. The youth was alleged to be involved only in the theft of the tape player.

The 17-year old, a store employe, was reported to hava taken the player from its box and placed it in another box with a $5.95 price tag on it.

The second boy allegedly took the box to the check-out counter and payed the marked price. The two then were apprahended by tha security guard.

Police were called, and a spokesman for the store said he would sign a complaint against the employe, who later admitted that he has stolen over $500 worth of goods from the store in a similar manner.

Girl, 11, Injured

A three-car collision at the intersection of Thomas St. and Rand Rd. in Arlington Heights Saturday damaged all three cars and injured a Palatine girl, Bonnie MaHern, 11 of 121 E. Slade.

The girl was taken to Northwest Community Hospital where she was treated for cuts on the arm and in her mouth.

She was a passenger in the car of Linda Liga, 21, 1113 Holiday Ln., Des Plaines. Also involved in the crash were Linda Schwantz, 2100 N. Fernandez, Arlington Heights, and Mrs. Dorothy Lee, 2405 N. Pine, Arlington Heights.

Legionnaires Recall Return from 'Great War'

By Joe Weiss

"Doc" was a private in the Great War and he remembers a lot of Arlington Heights history.

Clauda J. Williams, or "Doc" as he prefers, is a charter member of the American Legion, Merle Guild Post 208 in Arlington Heights. He lives at 1 N. Hickory.

He and Phil Engelking, 201 S. Dunton; Albert C. Russel, 112 E. Euclid, and Elmer Crane, 626 N. Belmont, are charter-mambers of the Merle Guild post.

They recalled what it was like that first decoration day whan more than 100 "doughboys" returned to Arlington Heights.

"There were four Civil War veterans who lad off the parade," Doc said.

"They wora their hats and blue uniforms with the medals they had earned and looked very proud as they rode in a car," he said.

"THEY WERE followed by Arthur Wilcox, the only Spanish American War veteran in town. He took long strides as the drum and bugle corps blared behind him.

"Thera must have been 5,000 persons lining the parade route," Elmer Crane, added.

"After a one-mile march we wound up at the corner of State Rd. and Saint James St. which was whare tha old North School used to be," Crane said.

"Thare on the school grounds there were large tents with long tables filled with food tha villagers had brought for us. There must have been 130 of us and wa each had more than we could eat.

"Judge Cutting of the Cook County Court spoke to us and so did Col. J.V.Clinnin, of the 33d Division, but I particularly remember Mrs. Charles Lorenzen singing. She had a lovely voice," he said.

"Al Russel recalled that there was dancing in the street that night and also a war movie.

"One of the canteens had been opened to the soldiers and there was free beer," he said.

Doc particularly remembers being decoratad by one of eight girls who pinned medals on all of the returning doughboys.

Crane still has his. He keeps it on his key chain although the ribbon has long since worn off. It bears the inscription; "In racognition of your services, World War 1917-1919.

The doughboys had marched to the school grounds in twu companies--those who had served "over there" and those who served "over here," according to a newspaper account.

THE NEWSPAPER account said: "The honored guest of the day was Col. J.V. Clinnin. He was driven up with a flourish from the depot in the official buzz wagon and found waiting for him the entire company at salute."

A 20-minuta daylight fireworks display entertained the crowd that afternoon and was followed by a six inning ball game that ended in a tie between the doughboys and the Army Air Corps, according to the newspaper.

Elmer Crana joined the army in June 1918 and was assigned to the field artillery.

Doc was one of five men who boarded a 5:30 a.m. train in Des Plaines Sept. 5, 1918, bound for Rockford, Ill. where he would be inducted. "All you could see were cornstalks then," he said.

He was assignad to repair equipmant and eventually found duty as one of the men who processed veterans leaving the service and returning home.

Engleking was inducted in September, 1917, and Russel followed in May, 1918.

"The flu apidemic kept my unit from shipping over," Engelking said.

"I was wardmaster in the medical corps stationed at Camp Logan, Texas. The flu epidemic caught us when we were shipping some men to France and aven forced one troop ship to turn back because so many were ill," ha said.

Russal was an infantry sergeant assigned to Camp Wheeler, Ga. which is now Fort Benning.

"WE WERE paid $38 a month as a sergeant," Russel said, "which was two bucks higher than a corporal's pay. A private drew $17 a month."

"Out of your pay came laundry, liberty bonds and insurance," he said.

Doc said that he was paid only three times during his tour of duty and Engelking racallad tha lucky soldiers who shipped over and received pay books.

"Some of them were two years ahead on their pay," he chucklad.

Four of the five charter members (Sept. 6, 1919) of the American Legion Merle Guild Post 208 in Arlington Heights, recall old times with a newspaper clipping recounting the day the doughboys came home. From left they are: Phil Engelking, 74, of 201 S. Dunton; C. J. (Doc) Williams, 72, of 1 N. Hickory; Albert C. Russel, 74, of 112 E. Euclid, and Elmer Crane, 75, of 626 N. Belmont. The charter member not pictured is Harold A. Fitzpatrick, 68, of 738 N. Arlington Heights Rd.

Deadline on Ombudsman Grant Set

By Jan Bone
First in a Series

School District 59 will receive a yes or no answer by the second week in April on its application to the New York Foundation for a $22,250 grant to set up an Educational Ombudsman for 1969-70.

An ombudsman is a person who would investigate complaints of parents and students and would report directly to the Board of Education.

DISTRICT 59'S proposal—quoted below—was given to the New York Foundation on Feb. 21 by Mrs. Leah Cummins, who was in New York City at the time.

Minutes of District 59 show that on Jan. 20, Dr. Donaid Thomas, school superintendent discussed the idea of an ombudsman with the board and explained the duties and responsibilities of such a position.

Dr. Allen K. Sparks of 908 Spruance Pl., Des Plaines, a board member, says he asked that discussion of an ombudsman be deferred until later because of the length of the agenda.

LAST MONDAY, Sparks and Albert Domanieo, another board member, questioned the request for money. "The board has not officially approved this," Sparks told The Day, "and there are many questions."

Sparks also said that, as of last Friday, he had not seen a copy of the proposal that was taken to the foundation.

Bernard Friedberg, executive with the New York Foundation, told The Day that he will notify District 59 of the foundation's decision on the $22,250 request about the second week in April.

"THE IDEA of an ombudsman is an interesting concept. A school district within the New York City system is doing it right now, funding it out of tax money.

"But School District 59 knows full well that their chances of being funded from us are not too good. Because we are the New York Foundation, we fund primarily projects around New York.

"I have the feeling that they're going to go ahead and have an ombudsman, whether we fund it or not."

unless we pass an ordinance now," she said.

Rep. Eugeoe Schlickman (R-Arlington Heights) introduced a bill in January, 1967, to make that chapter of the state code which concerns peddlers and other merchants applicable also to solicitors. It was defeated.

"The word 'peddler' in the existing state code applies to a door-to-door seller who offers goods for sale with immediate delivery, whereas a 'solicitor' is a seller who offers goods for sale with delivery at a later date.

Jaek Siegel, village attorney, issued an opinion on the matter last Friday.

He said that in 1965 the village code was completely recodified under his direction and the existing ordinances regulating solicitors were specifically deleted.

"I arrived at this conclusion based on numerous and repeated opinions of the Illinois Supreme Court, which has over the years specifically held that municipalities have not been granted the power to license or regulate, in anyway, door-to-door solicitation for the sale of goods for future delivery.

"THESE ordinances are not legally enforceable and the Circuit Court of Cook County has so held on several occasions.

"I recognize the real problem involved in the regulation of solicitors and the desirability of such regulation, but as a lawyer I cannot advise the village to re-adopt ordinances which were clearly contrary to well-established law.

"Instead, the village has for the last several sessions of the Legislature acted to support legislation to regulate solicitors. We are hopeful that the efforts to Rep. Schlickman in this area will be successful at this session."

SIEGEL SAID that the village policy toward solicitors is based solely upon his legal advice that such ordinances are invalid and unenforceable.

He also said that this does not mean that such an ordinace isn't desired for the village.

"Instead, it represents the determination of the members of the Village Board to faithfully observe their oath of office, which required their obedience to the laws of this state," he said.

Parts Stripped From New Car

Automotive parts worth more than $100 were stolen from a car awaiting delivery at Morton Pontiac, parts manager Doo Aldort told police Friday. He said a spare tire, a wheel, and a battery were taken.

Mini-Lunch Tomorrow

A mini-luncheon will bring the general membership of Holy Family Hospital Auxiliary together at noon, Tuesday, March 25 in the meeting room located on the hospital's ground floor. The luncheon will be served by the auxiliary executive board, under the direction of Mrs. Alfred Faber, Glenview.

Following a brief business meeting and the election of new officers, the noted educator Joseph F. Fiedoral will lecture on a much discussed but little understood topic, "narcotics." Supplementing his talk will be a display of narcotics, a demonstration of the implements and methods used by the addict and the penalty for using drugs.

Fiedoral has dealt with the narcotics problem for 27 years and in the past 10 years directed his attention to high school students. His talk has been designed to teach his listeners the realities and horrors of the narcotics menace.

MRS. CLAYTON Sondag, Des Plaines, as head of the nominating committee, will present to the members a slate of officers to serve from 1969 to 1970. Nominations from the floor will be accepted followed by the election. The slate of officers to be presented includes, Mrs. James Weides, Prospect Heights, for president; Mrs. John Reese, Mount Prospect, 1st vice president; Mrs. Eugene Vogt, Mount Prospect, 2d vice president; Mrs. Henry Wester, Prospect Heights, treasurer; Mrs. Edward LeJeuene, Glenview, recording secretary, and Mrs. Robert Novy, Arlington Heights, corresponding secretary.

As is the custom, the elected officers will be installed at the annual Spring Benefit luncheon scheduled for Tuesday, April 22 at the Seven Eagles Restaurant, Des Plaines. Mrs. Irene F. Hughes, noted psychic-mystic will be the featured speaker.

Planning the luncheon under the direction of Mrs. Sondag, general chairman, is Mrs. John X. Breslin and Mrs. Joel Cooper, gift co-chairmen; Mrs. John Fehrenbach, social hour; Mrs. Bennett Trapani, program; Mrs. Leonard A. Dwelle Sr., publicity, and Mrs. M. McKay, reservations.

Mystic Benefit Speaker

Irene Hughes

Irene Hughes, well known psychic mystic, will speak at the Delta Delta Delta Chicago Area Alumnae Council's noon luncheon, "ESPecially For You," April 9 at the Pick-Congress Hotel.

Plans for the council's 16th annual benefit for the Cleft Lip and Palate Institute of Northwestern University were revealed recently at an eye-opening brunch-press conference at the Pick-Congress. The press and members of the sorority's nine Chicago area almunae chapters met over the brunch table with Mrs. Hughes and Dr. Morton Rosen, clinical director of the institute.

Representatives of the Northwest Suburban Chapter of Delta Delta Delta at the brunch were Mrs. C. Rodney Antrim, Arlington Heights, and Mrs. Robert Chapin, Park Ridge, president of the northwest chapter.

THE INSTITUTE, a private agency, provides specialized treatment for children born with lip and palate malformations. Treatment often includes mouth reconstruction, plastic surgery, speech therapy, dental work, and psychological guidance.

Children and adults with cancer of the mouth are also treated by the team of specialists who donate their time to the institute.

At present, the Chicago area council of Delta Delta Delta is the only organized group supporting the institute.

MRS. HUGHES, who became aware of her psychic gifts in childhood, is well known for her accurate predictions. These include the exact dates of three major snow storms in Chicago in 1967, President Johnson's decision not to run in 1968, Jacqueline Kennedy's marriage and the New York Jets' victory in the Super Bowl. However, Mrs. Hughes considers her main concern and responsibility the spiritual growth of the indivual.

Tickets for the luncheon are available through the ticket chairman, Mrs. C. Rodney Antrim of Arlington Heights, (392-4856) or Mrs. George R. Busse of Mount Prospect (CL 5-3932).

Messina Honored

Joe Messina, son of Mr. and Mrs. Frank Messina of Rolling Meadows, has been awarded a full tuition summer art scholarship at Robert Allerton Memorial Park, Monticello, Ill., by the Rolling Meadows Junior Woman's Club. Allerton is a federated art school, sponsored by the Illinois Federation of Woman's Clubs of which the Rolling Meadows Juniors are affiliated.

Joe, who is now a junior at Forest View High School, was recommended by the art department chairman. The scholarship will allow him the benefits of a highly concentrated college level course taught by instructors of the University of Illinois Fine Arts Division.

Mrs. Walter Sergot, president of the Juniors, commented that the past recipients of the Allerton Scholarship have been excellent students and a credit to their high school.

Glamor

Hors d'oeuvres, served midweek and for no special reason, lend an instantaneous party atmosphere. Stuff celery stalks with cheese spread. Blend 1 cup creamy cottage cheese with ½ cup crumbled American blue cheese. Add to mixture 1 tablespoon horseradish.

Fashion Shows Available

Women's clubs and organizations interested in planning a fashion show as part of their next year's activities are invited to contact Mrs. Bernice Mack of Beemack World Travel in Rolling Meadows. Mrs. Mack will be happy to make arrangements with area airline companies who provide a show lasting approximately 45 minutes featuring travel and resort fashions, a commentator, table decorations or door prizes, as preferred. No shows are scheduled during the summer.

The club or group wishing this service must provide the place, models size 10, and the music.

The airlines prefer to work with large groups, 300 or more women; however, they will plan shows for smaller groups. The garments modeled are supplied by leading manufacturers.

ALSO AVAILABLE from the airlines is a demonstration on packing clothes correctly for travel. This demonstration takes approximately 25 minutes and may be combined with a fashion show if a longer program is desired.

Mrs. Mack urges clubs to make their plans early. She said scheduling for 1970 is now in process. For further information call her at 253-4130 or drop by Beemack World Travel, 3427 Kirchoff Rd., Rolling Meadows.

TOPS Rummage

The Pathetic Pounds Chapter of TOPS will hold a rummage sale in the garage at 100 Sixth St., Wheeling, Friday from 6 p.m. to 9 p.m.; on Saturday March 22 from 9 to 6 p.m., and on Sunday, March 23 from 10 to 3 p.m.

Proceeds of the sale will be used to send members and award winners to the TOPS convention. Pathetic Pounds meets every Thursday night at Holmes Junior High School in Wheeling.

Sororities Pledge Two At DeKalb

Two Arlington Heights girls who were recently pledged to social sororities at Northern Illinois University, DeKalb, are Jan Ann Schrank and Heidi Siegrun Reimann. Miss Schrank, the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. A. R. Schrank, was pledged by Sigma Sigma Sigma, and Miss Reimann, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Eberhard F. Reimann, has pledged Sigma Kappa.

Brownie Mothers

Mothers of girls who will be in second grade next year and who live on the south side of Arlington Heights, have been invited to a meeting tomorrow at 10 a.m. at Pioneer Park.

Movies will be shown to acquaint the mothers with the opportunities offered by Girl Scouting. There will be no baby-sitting, but small fry are welcome. The meeting will be over at 11.

Interested mothers desiring further information may call Mrs. Raymond Massey, CL 3-0682.

Penny Social At Salk

The Jonas E. Salk School PTA will hold its annual card party and penny social 8 p.m. tomorrow at the school, 3705 Pheasant Dr., Rolling Meadows.

Hope Can

Brides-to-be or their mothers might like to pack all those inexpensive but necessary household items such as eggbeaters, knives or hand can openers in a large garbage can. By the time the wedding rolls around the can will be full. After the can is emptied it will be worth its weight as a trash container.

Trimmed

It's the detail that makes the form. Sometimes scroll work and embroideries bring out the trims on dresses.

District Winner

Marion Henken, Arlington Heights' resident and membership chairman for the Mount Prospect Business and Professional Women's Club has won the District III Membership Award for the organization. The group increased by 43 per cent. Installation of 34 members took place at the March meeting. Miss Henken greets two new members, Elain Engstro of Mount Prospect and Dorothy Karger of Des Plaines. Three Gold Card winners, members recruiting five new members each year, are Miss Henken, Mrs. Toni Gasparotto and Mrs. Robert Haugh.

"Home Repairs That Women Can Do" is the lesson to be presented to the Arlington Heights Homemakers Extension Unit at 1 p.m., Thursday, March 27 in the Williamsburg Room of the Federal Savings & Loan Association, Arlington Heights.

Mrs. R. A. Levine and Mrs. Gus Anderson will be the speaker and demonstrator for this local leader session. Each member and guest is requested to bring with them an old electric cord, plug and screwdriver.

HOSTESSES for the dessert luncheon are Mrs. A. L. Pukszta, Mrs. J. E. Wiedl assisted by Mrs. John Wellhausen. An added feature will be a craft and hobby display by members.

The making of "bean trees" was the lesson at the March 12 craft session held in the home of Mrs. G. A. Moudry with Mrs. Glenn Pierre assisting.

Women interested in obtaining further information about the group may contact Mrs. J. B. Abbs, president, at 392-2672.

Help To Poor

A willingness to help others had led the men of the Lutheran Church of the Cross, Arlington Heights, to set up a "Free Income Tax Service" for the people in poverty. Responding to a request from Donald Maldonado, director of the Opportunity Center, seven men are giving one evening a week to help migrant residents with their income tax filing.

Bob Tesmer, Mount Prospect, recalls the first lady he helped. "She made only $4,100 and with five children, gets all her withholding tax back. She needs that money. It is a joy to help these people in this way."

Most would probably not have filed for their tax return, if help was not available.

Other men giving their time are Jan Hanson, John Cornwell, and Kenneth Bender, Arlington Heights; Donald Jewart and Roy Olson, Mount Prospect, and Hank Gudrian, Rolling Meadows.

OK Teaching Spouse Policy

The School District 26 Board approved a policy Monday for cases when a man and wife both apply to teach in district schools.

It was decided that each case would be decided upon individually by the board.

Thomas PTA

A panel of District 25 School Board Members will be presented at the Thomas Junior High School PTA meeting on Tuesday, March 25 at 8 p.m. in the cafeteria. This will afford an opportunity to know school board members and make known what parents' concerns are for the district.

After being presented, the board members will answer questions from the audience regarding the district's needs and expectations. This will be an excellent opportunity to learn the answers to such questions as "Where will the Rand Junior High School boundaries be?" and "How does the District stand on curriculum changes?" or any other questions which may have been puzzling us.

Beauty Hints
"BARB" Fehn

About 75% of our young ladies experience the agonizing trail of Acne! Skin glands in their frantic production of oil create an excessive amount which clogs pores and result in blossoming pimples and blackheads. Severe cases should be referred to your doctor or clinic. Their treatment will probably include a proper drying and peeling lotion, diet control, hair care and medicated cosmetics. Acne is not a disease nor a result of uncleanliness! You should wash your face several times a day with fine soap or bacterial cleanser but DO NOT SCRUB!, for fear of irritation. Don't squeeze or pop your pimples! Bacterially dirty hands and fingernails can do untold damage to your face in spreading infection. A lifetime of scars can result!

We thank the gals of Arlington Heights for making The Fawn, "one of our area's most outstanding salons"! We now feature many highly trained and talented stylists! A completely modern salon with the latest of equipment including color machine! Complimentary coffee, the latest magazines, background music. Have you made your hair appointment for next week? We'd love to have you! Call 253-2463. Plenty of convenient parking at Westgate Park & Shop. Campbell & Wilke, Arlington Heights. Open Mon. thru Sat., Tues., Thurs., Fri. evenings.

Mr. and Mrs. Rex Perschbacher

Kimberly Everist Bride Of Rex Perschbacher

An Arlington Heights couple, Mr. and Mrs. Robert Perschbacher, journeyed to Sioux Falls, Iowa, to attend the Jan. 25 wedding of their son, Rex, to Kimberly Everist, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. T. Stephan Everist, Sioux Falls.

The groom is a 1964 graduate of Arlington High School and both he and his bride are recent graduates of Stanford University. The groom also attended Oxford University and is now taking graduate work at the University of Michigan, Ann Arbor.

The Rev. Robert Wright of the Episcopal Church of the Good Shepherd performed the ceremony at a small afternoon wedding held in the home of the bride's parents. Among the guests were the groom's parents and sister, Miss Lisa Perschbacher, Arlington Heights, and now attending the University of Colorado, Boulder, Colo.; an aunt, Mrs. George Arny, Chicago, and his grandmother who resides in Fort Lauderdale, Fla.

FAVORING an old-fashioned wedding theme, the bride wore an ivory lace and silk organza gown featuring a high ribbon neckline and accented by a family heirloom cameo. In her arms she carried a bouquet of long-stemmed red roses.

Enhancing the setting were candle stands garnished with red rose bouquets and a mantel arrangement of the same, all blending uniquely with the colonial decor of the bride's home.

The bride's sister, Miss Anne Everist, attended her as maid of honor. She was attired in an ivory silk blouse which matched the bride's gown and a middy-length skirt of moss green velveteen.

The bridegroom, wearing his grandfather's wedding suit, was attended by Phillip Wallin. The newly wedded couple will make their home in Ann Arbor, Mich.

The Religion of Love

BY PAUL HOPPE
(First in a Series)

Last December I wrote a column on the "new" Religion Department at St. Viator. The department adopted the idea of the Religion of Love, dismissing the Religion of Fear. The department has again changed its courses for the school yeas 1969-1970 on the senior and junior levels.

The policy of having the class three days a week will be kept but the knowledge and experience from the class will change. There are tentatively 23 courses offered. Each will be one semester long.

One of divisions (these are only classifications for this column) is Morality. The first course is in Current Moral Problems. It will deal in a few selected areas of present day concern and relevance in morality.

The second course offered is Moral Decisions, which will treat knowing how I know I'm doing right, and what moral decisions are based on. The course will also discuss the question of New Morality.

ANOTHER division is Being Christian. The Christian in Metropolis will touch on: What is the Christian response to such problems as urban renewal, future of the city, majority-minority relations, problems in industry, race riots, business ethics, black power and student unrest?

The qualities of leadership, courage, and sportsmanship will be discussed in Christian Approach to Athletics. The relevance to adult life and its practice as a part of Christianity are also included.

Does Christian faith demand involvement with the World, or withdrawal from it? Christian Witness in the 20th Century will answer the question. Christianity is not doctrine and dogma, law and precepts. It is the love of others, openness to life, active concern for the world's needs.

Paul Hoppe

WHAT contribution can the Christian make to the revolutionary dynamics of social change in light of his commitments to a gospel of love and service and reverence for the person? The juniors and seniors will find out the answer in the course, The Christian and Revolution. The importance of church history as a key to the understanding of the church today is the study in Christian Roots, a course.

Some of the ideas of theology will be brought back, but with new light. A Survey of Theology will be offered to those interested seniors only, who meet department approval. It will survey Incarnational Theology and current trends in theology.

The God-Faith Problem is a course which will answer what does faith mean? It will also meet the crisis of faith, whether it is death dealing or life giving. Modern atheism and whether we can live with it will also be discussed. What does it mean "to believe?"

ANOTHER course for approved seniors will be one on The Death of God Theology. What is meant by the theology that God is dead is explained by various current theologians will be covered. God-consciousness is also important. Can God be known?

The humanities of religion will be offered. They include Sociology in Religion, Psychology of Religion, Sociology of American Catholicism, Philosophy of Religion, and Religious Sociology of Suburbia.

The Sociology of Religion will deal with an analysis of religion as a social institution, the study of religious groupings and activities, and the study of the Protestants, Catholics, and Jews.

THE PSYCHOLOGY of Religion will talk about the nature of religious experience, the psychological factors in faith, conversion, and religious and mental health. The Sociology of American Catholicism will be the study of the American cultural impact on Catholicism and secularism, specialized movements in the church, and future prospects of American Catholicism.

The Philosophy of Religion will study the nature and function of religion in human life, faith, cult and conscience. Religious Sociology of Suburbia will develop the ideas of growth in suburbia, problems and adjustments, values, secularism versus religion, suburbia as a religious way of life, family, goveroment, and economic life.

RELIGIONS other than Catholicism will also be introduced. There will be a study in Contemporary American Protestantism, such as teachings, rites and practices.

An inquiry into the world's great religions, leading to an understanding and appreciation of their contribution to man's fulfillment will be in the course, The World's Great Religions.

There are also many miscellaneous topics being offered. They include the General Attitudes of Youth, touching the attitudes of young people toward religion and its practice, attitude toward sex, the search for the real, and also drugs, drinking, and the new breed.

Christian Marriage and the Family is open to seniors only. It teaches that Christian marriage is a personal commitment and society, church and each other.

THE CRITICAL problems of the church and possible solutions will be part of The Church Today. The meaning and destiny of man as discussed by Teilhard de Chardin and the full vision of cosmic evolution and then no activity is unrelated to the on-going of creation is the course which is entitled The Phenomenon of Man, by de Chardin.

The seniors can study Existential Thinking and the Modern Novel. It will be a literature involved theology course. The last course is Christian Vocations, studying the involvement in Christian life in the various walks of life.

Thus, Religion will branch out next year. There will be a switch back to academics of religion but this switch will broaden the students knowledge of his religion and become more involved in life.

(Next: Religion is not the only department changing; Math, English and Social Sciences are also.)

Father, Son Night Tonight At Sandburg

A father and son recreation night is scheduled for Carl Sandburg Junior High School in Rolling Meadows, at 8 tonight.

The recreation will be preceded by a meeting for election of PTA officers for the 1969-70 school year.

Boy Scout Troop 168 of Rolling Meadows will provide a color guard.

Refreshments will be served by the Sandburg PTA.

Kicking off the recreation will be the showing of a Chicago Bears game film.

Fathers and boys are to wear gym shoes.

Some Questions On School Dist. 59

What is the role of our newspaper?

Basically, to tell our readers what is happening.

The Day does not exist as a public relations agency for any particular organization. Neither do we deliberately crusade for the sake of crusading.

When we have phone calls and letters from our readers, we try to find out the facts they want to know.

If we do not listen to our readers, look for answers, and tell it like it is, then we are not fulfilling our obligation to our subscribers.

We are free to call, to ask, to question, and then to write. And we intend to keep that freedom.

In our reporting of parent group activities taking place in School District 59, we have told our readers some of the questions that the parents are asking.

THE DAY HAS some questions, too.

We'd like to know:

– Why board members publicly commended William L. Lmkenau, business manager, on Jan. 6, 1969 – and notified him less than two months later that his contract was not being picked up next year?

– Why District 59 also commended Jack Ward, buildings and grounds director, in September – then also notified him in February that they were not renewing his contract?

– Why Wayne Little, former budget committee chairman, was told in September by fellow board members that any questions he had about school operations should go only to Dr. Donald Thomas, district superintendent?

Why Dr. Thomas gave board members, some principals, and The Day a chart on administration costs of District 59 showing budget figures for past years – when actual expenditures for those past years have been available since early fall?

– Why the chart Dr. Thomas handed out showed $263,150 administrative costs for 1967-68 (a budget figure) when audit reports from accountants Peat, Marwick, Mitchell & Co., showed actual expenditures for administration costs during 1967-68 of $307,353.50?

– Why District 59 paid $307,353.50 that year for administration costs – up $99,527.46 from administration costs in 1966-67? And why did District 59 find it necessary to budget $398,700 for the current school year – still another increase? No principals' or teachers' salaries are included in administrative costs; these are paid from instructional salaries accounts.

– Why Dr. Thomas asked the New York Foundation to give the district $22,250 to pay the salary of an ombudsman and his staff who would investigate complaints of people and report directly to the Board of Education?

BOARD MEMBERS DISCUSSED the ombudsman idea on Jan. 20, and asked that they talk about the idea later.

Yet in February, the request for the grant was made, without further board discussion or approval.

And why haven't some of the board members yet seen a copy of the proposal that was given to the foundation?

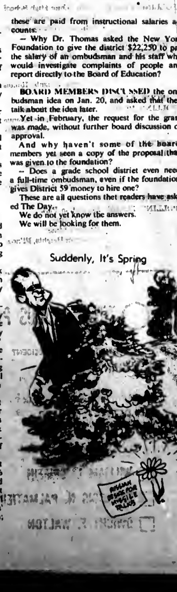
– Does a grade school district even need a full-time ombudsman, even if the foundation gives District 59 money to hire one?

These are all questions that readers have asked The Day.

We do not yet know the answers.

We will be looking for them.

Suddenly, It's Spring



RUSSIAN DESIRE FOR MISSILE TALKS

MARCH

Day by Day

The Answer

By Catherine O'Donnell

Resisting the siren appeal of a near-perfect spring day and the demands of snow battered lawns, 150 members of the St. James Women's Club and their husbands attended a day of recollection in the school hall.

The speaker was Father Rollins Lambert, the pastor of St. Dorothy's Church in Chicago. The church has been in the news recently as the center of much controversy within the Chicago Archdiocese regarding the placement of Negro pastors. Fr. Lambert was compelling and articulate with a great dignity that completely captivated the crowd. He described to his white suburban audience the thinking of the black race and their reasons for the present black militancy and the role of the Catholic Church. He spoke with great understanding for both sides.

He said, quoting another, "I don't think that there are problems of youth or student problems. All the real problems I know are grown-up problems."

The priest, neatly attired in a black suit and the Roman collar, was everyman's picture of a man of God. He said that the same things had been said by Pope John XXIII and by the present Pope in their concern about human life. Here in this country where the church is richer, more powerful than anywhere else in the world, their words, except for the hassle on birth control, were almost totally disregarded.

He accused the white suburbanites of "failure to relate economic and intellectual growth to the human family.

"Rather," he said, "it is personal achievement, acquisition of status symbols--that are important. Spiritual values, even human values are destroyed in the lust for money, power and material things."

WHY HASN'T the Church told us these things?

"It did," he said. "War, never again. No more war," pleaded Pope Paul on his visit to the United Nations; but American Catholics and others go right on supporting a growing stockpile of nuclear weapons, go right on sending our young men to die and to bring death to others in Vietnam. We are too hung up as Catholics on patriotism, on fertility, to bother about human values. It is a rat race, we say, and men are behaving like rats. Is it any wonder that they don't recognize their sons when they try to act like men?"

He went on to the race problem in the U.S. There is a problem for several reasons he said. "One, to justify your hiring me for today and second because it is the primary domestic moral question facing white Americans today," he said.

He said that the first reaction of white people to the present race crisis begins with the phrase, "Why don't they? He said he regards this as an evasion of responsibility. And, he said, responsibility is the key word in dealing with racial crisis. He said that whites look on blacks with the attitude that the latter are inferior human beings, who lack intellectual capacity, moral stamina, human values. Fr. Lambert said that he deliberately left out physical inferiority because that was the reason for slavery in the first place and because blacks have proven their physical superiority on athletic fields.

He said the Catholic Church is really "Irish, Polish, Lithuanian, Italian."

"We've long since forgotten that it was started by a bunch of Palestinian Semites who may have had some black ancestry since their ancestors had lived in Africa for 400 years. Life in the Church, USA has been marked by paternalism."

He said there were 167 black priests in the country and three black pastors in Chicago. He said great talent had been wasted by burying black priests in assignments where they would not offend the sensibilities of biased whites. Poor persons generally are despised in our society, a factor based on what sociologist Max Weber described as "The Protestant ethic," accord to Fr. Lambert.

HARD WORK, cleanliness, success in business were all identified with Christian living and divine approval. Hence a person who is not physically clean or who is shabby is seen as a person reaping the rewards of his own conduct, of his slothfulness or sinfulness. American Catholics share this view, he said. He said that Jesus, in describing the last judgment, identified himself with the homeless, the hungry, the prisoners in jail and said, "What you did to these, the least of my brothers, you do to me."

He said that the fact that the human family finds it almost impossible to admit guilt or a measure of responsibility for the irrational racial attitudes is something that has to be overcome before the America we now know will be destroyed. He said the U.S. has not realized the ideal of democracy, freedom and quality.

He said, "It is not a question of black people having the power to win a civil war. White America has the weapons," he said, "but we can carry on guerilla warfare."

The destruction of freedom would come from white people who are unprepared to come to terms with the black man in America.

"The responsibility for what happens rests with those who have power and those who have Christian ideals of justice, love and equality," Fr. Lambert Said.

"SELF-RIGHTEOUSNESS," self justification are the fundamental enemies of Christianity, because they poison the only ground in which the seed of God's word can grow," Fr. Lambert said.

He ended by saying, "And having said this, let's begin discussion, so that you can defend yourselves from all the nasty things I have said about white suburban American Catholics."

There was not much defense in the ensuing discussion period.

The answer, he said, he doesn't pretent to know.

"But I am convinced of this: a nation that can send men on a journey of millions of miles into space, make them orbit the moon and return to within two miles of a target, a nation that has the know-how to do this can, if it wishes figure out a way to make peace work on this planet. What is missing is the desire to make it work--because what we really desire to do, we can do."

Of special interest at the 11th annual Chicago World Flower & Garden Show, March 22-30 at the International Amphitheatre is this garden named "June Harmony" designed by Harold O. Klopp, Rolling Meadows landscape architect, for the Coca-Cola Bottling Co. of Chicago.

Harold Klopp Designs Garden For Flower Show

A practical, well-designed backyard garden that adds to the excitement of outdoor living in the big city will be put on display by the Coca-Cola Bottling Company of Chicago, at the Chicago World Flower & Garden Show, March 22-30 at the International Amphitheatre. The garden was designed by Harold O. Klopp, Rolling Meadows landscape architect.

Klopp has designed this concentrated patch of nature complete with concrete patio, fruit and shade trees, masses of colorful flowers and a built-in sandbox which can be converted to a planter when the youngsters are older.

Entitled "June Harmony," the garden beautifully blends floral colors with tones of inanimate fixtures such as the grey of the patio with the hues of marigolds and coleus.

IN THE background stands a large corkscrew willow and a maple tree for shade. Two espalier apple trees are framed against the wooden wall and have a clipped cotoneaster hedge as their base. A bird feeding area is set off at one end of the garden by spruce trees and white birch. Masses of pink begonias, zinnias, blue ageratum, snap dragons and marigolds edge the lawn and a large rose bed completes the color scheme.

The theme of this 11th Flower show is "Springtime Festival of Music and Flowers," and many of its 30 major gardens and numerous other exhibits will combine the two art forms in unique, eye-appealing ways. The International Amphitheatre is located at 43rd and Halsted Streets adjoining the famous Stock Yards Inn. It can be reached easily from all expressways leading into the Dan Ryan Expressway and there is protected parking for 6,000 cars.

Arlington Third, Knights Fifth at Demond Relays

By Bill Price

The Maine East Blue Demons played poor hosts to the 11 other teams entered as they literally walked away with their thrid straight meet title in the Blue Demon Relays Saturday.

The hosts compiled a total of 71 points in the indoor track spectacle that accented overall team depth. Their nearest competitor, Niles North, collected only 34 markers. Arlington managed to hold on to third place with 31.5 points while Prospect was the only other area team to crack the top five with a fifth-place showing.

THE BLUE DEMONS' strength was awesome. Jeff Genson set a new record in winning the long jump for the Demons as he sailed 21 feet 4½ inches, breaking the old mark by two inches. John Keane bettered Fremd's Don Pittenger in the mile as both were given identical times of 4:25.5. Bruce Potenza was the other individual winner for the hosts as he cleared 6 foot 1 inch for another record. Altogether there were eight records broken or tied.

The Demons also carded wins in the Freeman four-lap relay, the frosh-soph distance medley, the frosh-soph eight-lap relay, and the varsity two-mile relay. Their strength on the lower levels was invaluable as the three underclass relays insured the victory.

SURPRISINGLY enough, the event that drew the most interest from the fans and coaches was the shot put. Throughout both the preliminaries and finals the shot put area was lined with spectators. Vying for top honors were Paul Tollefson of Arlington and Brian Block of Maine East, both having previously recorded tosses of 57 feet or better.

The state qualifying standard with an outdoor shot is only 53 feet, and the outdoor shot is smaller and much easier to throw. Block led through the preliminaries with a heave of 56 feet 1¼ inches, and few thought that he would be defeated in the finals. On his second throw in the final round, Tollefson hit 56 feet, 2¼ inches, to take the lead.

Block failed to surpass Tollefson on his first two throws, and Tollefson came into the ring for his final throw determined to insure his victory. The judges measured his final toss at 57 feet 0½ inches, a new record.

GARY FAGERSON of Arlington bettered the rest of the field in the pole vault competition as he cleared 13 feet 4 inches. Fagerson was the only one to clear this height, leaving him undefeated thus far in indoor competition. Brad Green of Maine East followed Fagerson in second, while Fagerson's teammate, Fred Harth, took third.

Genson ran into some stiff competition in the long jump as Highland Park's Dale Rosenbaum was just three inches short of Genson's record-breaking leap. Todd Somers of Arlington, hampered by a severely injured ankle, managed a third while Roy Giampoli of Maine East placed fifth.

Potenza had little trouble in winning the high jump as he was the only high jumper left when the bar was raised to six feet. Jeff Meissner of Prospect claimed third place with a jump of 5 feet 10 inches, while Fagerson collected one more point for Arlington as he ended in a tie for fifth.

IN THE 50-yard high hurdles, Wheeling's Nick Silvestri skimmed over the barriers in a near phenomenal 6.3 seconds. This bettered the old relays record of 6.5 set by Arlington's Dave Steele last year. Steele was not ready for the fast pace as he has only been practicing for two weeks since the basketball season ended.

The Cardinal speedster took fourth in the same time he won with last year.

None of the area sprinters could match the 5.5 timing turned in by Howard Klein of Niles North in the 50-yard dash. Dave Hoffman of Maine East reached his season best with a 5.6 as he took second, and Sten Oakley took a fourth for Wheeling with the same time.

It was a race to the wire in the mile as Keane held off all opponents at the end. Len Harrelson, also of the host school ran a 4:26.5 to take third while Al Morrison of Prospect garnered fourth with a fine 4:30.4 timing.

THERE WERE three underclass relays and Maine East won them all. The Demon's freshmen four-lap contingent of Jim Fugimoto, Dave Lampert, Dan Balmes, and Les Leonard set a new meet record with their 1:19.4 timing. Les Jospeh, Mike McCall, Dale Hendricks and Don Ussery combined efforts to cop the frosh-soph eight-lap relay title. In the frosh-soph distance medley relay, the little Demons set another record in outdistancing all competition by almost 15 seconds with their time of 8:34.8.

It was in the two-mile relay that the hosts' strength showed through the most on the varsity level. The Blue Demon foursome of Jim Olson, Bill Newman, John Fisher and Bruce Rutz carded an easy victory en route to a new record of 8:08.6. Rutz's anchor leg was especially devastating as pulled away from his competitors in fine form. Prospect managed a second in this event while Wheeling pulled through in fourth.

Of all the relays contested, the mile relay event was the only one in which the host school failed to place. A foursome from Niles North ran off with first place honors with a fine time of 4:30.6. Plagued by the loss of their number one quartermiler, Wheeling had to settle for second, close behind the winners.

A foursome of Silvestri, Paul Royer, Bill Sommer and Frank Savage copped runnerup honors for the Wildcats. Arlington's contingent of Rick Pelland, Gary Raddeman, Mike Dorley and Joe Hooker followed the 'Cats across the line in third.

Paul Tollefson of Arlington lets go with a mighty heave in the shot put competition at the Blue Demon Relays on Saturday. Tollefsons heave of 57 ft, 0¼ inches, was good enough for both first place and a new record.

Arlington's Gary Fagerson, new to high jumping this year after a successful career in the pole vault, clears the bar Saturday in the Blue Demon Relays, helping the Cards to a third-place showing. (Photo by Neil Krey)

Faculty Whips St. Paul Alums

The faculty team of St. Paul Lutheran School in Mount Prospect defeated the alumni team last night, 72-69. The game was one of the highlights of the school's homecoming weekend.

Also taking place Sunday were volley ball games between the eighth grade boys and their fathers, the eighth grade girls and their mothers and the eighth grade girls and an alumni girls' team. A third grade basketball game, a gymnastics demonstration and the eighth grade basketball team's weekly game were also held. St. Paul's team won their game over St. Andrew of Park Ridge, 31-21.

The alumni team in the basketball game was made up of former St. Paul players. Included on the squad were Mike Korf, Mike Tolzein, Randy Bruescher, Don Bruescher, Bruce Busse, Dave Bach, Roger Lundstrom, Bill Cooper, Rick Potter and Al Willert. Carl Fricke, star of the Wheeling Wildcats this season, was unable to play due to a knee injury.

The faculty team's roster included teachers from area Lutheran grammer schools, the vicar of St. Paul and members of the St. Paul congregation. They were Herb Pinske, Myron Schumacher, Fred Boldt, Cliff Kaufmann, Knudt Knudesn, Phil Posasto, Gayle Manthei, Ron Brandt, Jim Schmit and Bob Helmkamp.

The faculty dominated the first half. The closest the alumni team could come was one point, at 28-27, midway through the second period. The half-time score was 37-30 in favor of the faculty.

The faculty continued to dominate the game through the early second half and at one point in the third period widened their lead to 46-34.

The alumni cut the faculty's lead until it stood at four, 64-60, with three minutes remaining but the teachers held during the final minutes to win, 72-69.

High scorers for the faculty were Schumacher with 20, Pinske with 17 and Boldt with 12. Korf, a sophomore at Prospect High led the losers with 24.

Ray Eliot to Speak At Knights' Banquet

Prospect High School will present Ray Eliot as their guest speaker for tomorrow night's winter sports banquet.

Eliot is the Associate Director of Athletics at the University of Illinois. He retired in 1960 from active coaching after 28 years of service, 23 of which were at his alma mater, Illinois.

As head football coach at Illinois from 1942 through 1959, Eliot won or shared three Big Ten titles, and produced decisive victories in the two Rose Bowl games in which is teams appeared. Earlier, while serving as one of Bob Zuppke's line coaches, he also was head hockey coach and assistant baseball coach.

Among the many awards this man has earned are the presidency of the American Football Coaches Association in 1955-56, the Los Angeles Times' Coach of the Year Award in 1951, being named to the Helms Hall of Fame in 1956, the Alonzo Staea Award in 1961, the Chicago Midwest Writers Coach of the Year Award in 1959, and being given an honorary life membership in the American Football Coaches Association in 1965.

Eliot has been asked to coach several all-star teams. Among them the Chicago Tribune All-Star game; 4 as times coach of East-West Shrine game in San Francisco; 4 as times coach of the Blue-Gray game in Montgomery, Ala; 2 as times coach of the North-South Shrine game in Miami, Fla., and several times selected as the national coach of the week.

Eliot's reply to such a record is his dedicated assignment in life as "a builder of fine men."

According to Prospect Athletic Director George Gattas, about 700 persons will attend the banquet to hear Eliot's speech, entitled "Something to Think About."

All-American Bill Zadel Returns With 'Fete' Talk

Bill Zadel, 1961 graduate of Prospect High School, will speak tomorrow night at the Hersey High School Winter Sport Awards Banquet.

Zadel, who was chosen as an All-American tackle while at West Point, and who is now a recruiting officer in Chicago, was center for the unbeaten Knight football team of 1960 and was also center for Dick Kinneman's 26-2 basketball squad the same year.

Kinneman is now athletic director at Hersey, and Zadel is keeping in trim, at least in the fall, by playing for the Lake County Rifles, a semi-pro football team based in Waukegan.

Ice Hockey Stars Hull, Mikita At Novak and Parker Tonight

Novak and Parker, to help celebrate their 20th anniversary of Kitchen Aid Dishwashers, will present Chicago Black Hawk stars Stan Mikita and Bobby Hull at 1016 E. Northwest Hwy., Mount Prospect, tonight from 7:30-9:30.

Mikita and Hull will give away autographed photos of themselves and autographed hockey sticks will be available for $2 each.

AS A special attraction, four tickets to a Black Hawk game will be awarded at the close of the evening.

Hull is the only hockey player to ever score more than 50 goals in one season. He has had seasons of 54, 52, and 50 goals.

Last Thursday night against the Boston Bruins, Hull tied and then broke his National Hockey League season goals record in just 13 seconds. He racked up his 55th goal for the season, beating his old record of 54 and setting himself a new record.

Hull's two goals also gave him the right to join his former teammate, Phil Esposito, in the exclusive 100-point club. The 100 points includes both his goals and assists.

Mikita previously co-held with Hull the record of total goals and assists in one season with 97. Mikita has also been the winner of the Lady Byng trophy for the last two years. The Lady Byng trophy is awarded to the player who spends the least amount of time in the penalty box through the season.

Kirchoff in Big 10 Gym Finals

The Michigan State Spartans go into the 61st annual Big 10 gymnastics championship meet as defending champion along with Michigan and Iowa. Graduation and injury has taken a heavy toll of Spartan athletes and removed them as a team contender.

Coach George Szypula will take 12 performers to Michigan's University Events Building. Among the 12 will be area gymnast, John Kirchoff, a graduate of Maine East.

Kirchhoff was awarded his varsity monogram in gymnastics this season.

Fire Destroys Apartments

Men from 4 Communities Fight Meadows Blaze

Flames and ashes are all that are left of an apartment building last night as the flames spread to the next structure. Three of the buildings, located at Plum Grove Rd. and Euclid in Rolling Meadows, were destroyed totally and two others were damaged extensively in the fire that caused more than $1 million damage. (Photo by Curt Wilson)

By Curt Wilson

A blaze that totally destroyed three apartment buildings under construction and damaged another two last night lit the skies over Rolling Meadows with an orange glow that was seen for miles.

The fire was reported at 7:58 p.m. at the King's Walk Apartments construction site at Plum Grove Rd. and Euclid Av.. Within three minutes, firefighting units from Arlington Heights, Mount Prospect and Palatine were called to the scene.

A fireman and a Civil Defense volunteer were injured.

Chief Thomas Fogarty of the Rolling Meadows Fire Department said arson is being considered as the cause of the massive blaze, but "we don't know yet."

Fogarty said he expects to inspect the ruins today with State Deputy Fire Marshall Harry Schaeffer.

Firemen said a butane tank in one building may have exploded, touching off the blaze which reportedly could be seen for several miles.

By 8:10 p.m. the roof of one of the nearly-completed buildings had collapsed, sending a shower of sparks over the area, and the fire had spread to neighboring buildings.

Snorkel and aerial trucks were brought to the scene, but a gusty wind mixed with sleet impeded the progress of the firemen as the blaze raged out of control.

"The wind," said Fogarty was a factor in losing so much." The chief added that the lack of access roads within the complex and mud around the buildings also caused problems.

The fire was reported by a passerby who phoned the police department through the operator.

A representative of the owners of the apartment complex declined to make a damage estimate after the blaze was brought under control. Firemen remained at the scene throughout the night.

Although the main part of the fire was brought under control soon after 10 p.m., the Rolling Meadows force labored until well after midnight to extinguish the last bursts of flame.

In addition to the firemen sent from the three neighboring towns, generator trucks from Civil Defense Units in Rolling Meadows and Skokie were sent to help fight the fire.

An Arlington Heights fireman, Richard Frost, was taken to Northwest Community Hospital, as was Rolling Meadows Civil Defense worker Gene Tousey.

Both men were treated for injuries to their feet and were released. Frost caught his foot in a ladder and Tousey stepped on a nail.

A spokesman for the Rolling Meadows Fire Department said early today that the damage was estimated already at more than $1 million, but he said that that figure could go higher, depending on how far the buildings were in their construction and the extent of the damage to the two buildings that were not totally destroyed.

FOGARTY pointed out that regular fire inspections had been made at the complex during various phases of construction. The seven building complex, containing 138 units, was scheduled to open in May.

Last night's fire interrupted a meeting of fire district trustees who were discussing the possible purchase of new fire equipment. The decision to buy two new trucks was made shortly before the chief and six of his men were called to the fire scene.

The blaze was the second fire at an apartment complex under construction in little more than a month. On Feb. 21, fire caused $700,000 damage to a building in the Three Fountains at Plum Grove subdivision, 5001 Carriage Way.

A $300,000 blaze March 15 destroyed the Armanetti Liquor store in the Market Plaza Shopping Center.

Three firemen work from the ground to bring under control a fire that did more than $1 million damage to the King's Walk Apartments, which had been under construction at Plum Grove Rd. and Euclid. A fourth works from an aerial ladder.

Officials Expect Aid Increase To End School Fund Problems

By Richard Crabb

Northwest suburban school officials generally agreed late Monday that the $150 increase per pupil in state aid proposed early yesterday by the Schools Problem Commission in Springfield would remove most cirtical financial problems facing school districts for the 1969-70 school year.

Rep. Eugenia Chapman (D-Arlington Heights), floor spokesman for her party on educational matters, confirmed from Springfield that the School Problems Commission had recommended an increase in per pupil state aid equalization from the present rate of $400 to $550 with a 90 cent qualifying figure. The commission also recommended that state aid payments to schools be based on enrollment rather than attendance and that the flat contribution per student to high schools be increased by 25 per cent.

Rep. Chapman said that the increase in state aid would require an additional $400 million in the state budget which Gov. Richard B. Ogilvie is scheduled to discuss before a joint session of the House and Senate on April 1. The question of financing the increase in school aid, Rep. Chapman said, had been discussed with the governor's office before the School Problems Commission issued its recommendations.

"This proposal of $550 state aid will offer a substantial help to our local elementary schools districts in the northwest suburbs," said Rep. Chapman. "The proposal to base state aid payments on student enrollment rather than daily attendance will benefit suburban schools to some degree but this will be most helpful to the Chicago schools."

"The educational task force had recommended an increase to $600, but I know that the School Problems Commission had to take a great many things into consideration in reaching its recommendations. Even the increase to $550 involved a very large addition to the state budget and until we have the governor's budget message we do not know how the administration proposes to raise the $400 million that will be required to implement the recommendation."

REP. CHAPMAN said that the flat payment of $46 per pupil, which under the present program of state aid is paid to both elementary schools and high schools, would be changed under the new recommendations. High schools which generally do not share in the equalization program would be granted a

Educational Ombudsman Plan Not A New Idea

By Jan Bone
Second in a Series

The position of educational ombudsman being talked about in School District 59 is not a new idea.

The World Book Dictionary defines the term as "a public official appointed to investigate the rights of citizens" in Scandanavian countries and in New Zealand. Its literal meaning is "grievance man."

Bernard Friedberg, executive with the New York Foundation, which is deciding whether to give District 59 the $22,250 it wants to pay for an ombudsman next year, said that a school district within the New York City system has an ombudsman right now—paid for out of tax money.

But in Illinois, "to the best of my knowledge," according to State Rep. Eugenia Chapman (D-Arlington Heights), "there is no ombudsman now employed in any school district in the State of Illinois."

MRS. CHAPMAN has prepared a bill which would authorize schools to employ such a person to represent students and parents before the board of education, but she has not yet introduced it.

On Feb. 21, District 59 gave the New York Foundation a proposal and a request for $22,250 to pay for appointing an educational ombudsman for the 1969-70 school year.

Here is the complete text of that proposal:

"The problem: The increasing complexity of public education has created difficulties on the part of private citizens in dealing with school districts.

"Parents are at times afraid to express their complaints to school personnel because they fear reprisals to their children.

"The Boards of Education, as well as school administrators, do not always have the time, the ability or the inclination to investigate fully complaints which come to their attention.

"If boards of education are to be fully informed about recurring difficulties, they must have available to them, an officer who can perform such duties as will assist private citizens to receive justice and remediation when necessary.

"The objectives of this proposal are: To appoint an Educational Ombudsman directly responsible to the board of education who will: Investigate the complaint of any person who alleges that he believes to have been subjected to improper or unfair treatment.

"INVESTIGATE charges that children have been mistreated or denied any right or benefit to which they are entitled,

"Review cases where services to children or parents are being unreasonably delayed.

"Make periodic reports to the Board of Education,

"Make recommendations to the Board of Education concerning the matters brought to the ombudsman's attention by private citizens,

"Publish an annual report to the citizenry concerning his office and the affairs he has investigated."

The proposal also would be to "study and evaluate the implications of this office in public education and to make recommendations for its future."

"In addition, the superintendent of schools and the ombudsman shall arrange to have the Elk Grove Training and Development Center evaluate the office and its implications.

"The evaluation design shall be developed by Dr. Rafael Lewy, research associate, Training and Development Center.

"The evaluation report shall be made public. Copies of it shall be distributed to other governmental units.

Salaries are listed in the proposal. They include $12,000 educational ombudsman; $5,000 secretary; $2,500 fringe benefits; total $19,500.

Office equipment, $800; supplies, $300; telephone; $250. Total, $1,350.

MISCELLANEOUS Expenses: annual report, $750; travel, $400; incidentals, $250. Total, $1,400.

"Grand total, $22,250."

Sanitary District Promises No Further Creek Pollution

By Ted Lacey

Mount Prospect officials were assured yesterday that the Metropolitan Sanitary District will not further pollute Weller Creek as had been feared.

It was learned, however that the MSD has no definite plan yet for quelling the flood and pollution problems in this area, including Mount Prospect, Arlington Heights and Des Plaines.

The spokesman for the MSD was General Supt. Vinton Bacon.

Also attending the meeting with Mount Prospect officials were Ben Sosewitz, operating engineer for the MSD; Acting Chief Engineer Forest Neil for the MSD, Benn J. Lelane, the engineer in charge of the Chicago office of the Illinois Sanitary Water Board, and Consulting Engineer William Bauer, who has prepared engineering studies for both the MSD and Mount Prospect.

Mount Prospect Mayor Daniel Congreve and Manager Robert Moore called the meeting to talk about the plan to force sewage from village sewers into the MSD's interceptor that runs through Mount Prospect, Arlington Heights and Des Plaines.

THE VILLAGE is building lift stations to raise sewage to a greater height before dumping it down into the interceptor. This will exert greater pressure on the interceptor, causing it to receive and transport more sewage and helping prevent back-ups in Mount Prospect homes.

The lift stations are to help solve the village's problems in newer parts of the village that have separated storm water and sanitary sewers.

The older combined sewer systems have overflow devices to permit storm water and sewage to by pass the interceptor and flow into Weller Creek when the interceptor is filled to capacity. This prevents backing up in homes, but creates a condition "like an open sewer" in the creek, according to Congreve.

The problem with Mount Prospect's separated sewer system, Congreve said, is that the sanitary interceptor already is full of Arlington Heights sewage by the time it comes to Mount Prospect.

The condition is aggravated during storms because much rain water is entering sanitary sewers through illegal connections and through ground water seepage, Congreve said.

Congreve and Moore asked, and received, assurance from Bacon that what Mount Prospect perfects its methods of stuffing its sewage into the MSD's interceptor that the MSD will not relieve the pressure by letting it spill into Weller Creek like the village's combined sewers are doing.

If the MSD did provide a pressure release into Weller Creek it would minimize the problems Des Plaines would be likely to suffer from having no place to put its sewage except the Des Plaines River.

"That would get the MSD off the hook," Congreve said, "but emptying sewage into the creek is illegal."

The Illinois Sanitary Water Board has made it illegal to further pollute natural waterways and is requiring that all present pollution be cleaned up.

MOUNT PROSPECT officials also have said that the surcharging of the interceptor by Mount Prospect's lift stations may force the MSD into taking some constructive action in solving flooding and

Study Urged on Aid To Non-Public Schools

By Jan Bone

A bill creating a commission to study non-public schools and providing $50,000 for its costs was introduced Monday in the Illinois House of Rapresentativas by Rep. Eugene Schilckman(R-Arlington Heights).

Schlickman's bill would set up a commission of five members from the House, five from the Senate, and four "public" members.

They would completa their raport to tha General Assembly no later than Feb. 1, 1971.

The commission would conduct a study of non-public alamentary and sacondary schools throughout Illinois.

It would consider:

—The role and needs of the non-public schools;

—How non-public schools car be appropriately related to the public schools without impairment of their freedom;

—The constitutional means by which the state can aid the non-public alementary and secondary schools in the fulfillment of their tasks.

SCHLICKMAN, whose childran attend parochial schools in Arlington Heights, is sponsor of the bill.

Other sponsors ara State Raprasentatives Gene Hoffman (R-Elmhurst), Fred Tuarck (R-Peoria), Edward Warman (D-Skokie) and Arthur Berman (D-Chicago).

Schlickman told The Day that two other bills have been introduced which deal with children attending non-public schools.

On Jan. 8, State Representative Theodore Meyer (R-Chicago) introduced House a bill which would give state grants to parents or guardians of children attanding non-public schools.

The grants would be made in "an amount which is lesser of the payment made to enroll the child in the non-public school or the additional amount of stata aid to which the appropriate school district would have been entitled if tha child had been attending public school."

No specific amount was recommended, because Meyer had no estimate of costs.

Schlickman said that Meyer's bill had not yet been called for committee hearings.

On March 19, Rep. Edward Copeland (R-Chicago), introduced a bill which would provide for an annual tuition grant to Illinois residents who were students at approved non-public elementary and secondary schools.

Copeland's bill would grant $50 to each elementary student, $100 to each secondary school student.

Copeland's bill would ask the state to appropriate $35 million annually for the tuition grants, and an additional $500,000 annually for administration.

Aid Hike Expected to Ease Bind

25 per cent increase in the pupil fee.

There were some indications in school officials' reactions which indicated that the proposed increase in state aid would make it unnecessary for some districts to seek voter approval of increases in real estate taxes to support school programs in 1969-70. Elk Grove District 59 is one of the districts which might be able to avoid a referendum later this year if the higher level of state aid materializes.

Dr. Donald Strong, superintendent of School District 25 in Arlington Heights, upon learning of the recommendation for the large increase in stata aid, cautioned that there are many hurdles to be met in the legislature and the governor's office before the state aid program becomes final. Strong, however, ragarded the recommendation made yesterday as a favorable indication for higher state aid, adding "I am delighted that the important Schools Problems Commission has taken this action and recommended this substantial increase in school aid for the 1969-70 year. This type of increase would provide our District 25 some real help, but it would still leave us with some work to do."

In District 23, Prospect Heights, Superintendent Edward Grodsky said that his reaction would depend upon the qualifying rate, saying that .94 would be "all right."

When told that the qualifying rate proposed was .90, and the per pupil aid $550, he said, "The $550 at .90 would be great assets. I'd be delighted, because it would give some direction where we could go."

"In our district, if our 21-cent tax increase passes, this could mean going from 70 per cent to 50 per cent of tax anticipation warrants next year."

Grodsky added, "The thing is, we have to keep our fingers crossed on where the state is going to get this revenue."

Sanitary District Promises No Further Creek Pollution

Metropolitan Sanitary District General Supt. Vinton Bacon told Mount Prospect officials in a meeting yesterday the MSD would not further pollute Weller Creek.

pollution problems in the area.

The conditions not getting any better either. "Every day the MSD is issueing permits for connection to the interceptor," Congreve said.

"In two years this whole area will be inundated."

Mount Prospect, in seeking professional aid to solve its own problems, commissioned Consulting Engineer William J. Bauer of Bauer Engineering, Chicago, to prepare two studies.

The first study recommends constructing a 40-acre retension basin on an 80-acre parcel of land north of Central Rd. The basin, to cost around $7.2 million, would retain water during a storm until the level of Weller Creek lowered enough to take it. An adjoining treatment plant would help curb pollution from sewage that was mixed with the storm water.

The second Bauer study recommended partially closing street drains to permit only a calculated amount of storm water to get into sewers. The idea is to let the lower streets in town act as temporary retention basins to prevent sewer drains in basements from backing up.

At yesterday's meeting, Bauer said his recommendations were based on the assumption that the MSD would proceed with a plan he had proposed to gouge a huge underground tunnel out of the bedrock. Bauer suggested this tunnel serve to store and treat storm water and sewage.

THOUGH THE MSD has prepared engineering studies on the project and the matter has been knocking around for many months, the MSD board has not decided whether to adopt the "deep tunnel plan" as official policy.

Bacon said yesterday that the MSD has no official policy on cleaning up flooding and pollution problems here.

Because Bauer's two studies depend upon the deep tunnel plan for their implementation and because the deep tunnel plan seems indefinitely shelved, Mount Prospect cannot use Bauer's recommendations for helping to solve the village's problems.

Village officials and members of the Drainage and Clean Streams Commission have expressed increasing suspicion of Bauer, since he assured them the deep tunnel plan would be adopted by the MSD and that the MSD probably would pay for the construction of the retention basin and treatment plant north of Central Rd. in Mount Prospect.

This suspicion was intensified recently when Moore reported that he received two phone calls from Bauer who suggested that overflow from sanitary sewers be dumped into Weller Creek rather than forced into the MSD's interceptor by stations.

Bauer claims he made no such recommendations.

"We discussed this, but I made no recommendations," Bauer told The Day. "What I said was that the creek will be polluted regardless of the lift stations. Overflows would continue."

CONGREVE SAID the MSD has two choices in solving flooding and pollution troubles: build a new interceptor or control the amount of sewage and water getting into the system.

He suggested limiting the amount of sewage and water each town can put into the interceptor.

2d Education Investment Program Thurs.

The Teacher Parent Council will meet at 7:45 p.m. Thursday in the Prospect High School fieldhouse for the second in a series of sessions on "Look at Your Educational Investment."

During this meeting, parents will learn how student progress is evaluated. After this session, parents will have conferences with teachers in classrooms.

All Candidates Set to Appear At LWV Forum

Every candidate seeking a village, park board or library office in the April elections in Arlington Heights will appear at the candidates night to be held at 8 p.m. tomorrow by the Arlington Heights League of Women Voters.

The candidates forum will be held in the Miner Junior High School cafeteria.

Mrs. Bert Thompson will be moderator for the event. Mrs. William Trevor, League president, said that this will be the first opportunity for residents of the village to see and hear all of the candidates.

"With the elections heating up," said Mrs. Trevor, "even those who have heard the candidates before may wish to hear them again and ask questions about particular issues."

Way Cleared for 5 Extra Rand Jr. High Classrooms

The board of education of School District 25, in its final March meeting held last night in the administration center at 301 W. South, discussed the district boundaries of the new Rand Junior High School, cleared the way for immediate construction of a new pod of five additional classrooms for the school and heard the new school's principal, Dr. Todd Fouty, give his first report on how the school will be operated.

The new Rand Junior High School is scheduled to open next September. Although some contracts are still to be let, it is hoped that the additional pod of five classrooms can be completed along with the remainder of the new school.

BOUNDARIES FOR the new junior high school are being developed with a view to reducing the severe overcrowding existing at Thomas Junior High School which is also located on the north side of the village.

Fouty told the board that the new design of the Rand school will open the way to more individual student instruction than has been possible in other schools.

James Montgomery, curriculum director for District 25, reported on plans for summer school. An increase in summer school enrollment is expected. Summer classes last year attracted 500 students.

Both remedial and enrichment type of classes will be offered this summer. Last summer the ratio of remedial to enrichment classes was approximately 3 to 2.

DISTRICT 25 board meetings will be held on a special schedule in April. The first meeting will be held at 9 a.m. Saturday, April 19. This will be the organizational meeting following the annual spring election at which two new members will be named to the board.

Incumbent members, Beth Hamilton and James Penn, are running unopposed for the two three-year terms that are to be filled at the Arpil 12 election.

The second meeting of the board will be held April 28, and this meeting will be a visitation session and will take place at the Greenbrier School on the north side of the village.

More Changes in St. Viator Curriculum

By Paul Hoppe
(Last of Two Parts)

Yesterday's column mentioned that the Department of Religion had changed greatly. The English Department is also changing. Although the classes will be five days a week, they will be divided into two courses, one three days a week and one two days.

The upperclassmen will again be able to choose elective courses that will meet two days a week. The three-day course for seniors will be a Humanities course, jointly sponsored by the English and Social Science departments. It will feature guest speakers followed by class discussions. The junior course will be in American Literature.

THERE ARE seven elective courses available for the upperclassmen. The first is a course in creative writing. This course is offered for those students interested in personal self-expression through the written word.

Techniques involved in the writing of fiction and poetry will be studied through student creations and mutual self-criticism. This course will be, as far as possible, conducted in a seminar fashion.

There will be a course in film study. The techniques, themes, and influences of the film will base the course. Evaluative criteria of motion pictures will be stressed.

Some of the more significant American and foreign films will be viewed and discussed.

A COURSE is planned for students not intending to attend college. It will review some of the more important points of English grammar and composition. Emphasis will be placed on practicality rather than theory.

The principles and methods of public oral expression will be offered next year as a speech course. Emphasis will be placed on clarity, economy, and persuasiveness. Effective expression is vitally important in the world today.

SOME OF the great critical works of the Western world will be covered in the course on schools of criticism. Authors to be covered will include Philip Sidney, Alexander Pope, Samuel Johnson, William Wordsworth, P. B. Shelley, Matthew Arnold, Tolstoi, and F. R. Leavis.

The course studies the works of these men and discussion follows on the thought and theories of evaluation.

Mass media is important in the world today. Therefore, the communication arts course for next year is quite relevant. The course will study the evaluating of different types of information and entertainment as received through mass media. Included in the studies are the newspaper, comic strips, radio, television, magazines, and non-fiction.

THE LAST course being offered is in drama. The purpose of the course, which will be a survey, will be to study historically and aesthetically the drama from the Greeks to the present.

There will be reading of plays from each of the great literary epochs. In addition to the dramatic genres, certain criticisms will be read.

FOR THE underclassmen, there will be a similar set-up stressing composition and grammar.

The mathematics department is initiating two new elective courses in probability and statistics and historical mathematics. They must be taken together as one full year course.

There are strict prerequisites for these courses. Math-science students must have maintained a "B" or better in third year math, or have approval from Terrence Hooten, department chairman.

For non-math students, a B-Honor Roll status three out of four semesters during sophomore and junior year.

THE COURSE in probability will treat probability theory and its relationships to statistics with applications. The Historical Mathematics will treat math and science as it has emerged through the ages.

In social sciences there are three semester courses available and one two-semester course. Advanced U. S. history will take only superior students and study in depth our country's history in areas such as foreign policy, labor, industrialism, cultural heritage and technology.

HUMAN ECOLOGY is a full year course studying the integrated aspects of world geography, anthropology, sociology with in-depth studies of 15 to 20 varied and complex culture groups. Emphasis is on map work, agriculture of the areas studied, and local customs and traditions.

The second semester course is on problems in U. S. history. It will cover the social and psychological problems emphasized with current events playing a large part.

THE LAST, and perhaps most interesting, course will be Afro-American History.

Paul Hoppe

(And we didn't have to boycott!)

The history of the Negro in America and the influence of his culture on many American developments will be examined. This is the first course being offered in the District 214 area in Afro-American History. Forest View has one in independent study.

All of these courses are tentative. The decision to hold a course will depend on the number of students that are interested.

An important part of the programming is to allow the students to take courses that interest them, not because they have to. Each course selection must be okayed by a teacher in the department. Students will not be able to take courses that they have no ability for.

Day by Day

Yankee Doodle Dandy

By Catherine O'Donnell

There is a restaurant devoted to tasty hamburgers called the Yankee Doodle on Northwest Hwy. just off Main in Mount Prospect.

Owner Jim Naumica has chosen a red, white and blue decor which sometimes automatically starts customers humming a Sousa number. Jim also is fond of having his young helpers follow a precise routine in waiting on the customers.

The other day a local man hurried in for a cup of coffee. There was one boy working. He went to the first window and the young boy attendant sent him to the second window, explaining that the latter was where the orders were given and the former was where they were picked up.

"One cup of coffee, black", ordered the man at the proper window.

"One cup of coffee, black" ordered the boy into the public address system which bellowed the order.

The boy then took the money, made change and directed the man over to the pick-up window. Then the attendant went to the coffee urn, poured the cup of coffee and handed it to the fascinated customer who admits he's never heard anyone give himself an order on the P.A. system before.

THE FLAG IS STILL THERE

To all of the residents who have noticed that the flag in front of the Northern Illinois Farmers Mutual Insurance on Northwest Hwy. was missing, hear this.

The flag, which was stolen by some nut or nuts on March 17, has been replaced by Manager Edward Bieg.

He writes, "Apparently someone does not agree with our patriotic endeavors and saw fit to steal our flag."

That was a mild reaction to the theft of the flag, which shines like a beacon right through each night, properly lighted, of course.

CONGRATULATIONS TO THE WENZEL STUBNERS

The Wenzel Stubners of N. Dunton probably are the happiest couple in town. They are celebrating their 50th wedding anniversary and the subsequent birthday of their son Jim, of Summit, N. J., on the same day.

They've also just learned that they have a brand new granddaughter, Amy, and now when they read this item, they'll know that their neighbors are basking in the reflected glow of their happiness. The residents on N. Dunton are just as happy for the Stubners as if they'd all been at the wedding in 1919.

A little note from one of the friendly neighbors wants the following message inserted as a surprise to the nice couple.

"The friends and neighbors of the 1400 block on N. Dunton, Arlington Heights, would like to extend their congratulations and best wishes to Mr. and Mrs. Wenzel Stubner on their 50th wedding anniversary."

Congratulations for being happily married for 50 years and for picking a street to live on filled with nice neighbors.

THIS IS IMPARTIAL?

Tom Hanlon, staunch supporter and dedicated worker for the campaign of his wife, Jean Hanlon, who is running for trustee of the village as an independent, would like to point out that he was not happy to discover that the opponent party of caucus candidates is not as impartial as they'd like to appear.

"I was working in the Virginia Terrace section on Sunday," he said. "At one house the residents showed me the campaign material they'd received. It contained the Republican ticket township material wrapped around the Caucus Party material, evidently delivered by the same person. It was distributed in the same way to every house on N. Illinois. There has been so much talk about how uncommitted to National party lines the Caucus Party is that I think someone should get to the grass roots and inform the ones delivering the material that it would make them all look more impartial and honest if they at least pretended to be disconnected."

And he added, "Who's fooling who or whom?"

YOU'LL NEVER BELIEVE

Linda Hamilton is the very capable, very conscientious sports editor of The Day. Consequently, she is the recipient of many letters containing sports news.

In a conversation with George Gattas of the Prospect High School Department of Phys Ed and Athletics, she assured him she would use the story they were talking about as soon as it came. He said he had put it in the mail that day. The letter didn't arrive the next day as expected and the story did not appear.

It arrived the following day. It had been mailed on the day the coach said he'd sent it, March 19 with a Mount Prospect postal mark. It was addressed correctly to the Arlington Heights Day office. It was also marked with the postal stamp of Boston, Mass., dated March 20. The letter sent from Mount Prospect had been sent to Massachusetts by the post office and subsequently back to Arlington Heights. You see, many things can happen to a story, 'twixt the telling and the printing.

Poems Tell Stories

Talk with a Teacher

By Esther F. Culton

In a previous column I reviewed for you the book "Columbus Sails" and perhaps by now you have obtained the book from the library and experienced with Columbus that trip across the Atlantic Ocean to the shores of America. Poems, also, sometimes tell stories, and here is an entirely different, "just for fun," poem for you to enjoy. The famous baseball classic, "Casey At the Bat." If you like, we will bring you "Casey's Revenge" and "Casey -- Twenty Years Later." "Casey At the Bat" was written by Ernest Lawrence Thayer.

CASEY AT THE BAT

It looked extremely rocky for the Mudville nine that day;
The score stood two to four, with but an inning left to play.
So, when Cooney died at second, and Burrows did the same,
A pallor wreathed the features of the patrons of the game.

A straggling few got up to go, leaving there the rest,
With that hope which springs eternal within the human breast.
For they thought, "If only Casey could get a whack at that,"
They'd put even money, now, with Casey at the bat.

But Flynn preceded Casey, and likewise so did Blake,
And the former was a pudd'n, and the latter was a fake,
So on that stricken multitude a deathlike silence sat;
For there seemed but little chance of Casey's getting to the bat.

But Flynn let drive a "single," to the wonderment of all,
And the much-despised Blakey "tore the corner off the ball."
And when the dust had lifted, and they saw what had occurred,
There was Blakey safe at second, and Flynn a-huggin' third.

Then from the gladdened multitude went up a joyous yell —
It rumbled in the mountaintops, it rattled in the dell;
It struck upon the hillside and rebounded on the flat;
For Casey, mighty Casey, was advancing to the bat.

There was ease in Casey's manner as he stepped into his place,
There was pride in Casey's bearing and a smile on Casey's face;
And when responding to the cheers he lightly doffed his hat,
No stranger in the crowd could doubt 'twas Casey at the bat.

Ten thousand eyes were on him as he rubbed his hands with dirt,
Five thousand tongues applauded when he wiped them on his shirt;
Then when the writhing pitcher ground the ball into his hip,
Defiance glanced in Casey's eye, a sneer curled Casey's lip.

And now the leather-covered sphere came hurtling through air,
And Casey stood a-watching it in haughty grandeur there.
Close by the sturdy batsman the ball unheeded sped;
"That's not my style," said Casey. "Strike one," the umpire said.

From the benches, black with people, there went up a muffled roar,
Like the beating of the storm waves on the stern and distant shore.
"Kill him! Kill the umpire!"
And it's likely they'd have killed him had not Casey raised his hand.

With a smile of Christian charity great Casey's visage shone;
He stilled the rising tumult, he made the game go on;
He signaled to the pitcher, and once more the spheroid flew;
But Casey still ignored it, and the umpire said, "Strike two."

"Fraud!" cried the maddened thousands, and the echo answered "Fraud!"
But one scornful look from Casey and the audience was awed;
They saw his face grow stern and cold, they saw his muscles strain,
And they knew that Casey wouldn't let the ball go by again.

The sneer is gone from Casey's lips, his teeth are clenched in hate,
He pounds with cruel vengeance his bat upon the plate;
And now the pitcher holds the ball, and now he lets it go,
And now the air is shattered by the force of Casey's blow.

Oh, somewhere in this favored land the sun is shining bright,
The band is playing somewhere, and somewhere hearts are light;
And somewhere men are laughing, and somewhere children shout,
But there is no joy in Mudville: — Mighty Casey has struck out.

Butterfly For Your Finger Daisies In Your Ears

Jackie Davis, a cheerleader at Forest View High School, found just the right pair of fashionably large "shades" at the new Chest of Jewels, Northpoint Center. It was our good luck that Jackie also happens to do modeling in her spare time. (Photo by Altman)

By Frances Altman

What can be more fun and frivolous than wearing a butterfly ring on your finger or tiny green daisies in your ears? Such fanciful pieces of jewelry are practically guaranteed to chase away the winter blues and set any woman on the road to a livelier spring.

One of the widest selections of these bright new fashion accessories is available at the newly opened Chest of Jewels in North Point Shopping Center, Arlington Heights. The shop is the first such jewelry outlet by this name in Chicagoland and caters to the fun and whim of costume jewelry for women ages 7 to 70.

"This spring we're having an invasion of bugs, beetles and insects," points out Mrs. Barb Schiavo, the shop's manager, referring to the bright fuschia and pistachio, orange and yellow dragonflies, butterflies, spiders and bees in all sizes, some enameled, others with pearl bodies.

FLOWER POWER is still at its peak as evidenced by the hundreds of bright and varied shapes of flower earrings and pins from fresh mod styles to delicate look-alikes.

"The antique look is also back this spring," comments Mrs. Schiavo. The old-fashioned girl might prefer to call it the return of sentimentality. Since the shop opened one of the most frequent requests from local women has been for costume bracelets. Priced under $2 Chest of Jewels offers antique, Spanish, pearl, gold and silver mesh styles, all with safety chains which give them a certain distinguished look.

Among other new items in women's jewelry are the cleverly disguised "ring watches" which are challenging "mother's rings" as the latest in dinner rings. The younger set, however, is turning to "silly rings," "clover rings," "love and peace rings" or for the girl with a favorite fellow, the new "his" and "her" friendship rings.

ANOTHER highlight at Chest of Jewels is their mod corner featuring mod watches, clocks and bands. Surprisingly, mod watches are ideal for both Moms and teenagers, for there are styles to match every mood.

Mrs. Schiavo wears a "quiet" mod watch snapped to a narrow brown suede band. When her 10-year-old daughter wants to wear it, she quickly snaps it onto a wide red or striped band and its entire character has changed. To satisfy the most budget-minded, all their bands cost less than one dollar. They also carry a wide selection of Spiedel and Timex replacement bands and offer, as one of their customer services, removing links while you wait. Engraving is another while-you-wait service.

For those who may not have noticed, the faces of mod watches are not all loud colors or bold numerals. Instead, there are many conservative and ordinary watch faces. Mrs. Schiavo urges their customers to first choose the watch face they like. Then should they not care for the accompanying band, another style may be selected.

BOYS, TOO, are beginning to select the dark-faced mod watches, snapping them to the wide brown or black bands similar to the wrist band worn by many acrobats and film stars.

Chest of Jewels also carries the popular skin divers' watches along with a line of men and women's name brand watches, men's custom fit rings, wallets and the currently popular men's pins for turtlenecks.

"Pierced and pierced-look earrings are still the rage," reminds Mrs. Schiavo, and for that reason they have stocked several hundred styles in both, and probably have one of the widest selections in the northwest suburbs.

"So many teen-agers now have pierced ears," Mrs. Schiavo remarked. "But often they are not as careful in selecting earrings as they should be. This is the reason why all of our earrings have either 14 karat gold posts or wires."

In keeping with their name Chest of Jewels also specializes in a variety of jewelry chests and has built their entire collection of jewelry around a huge antique chest lined with black velvet. Within the next two months a second Chest of Jewels will be opening in the new Deerbrook Shopping Center in Deerfield.

'Spanking Judge' In Town

Judge William J. Obermiller of the City Court of Whiting, Ind., — known as the "spanking judge" of juvenile courts, will address the Miner Junior High PTA at its meeting tonight, 8 p.m. in the school auditorium.

"Who is Running Your Home?" is the title of his speech. Judge Obermiller's court work has made him the subject of television interview shows in New York, Hollywood, Cleveland, Dayton and Indianapolis in addition to appearances on many Chicago programs.

His articles have appeared in Reader's Digest, Parade and many other magazines. They have also been translated for publication in a number of foreign newspapers and magazines.

Mrs. Robert Anderson, Miner PTA president, said the meeting is open to the public.

Sorority Happenings

$300 Given Area Schools

Winners in the "Have a Heart" bridge benefit, sponsored by the Northwest Suburban Alumnae Chapter of Gamma Phi Beta, have been announced by the president, Mrs. Allan Edwards. First place and a check for $15 went to Kurt Carlisle, Mount Prospect. Second place and $10 was awarded to Mrs. Marjorie Rhodes, Arlington Heights, and third place and a check for $5 went to Mrs. Robert Haines, Long Grove.

The bridge benefit, which was held last month, is an annual project of the sorority and the proceeds are divided equally between the Clearbrook Center for the Retarded in Rolling Meadows, the Countryside Center for the Handicapped in Palatine and the Northwest Suburban Aid for the Retarded in Park Ridge.

This year checks for $100 have been sent to each of the three schools. Each member of the alumnae group hosted at least two tables of bridge in her home last month.

MEMBERS WILL be playing bridge again at their next regular meeting to be held Wednesday at 8 p.m. at the home of Mrs. Frank Mleko, Arlington Heights.

Co-hostesses for the meeting will be Mrs. Robert Hyson, Arlington Heights, and Mrs. Albert Morey, Mount Prospect. Certain to be discussed will be the recent couples' party, a Las Vegas night, which was held March 15 at the home of Mrs. Daniel Switzer, Arlington Heights. The party was planned and organized by Mrs. Jon Busse.

Newly elected officers for the coming year are president, Mrs. Daniel Switzer, Arlington Heights; vice president, Mrs. Ronald Hacker, Bensenville; recording secretary, Mrs. Jack Erwin, Des Plaines; treasurer, Mrs. Alvin Reitz, Prospect Heights, and publicity and corresponding secretary, Mrs. Thomas Mead, Arlington Heights.

All area alumnae are invited to attend the group's monthly meetings and may call Mrs. Allan Edward, 392-9082 for further information.

Interior Decor For Zeta

Mrs. Kenneth Fricka will present a program on "Pictures and Mirrors" and their use in interior decoration, 8 p.m., Wednesday, March 26 before members of Xi Zeta Epsilon Chapter of Beta Sigma Phi meeting in the home of Mrs. Jerry Bell, Rolling Meadows. Following the program an election of chapter officers will be held.

The evening of Saturday, March 29 has been announced by the sorority for the Couples' Las Vegas Party to be held in the home of Mr. and Mrs. Fay Daniel, Hoffman Estates.

It's a busy week for Camp Fire Girls and Blue Birds in Arlington Heights. Blue Bird, Cheryl Sardiga, center, makes a list of "friends," teachers, firemen and policemen, to whom she will give cupcakes during "Operation Cupcake," in honor of the organization's birthday which is observed this week. Camp Fire Girls, Pat Meyer, left, and Jenny Korn, make their plans too for the Camp Fire Candy Sale, a door-to-door effort to begin March 28. Leaders of both organizations are deep in plans for the Spring Blue Bird Wing Dings held annually to register first grade girls into new Blue Bird groups.

Sister Gabriel To Address Woman's Assoc.

"Woman's Role in the Community" is the topic Sister Gabriel will discuss 12:45 p.m., Wednesday, March 26 before the Women's Association of Southminister United Presbyterian Church, at a luncheon in the church's Fellowship Hall, 906 E. Central Rd., Arlington Heights.

Sister Gabriel is a vital and uniquely qualified speaker and at present heads the religion department of Sacred Heart of Mary High School, Rolling Meadows. Born in New York City, she received her bachelor degrees in French and English and received a master's degree in communication arts from Notre Dame.

FOLLOWING her entry into the religious of Sacred Heart of Mary in 1953, Sister Gabriel taught and studied for a number of years in Paris and England before coming to Rolling Meadows in 1964. In addition to her teaching duties, she is a member of the Advisory Board of Religious Teachers of Chicago, a committee member of the Archdiocese Council of Catholic Women, and associated with the Cana Conference of Chicago and the Screen Education Society.

Reservations for the luncheon may be made by telephoning Mrs. A. C. Law, CL 3-6216, or Mrs. W. M. Lewis, 439-7660. Cost is $1 and child care will be available at the church for 50 cents per family.

Award Scholarships

Art and music scholarship awards for this year were recently announced by the Arlington Heights Junior Woman's Club. Those who will be attending Allerton Park Summer Art Sessions are Barbara Moore, Linda McElhose and Nancy Audette, all from Arlington High School.

The music scholarships will go to three vocalists, all from Arlington High School, Diane Rieder, Rex Parvin and Anne Francese, who will attend the summer music camp at Illinois Wesleyan College.

At the March meeting the Arlington Juniors heard a member of the social service committee, Mrs. Edmund Spitzig, tell about Operation Crimestop in relation to the village, after which she passed out forms to be used by those members who wish to have a crimestop number.

THE HIGH point of the evening's program was the fashion show put on by club members who modeled their own creations.

Some modeled fashions "for fun" such as the bold print patio gown made by Mrs. Felix Satikea. Others entered their garments in competition and the winners were Mrs. James Krezowski for her brown and white belted daytime dress, and Mrs. E. Byrne Marhoefer for her pale blue crepe evening gown with softly draped neckline.

The contest was sponsored by the home life committee and the winners were awarded gift certificates by Hegenbring's Fabric Store. They will represent the club at the District Sewing Contest later this spring.

Mrs. Marhoefer was a winner in the district last year.

No Concensus of Opinion

By Sally Leighton

If a concensus of Catholic opinion on the National Parent-Teacher Association's announced position against state aid to parochial schools were sought in Arlington Heights, the sociologist would have a job finding it. Monolithic response is out.

If, similarly, a concensus were sought of individual PTA chapters, that, too, must be found elsewhere. They just don't have it here.

These facts became obvious after The Arlington Day featured front page stories for a week on views toward state aid to private schools. The lead article concerned a position paper and a detailed plea for letters from members to state representatives opposing such aid, which had been sent to all District 37 PTA chapters.

Written by Mrs. Duane Ainlay of Wheeling, the district's legislative assistant, the paper enlarging on the national position was couched in language that caused some hackles to rise - but not many.

REPORTING that she received "a few nasty telephone calls," to her apparent surprise, she perhaps had no idea of the potential mischief to the PTA objectives from a front-page spread.

Area Catholic school boards report a small flurry of interest, which quickly subsided in the press of other business. The "other business" is chiefly concerned with how to stay alive as educational institutions in the face of massive financial withdrawal of support by parents who can no longer carry two systems. No time or energy is left to quarrel with what some annoyed Catholics consider the contemporary equivelents of "Helen Hoskinson"; "Clubladies," as one bitter soul remarked, "who seem to have nothing better to do than to 'beat other people's children' - out of a fair share of public funds."

SUCH A strong reaction is not general, because more and more the PTA here is shot through with "double agents": Catholics who have withdrawn their children from the Catholic schools but whose reasons may have left them half resentful.

They now have a voice in building plans and education they probably lacked in their parish setup. They are asked, now, to use it against their friends. Still, they understand the needs for school referenda as never before. The divided loyalties make for good questions of their leadership.

If there is concensus among this segment, it is presently that it is at least tactless to rock a boat with so many holes in it that it's going down anyway, all hands aboard - unless the crew can be given a spurt of energy to plug up the gaps out of sheer pride!

ANOTHER group, nervous PTA officers who know the potential, have confined their activities on the projected anti-aid lobby to wringing their hands and shaking in their boots lest the hard-pressed private school people get overwhelmed or angry over a short space of time and flood "their" schools.

They are not comforted with the prospect of a new referendum coming up in April.

In this village, the hint of a lobby against Catholics could be disastrous. What has helped keep the balance so far is that while as a group Catholics represent just under half the voters, they are just over half convinced that their children will be using public school facilities soon, anyway. So they either vote in favor of referenda, or at least abstain.

Just how quickly this resigned toleration or gruding cooperation can be eroded is demonstrated by a rumor that quickly followed Mrs. Ainlay's published paper. Coffees now being held in homes of PTA members to encourage support of the referendum were interpreted as being secret ploys to get people together to write the letters she had requested to state representatives.

THE STORY was stamped out by PTA people who can understand the confusion, but are nonetheless dismayed at the conclusion to which so many citizens leaped. Some have been concerned enough to attempt to offset the idea that local PTA must follow all the national policy by setting up programs for Catholic speakers to elucidate their constitutional and religious rationale.

Most of their membership does not have easy access to informed opinion and precedents set elsewhere. They are eager to give members a chance to inform themselves.

Both Catholic and public schoolmen, however, despite the ruffled feathers on the surface, are developing more and more mutual trust and willingness to cooperate, as exemplified in such results as shared-time programs. Openness is being expressed in various ways, so that each system can approach the other rationally, rendering small upsets less debilitating to all factions.

ONE POINT all persons contacted by a reporter agree that Mrs. Ainlay raised at least one issue with which they could agree: full and complete disclosure of available funds and projected income and expenditures.

St. James elementary school, pursuant to a policy of public support of all schools and disclosure of assets to all interested parties, published its financial statement in The Day.

James Ostler, President of St. James school board, feels it can help to be open about these things.

"If people know where we stand they can understand where we're going, and why," said Ostler. "We will never just 'dump' our children into the public schools out of anger. If public officials can see our 'books,' they can either try to help bail us out by every possible, legal means, or they can get ready to absorb the load gradually, should it come to that."

MRS. AINLAY'S objection that public funds may not go to places where voters have no information and control is better exemplified by the other major parish in Arlington Heights, where even the school board members don't have anything but generalized information about past expenditures and no projections for the future except the assurance that Our Lady of the Wayside "is in no trouble."

Since voters, if not parishioners, insist on knowing where their money is going, quite specifically, this instance supports the district legislative's assistant's objection, and is designed to defeat any chance of aid.

Donald Klein, secretary of Our Lady of the Wayside's board, expressed sympathy for the PTA position. He will continue to support personally what he considers to be a private education for his children as long as he can,

"I must add, however," he commented ironically, "that Mrs. Ainley's judgment that 'there are already too many precedents on the federal level' for axillary aid does not endear that lady to me. I'd like to get a break on books, libraries, and bus transportation, none of which have to do with state and church separation."

HE WOULD also like to get a break on the news from the Archdiocesan office.

To say nothing of financial reports from the archdiocese about other funds it is collecting: "Some of our parishioners would like to get some of their Project Renewal money back to float our own school operation.

"I'd rather be assured that that contribution was building private schools in the inner city for quality education for people who need it more. That's our 'mission country' today. As it stands, though, we know little about where it's going and have even less to say about it."

IF THE present unfortunate PTA lobbying in the northwest suburbs fails in exciting opposition among Catholics in these parts, it may be because the generosity and openness of leaders like Klein and Ostler has rubbed off on their religious constituency.

Many Catholics in town are not waiting for the boat to sink; they are jumping overboard, into the sea of school and community life.

The two call it as they see it, try to be objective, and hurl no anathemas at those who disagree. They have thereby also made the community safe for the Arlington equivalent of the "Harper Valley PTA."

UNLESS, of course, another series of position papers by bright but overly enthusiastic members sets everyone off again. And as the woman who blew the whistle on the association commented sadly, "The PTA has never been celebrated for tact."

It has been noted for hard work in the educational field. In future, it might want to protect its investment by checking with grass-roots membership before kicking off projects inconsistent with local attitudes and needs - which, after all, is more democratic and offends nobody.

HERE'S HOW YOU CAN SAVE MONEY-THEN SPEND IT and still have MORE left than you saved!

"Sheer, stark poverty prevents many oldsters from doing the things that the 'golden years' are supposed to make possible."

For the past ten years, through our newsletter, It's Your Money, which this Association originated, we have frequently emphasized that a shocking number of Americans are living impoverished lives. We have pointed out that

- The largest single group of poor is that characterized as "aged."
- Four-fifths of single persons over 65 are living on poverty incomes.
- Two-thirds of family heads over 65 have incomes of less than $4,000 annually.
- There are more than 1,000,000 Americans 85 years or older—the fastest growing age group in the nation.
- In the next 40 years, the number of Americans past 65 years will more than double. Those over 75 will triple by the year 2000 (which you will be if you are now in your 40s).

"Poor people are the bulk of the old," writes one authority. "If you weren't poor before you reached your 65th year, you are likely to be so afterward."

Why this condition? If the majority of Americans enjoy the highest living standards in the world, why are three out of four likely to be impoverished after they reach 65? The answer is in one word: improvidence. They are neglecting to take care of future needs.

These charts reveal strikingly how a pattern of saving helps to provide for later years. You save a fixed amount for 15 years. Then you spend the same amount for the next 15 years. For this pattern of deferred spending, you are handsomely rewarded. You still have more money left than you put in!

Thus, by saving $100 per month at, let's say, the age of 50, you will have a total of $26,241.29 in your account at age 65. If you take out $100 every month for the next 15 years (your life expectancy at age 65 will be another 15 years) you will still have a balance of $26,940.18 at age 80 (when you can expect to live an additional 7 years).

Here is the heart of the matter—the provision for later years now, while you are actively employed. The earlier you start, and the more you put away, the richer your rewards.

With our liberal dividends, compounded quarterly, on FSLIC-insured accounts, you have the safest and surest way of guaranteeing the kind of income you seek for the years ahead.

Save now . . . while you can.

Arlington Wins Triangular at Prospect Track

The Arlington Cardinals' indoor track team finished first with 59 points last night, ahead of host Prospect with 41 and Fremd with 37.

Dave Staele led the Cardinals with two victories, one in the low hurdles and the other in the high hurlas. Steele's effort earned him a 7.5 in the lows and an 8.05 in the highs.

GARY FAGERSON WON the pole vault for Arlington with a jump of 12 feet, six inches. Paul Toliefson, the leading shot putter in the area, tossed the iron bail 54 feet 4½ inches to finish first for the Cards. The other winner for Arlington was Sam Witt with 19 feet, six inches, in the long jump.

Second place winners for the Cardinals included Witt in the high hurdles with an 8.4, and Tom Swanson with a 4:33.3 in the mile run. Gary Bratko had a 19 foot 1½ inches jump in the long jump, and Fred Harth vaulted 12 feet to take second.

Arlington also won the mile relay with 3:43.3 and was followed by second place Fremd with 3:46.2, and third place Prospect with 3:53.8.

THE KNIGHTS won the 880-yard relay by less than a second with 1:43.3. Arlington was second with 1:43.7 and Fremd finished third with 1:43.8, only one-tenth of a second behind the Cardinals.

The individual winners for Prospect were Joe Baker with a 5.85 in the 50-yard dash and Jeff Meissner in the high jump with a six-foot leap. Dick Paulson won the 880-yard run with 2:06.2, and Scott Szala finished with a 55 flat in the 440.

Bill Treece with 10:00.2 in the two mile and Chris Anderson with a 5.9 in the 50-yard dash were the only second place winners for the Knights.

THE VIKINGS also had two individual winners in Dan Pittenger who led the pack with a 4:30.8 in the mile, and Craig Stitt who turned in a 9:54.4 in the 2 mile.

Fremd finished the meet with a total of five individual second places. Bill Jarocki had a 2:07.7 in the 880 and Carl Puzzo finished with 56.7 in the 440.

Other second place winners for Fremd include Buck Buchanan with 7.7 in the lows, Bob Good with a 45 foot 7 inch heave in the shot, and Randy Hague with five feet, 10 inches, in the high jump.

The Vikings won the freshman-sophomore meet with 59 points, followed by Arlington with 41 and Prospect with 37.

Despite the pained look, the Arlington mile relay team easily won their race, stopping Fremd and Prospect, who had the misfortune of dropping the baton early in the run. (Photos by Linda Hamilton)

Left -- Cardinal Jim Hilgenfeld was fourth in the pole vault competition last night, but was in command of the situation on this jump.

Tim Loeffel of Prospect fought to the end of the competition, but failed to place last night as Arlington took three of four places in the triangular meet.

Last Event Disastrous for FV

All was lost in the last event. Trailing host East Leyden, 48-46, before the last event, the eight-lap relay, the Forest View Falcons thinclads dropped both the relay and the meet, 53-46, last Thursday.

Reliable Terry Shakon was a double winner once again for coach Kalth North's Falcons. Shakon collected blue ribbons in both the 50-yard dash, which he covered in 5.8 seconds, and the 50-yard high hurdles, where he crossed the tape in seven seconds flat.

Shakon has been the Falcons' most consistent performer all season on the varsity level after completing a stellar sophomore year where he won both the 100 and 220-yard dashes in the conference meet on the underclass level.

In the half mile run, Tom Vaughn took first place honors with a respectable 2:07.0. Mike Keen, who pushed Shakon in the 50-yard dash before getting second, claimed a first in low hurdles, run over 50 yards instead of the normal 60. His time of 6.5 is somewhat below his season best, however.

The Falcons claimed two firsts in the field events, one by Rich Cousins in the long jump with a leap of 19 feet 2 inches, and the other by Don Reed in the shot put. Reeds toss of 42 feet 1 inch is also a good mark for indoors.

Graduation Hurts, But Lion Nine Appears Strong

By George Halas

The outlook is good as far as St. Viator varsity baseball is concerned. Coach Pat Mahoney is looking to a strong defense and a potentially good pitching staff to lead the Lions to a fine season.
a fine season.

Mahoney is rebuilding his pitching staff after losing Brian Rooney, Mike Miller and Dan Klingberg through graduation. The Lions also lost third-baseman John Wendell, all - conference center fielder Pat Loughman and first-baseman Frank Patzke.

ST. VIATOR would like to improve on last year's performance. The Lions were fourth in the Chicagoland Prep League and had a 13-14 record overall.

Although two starters are missing, the infield promises to be the strongest segment of the St. Viator game this year. Junior Mike O'Donnell leads the candidates for first, but he is getting some tough competition from Mike Golden, who also fills in at catcher.

John Shields and Pat Scheetz, both seniors, provide experience and ability at second base. Both are good enough that either one may get the starting nod.

Senior Jack Brawley heads the field at shortstop. Brawley was all-CPL as a sophomore but sat out last season with injuries suffered in an auto accident. He is being pushed by junior Mike Abinanti, who also has outfield experience.

THIRD BASE is a toss-up between senior Jim Hynes and junior Steve Smith, according to coach Mahoney. Hynes played third last year in addition to short, but does not heve the job secured as yet.

Dick Aylward is the leading candidate for catcher says Mahoney. He is backed by Dick Drolet and Golden.

In the outfield, Ken Preski returns in left. Preski was among the team's leading hitters last year. The two other outfield spots are being contested by Larry Quinette, Biile Madden and Steve Osterman.

Mahoney views the pitching staff as his biggest question mark. "As is typical to any team, the pitching will be the key to our season. As the pitchers go, the team goes." Mark Walinski, all-conference last season, will return and Mahoney expects a great year from him. "We are also hoping that (Barry) Clark and (John) merges can reach their potential this year."

JUNIORS STEVE Snyder and Mark Deloney add strength to the staff. Madden and O'Donnell will also share some of the pitching chores, and Mahoney is also taking a long, hard look at sophomore Mike Pettenuzze as both a pitcher and cather.

On hitting, Mahoney says, "I feel that we should have a strong defensive team. The potential for hitting is there, but only time will tell." The coach hopes that this season will be different from last. "The National Guard (of which he is a member) will not interefere this year, and we are hoping that there will be no catastrophes like last year," he said referring to the accident that sidelined both Brawley and Aylward.

When asked about any lack of experience, Mahoney replied, "I heve a mature team that should be able to operate under pressure. What we lack in experience we will make up in ability." The team also has an excellent attitude.

THE LIONS will play 27 games this year. Of these, 14 will be conference clashes and the non-conference contests will include, for the first time, all of the other area teams.

In looking at thse prospects, Mahoney said: "I look forward to stiff and friendly competition with the area schools. I enjoyed competing with both Prospect and Forest View last year. They play a good brand of baseball."

Right -- Tom Sweeney, 3722 Wran Ln., Rolling Meadows, was one of the lucky ones in the crowd, getting to stand and talk with Stan Mikita.

Smith Is Appointed General Sales Mgr.

Thomas E. Smith

Thomas E. Smith of 2022 E. Saint James Ct., Arlington Heights, has been named general sales manager at Automatic Electric Co., Northlake, a subsidiary of General Telephone & Electronics Corporation.

He will be responsible for all sales to non affiliated telephone operating companies and to industrial, railroad, utility, federal, state and municipal government accounts.

During his 20-year career at the company, Smith has gained experience in each of the areas he will be responsible for in his new position.

During World War II, Smith served with the U.S. Army Signal Corps in China, Burma and India. In 1948, he obtained a bachelor of science degree in electrical engineering from Northwestern University.

A member of the First Methodist Church of Arlington Heights, Smith has served in various layman administrative capacities, and as chairman of its teaching aid education commission.

He has also been active in scouting for many years, formerly holding the positions of committee chairman for Arlington Heights Boy Scout Troop 135 and assistant district commissioner for the Sauk Woods District. Currently he serves as a merit badge counselor for ten badges.

Smith and his wife, Marilyn, have a son, Drew, 17, and a daughter Amy, 14. Both are students at Prospect High School.

Caucus Candidates Urge Ways to Better Communication

Ways to achieve better communication between the village officials and residents have been suggested by caucus candidate for trustee William Griffin.

He said that a pamphlet mailed with the village water bill would cost little and could be used to explain controversial decisions of the Village Board and commissions and also answer frequently-asked questions.

Griffin said that this also would let the residents know of little-publicized village services and could explain local ordinances.

Francois N. Palmatier, running for re-election for trustee, has discussed the creation of an office within the village to serve as a clearing house for information about all community services and facilities.

He suggested that this office should be prepared to direct any citizen to the right person for a prompt answer to questions or problem.

Palamatier said that service to the individual citizen should be the prime concern and suggested that the office could be known as the "Citizen Service Office of Arlington Heights."

Discussing the practical function of such an office, Palamatier said that a citizen phoning in a complaint should receive prompt action.

"For example, a complaint about a chuckhole in the street should receive a written response within 48 hours informing the resident that the department of public works would repair the hole by a certain date and asking that the Citizen Service Office be notified if the repair was not completed on time," he said.

Office Center Leased

A $750,000, 20-year mortgage has been arranged by the Republic Realty Mortgage Corp. on the Eastman Center Office Buildings in Arlington Heights.

The property is on the east side of N. Highland between Eastman and St. James Sts.

Two years ago Republic financed the original phase which contained more than 20,000 square feet and had just been remodeled from a church gymnasium.

The new loan covers this building and the new 25,000 square foot building, according to Republic spokesman.

The borrower is the LaSalle National Bank, as trustee, with H. Myles Gordon & Associates as the leasing and management agents.

The existing building is occupied by Illinois Bell Telephone Co. The new building is to be leased.

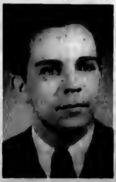
Lloyd Moody Promoted

Lloyd C. Moody

Lloyd C. Moody, 312 S. Belmont, Arlington Heights, has been appointed to the newly-created position of assistant national catalog merchandise manager with Montgomery Ward & Co.

In his new job he supervises the development of long and short-term catalog merchandise plans, media programs and strategies in addition to coordinating merchandise and promotional programs.

Moody, 38, joined the company in 1962 as an auditor and was later named administrative audit manager.



Baxter Laboratories, Inc. of Morton Grove, has announced the promotion of Terence W. Zawacki to payroll supervisor. With the company for a year and a half, Zawacki previously served as staff accountant. He holds a B.B.A degree from Loyola University and a M.B.A. degree from Northwestern University. Zawacki and his wife reside in Buffalo Grove, Illinois. Baxter Laboratories, Inc., manufactures and markets a diverse line of products in the hospital and health fields around the world.

Purcell Joins Bank Staff

James M. Purcell, 1 S. Dryden, Arlington Heights, has been appointed assistant cashier and head teller with The Bank and Trust Co. of Arlington Heights.

Purcell, a native of Montana, was head teller with Security Trust & Savings Bank of Billings before his appointment.

He attended Eastern Montana College and has pursued his banking education with the American Institute of Banking.

'Sunday in New York'

Bill Bixby Comes Up With Fine Comedy

By Catherine O'Donnell

It is much easier to review the appearance of the tall man who sat between this writer and the stage at Pheasant Run Playhouse in St. Charles than the play itself. My view of Bill Bixby and the fine cast of "Sunday in New York" was dependant on the way the man in front wore his head.

Such discomfort, however, scarcely detracted from one of the finest comedy performances seen around this area in a long time.

Bill Bixby has learned his television acting technique to perfection and the intimacy of the Pheasant Run stage allowed him the maximum use of his "talking face."

In the tradition of the great stage and screen comedians, he never for a moment allowed his character to fade as he prattled, pranced, posturized and paced his fellow cast members in a very funny comedy.

THE STORY by Norman Krasna is based on one as old as "Getting Gertie's Garter." The heroine, pure as the driven snow, comes to New York to visit airline pilot brother, perplexed by the problem of should she or shouldn't she have.

In her case, the negative reaction was the reason for her most recent romantic disaster in her home town of Albany. She becomes attached to a young man on a bus when a pin on her suit jacket catches on his suit jacket.

The play is so well written that it doesn't seem to reveal the final decision. The three acts with a single thought should, I suppose, be classed as adult comedy but why, I can't explain. It hes sex as its single thought but it is light, gay and fun.

REBECCA Phillips as the girl from out of town gave a beautiful performance. She and Bixby paced the rest of the cast with flawless timing. It was refreshing to see real professionalism at work.

Her brother the air line pilot was played in a low key by Bill Morey which is the right way to establish contrast, I suppose, although I would like to have seen him a little more self-assured.

He is a line pilot for American Air Lines who works on conventional or prop planes, an item that needs updating in the script: American advertises an all-jet fleet.

THE JILTING lover from Albany (George Shannon) does a great characterization until he learns that there is a possibility that Miss Purity has slipped. He gets just a little too deflated in his final scene.

The other members of the cast are a Man and a Woman played by Larry Maraviglia and Lorinne Vozoff. They appear as a waiter and waitress at Longchamps restaurant, as the same in a Japanese restaurant and as a movie masher, a sailor and a female patron of the flicks. The latter scene is marvelous and a joy.

THE TECHNIQUE required of the backstage crew to place five scenes on the postage stamp stage of Pheasant Run would seem insurmountable but it is done with ease as the characters move from a New York apartment to a Fifth Avenue bus, Longchamps, a movie theatre and a Japanese restaurant.

In Bixby's post-curtain talk, he asked for applause for the crew and they certainly deserved it. The program lists the technical directors as Chuck McLaughlin and Donna Lynn Greissmer.

The play was beautifully directed by David Morrison. Producer Carl Stohn Jr., can be proud of this one. It is excellent entertainment. The Box Office number is 261-7943 or 584-1454.

Wilkie to Receive Academy's Award

L. A. Wilkie

Leighton A. Wilkie, board chairman of DoAll Co. and director-president of the Wilkie Bros. Foundation, Des Plaines, has been chosen by the American Academy of Achievement as one of 50 persons to receive the Golden Plate Award during the eighth annual Salute to Excellence June 26-28 in Dallas, Tex.

The academy calls the recipients "giants of accomplishment from the great fields of endeavor."

During the past 18 years Wilkie has received seven Freedoms Foundation Awards for traveling educational exhibits, such as "Tools Make America Great", "The Story of Productivity," "The Tree of Economic Life" and "What Makes America Great."

He also will receive the 1968 George Washington Honor Medal for the motion picture film, "What Makes America Great."

Dedicated to the inspiration of youth, the academy--a non-profit organization--annually honors leaders in the sciences, professions, industry and arts.

Past honorees includes Dr. Michael E. DeBakey, Dr. Edward Teller, Bob Hope, Prof. Harold Urey, Astronaut James A. Lovell Jr., Louis Nizer, Allan Drury, Gen. Douglas MacArthur, Dr. Joyce Brothers and Dr. Denton Cooley.

Several hundred outstanding high school honor students from across the nation will join the series of symposiums and other informal meetings during the weekend "Gathering of the Greats," which is climaxed by the golden plate banquet and the awards presentation to the 50 honorees.

The exhibit, "Machine Tools Make America Great," now is on display at the Museum of Science and Industry in Chicago.

The DoAll Co., with headquarters in Des Plaines, has a franchised chain of 47 sales-service stores in manufacturing centers throughout the United States and Canada serving the industrial needs for machine tools, cutting tools, precision measuring instruments and supplies.

Fortieth Year To Be Marked

Henry E. Drucker

Henry E. Drucker, 957 Greenview, Des Plaines, will celebrate his 40th service anniversary with the Illinois Bell Telephone Co., Arlington Heights, Thursday.

Drucker joined the company as an apprentice switchboard installer in downtown Chicago and is now a foreman in Arlington Heights.

He is a member of St. Mary's Holy Name Bowling League; the CCD Guidance League for St. Mary's Church and Gateway Council of the Telephone Pioneers of America.

A member of real telephone family, Drucker's father, the late Henry Drucker, worked in the construction department for 44 years.

Rally

Inactive registered nurses from the northeastern and northwestern parts of Cook County will be honored guests at a special "Rally Day," Wednesday, April 9 at the Holiday Inn, 3405 Algonquin Rd., Rolling Meadows.

In addition to other Illinois organizations, leaders from north Cook County are Mrs. Ramona Lucas of District 18, INA; Mrs. Jan Lytle, Harper College; Mrs. L. Lindrath, Lutheran General Hospital, and Mrs. Lolly Kiffel, president of the Northwest Nurses Roundtable.

Your Horoscope

FOR WEDNESDAY

ARIES (March 22-April 20)--If you would have your place in the driver's seat become a permanent thing, make this a brains-over-brawn day.

TAURUS (April 21-May 21)--Afternoon hours may prove less than satisfactory, so use the morning to full advantaga. Children demand attention.

GEMINI (May 22-June 21)--The overly optimistic Gamini may wall be in for disappointment. If you would hava a dream come true, make it a small one.

CANCER (Juna 22-July 23)--Take tha diract, most realistic approach to today's problems and all should be well. Be on guard against false friends.

LEO (July 24-Aug. 23)--Keep a leveal head should you find yourself faced with a conflict of intarests. Undertake that which quickest leads to profit.

VIRGO (Aug.24-Sept.23)--Take a leaf out of another's book and profit by your own past mistakes. A good day if you are alert to trends.

LIBRA (Sept. 24-Oct. 23)--Inducements to redirect your energies may be tempting. Taka care, however, not to leap from the frying pan into the fire.

SCORPIO (Oct. 24-Nov. 22)--A surprise may be in store for the Scorpio who has remained loyal to a partner through a difficult situation.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 23-Dec. 22)--An important day for the Sagittarius who remains active in community affairs. Don't be outguessed by the competition.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 23-Jan. 20)--Those you least expected to turn benefactor may well surprise you. Don't look a gift horse in the mouth.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 21-Feb. 19)--A smooth surface does not necessarily reflect conditions underneath. Be on guard against one who would upset the apple cart.

PISCES (Feb. 20-March 21)--The wise Pisces will meet whatever comes with a smile. Evening hours are good if you keep your own counsel.

$9 Million More for N.W. Schools Expected

By Richard Crabb

A recommendation to raise state aid to public schools from the present $400 to $550 made Monday to the Illinois General Assembly by the School Problems Commission would make available in the coming year an additional $9,000,000 to elementary schools in Chicago's northwest suburbs.

The three high school districts serving students from Des Plaines to Palatine would receive an additional $3,750,000."

THIS REPORT was given The Day late yesterday by Rep. Eugenia Chapman (D-Arlington Heights) shortly after she conferred with officials in the office of the State Superintendent of Public Instruction.

The total received by the northwest suburban school districts would under the new recommendations be as much as $1,000,000 more than the $12,750,000 indicated.

The recommendations provide for making state aid payments on the basis of enrollment rather than average daily attendance. The projections given here are based on average daily attendance.

THE PROPOSAL is being placed before the House and the Senate in bills on which committee hearings will begin perhaps as early as next week. The funds required to implement the recommendations would exceed $400,000,000.

Gov. Richard B. Ogilvie is scheduled to deliver his budget message before a joint session of the two houses next Tuesday, April 1. It is expected that the budget message will confirm a report that the governor will support the recommendation to increase state aid to $550 per pupil.

The message is also expected to indicate how the governor proposes to raise the additional state revenue to meet the higher state aid costs.

THE THREE SCHOOL districts in the northwest suburbs that would get the highest state aid payments under the proposed increased schedule of state aid are Palatine-Rolling Meadows District 15, $3,741,609; Schaumburg-Hoffman Estates 54, $3,657,284; and Arlington Heights District 25, $3,240,068.

Three other districts would receive more than $2,000,000. They are Elk Grove District 59, $2,904,461; East Maine District 63, $2,306,280; and Wheeling District 21, $2,187,146.

The high school districts would receive major increases from the new state aid recommendations for 1969-70. High School District 214, which operates six high schools in Wheeling and Elk Grove Townships with a total student enrollment of more than $12,000, would receive $2,305,733 in state aid, an increase over this school year of $1,701,775.

MAINE TOWNSHIP High School District would also receive an increase in state aid of more than $1,000,000. Palatine High School District 211 would receive almost an additional $1,000,000.

Elementary School District 57 in Mount Prospect would receive an additional $550,000, Prospect Heights District 23 an increase of $200,000 and the River Trails District 26 would receive an additional $300,000.

Arson Ruled Out As Cause of Fire

By Curt Wilson

"We've ruled out arson as a possibility," said Rolling Meadows Fire Chief Thomas Fogarty last night about the fire that destroyed three unfinished apartment buildings and damaged two others Monday night at Plum Grove Rd. and Euclid Ave.

Fogarty said that the blaze's current damage toll was set at close to $400,000, but Fogarty was quick to point out that the figure may climb at any time, depending on a pending statment from the Insurance company and further inspection.

THE FIRE, which destroyed much of the King's Walk Apartments, which were being built for an opening date in May, was originally reported unofficially to have done more than $1 million damage.

While discussing the cause of the fire, Fogarty squelched a rumor that the fire was set as a reprisal against the builder, Albert Riley, who was believed to have testified against the crime syndicate in Chicago last year.

Fogarty said that records had been checked and it was discovered that Riley was not the man in question who testified against the syndicate, ruling out that arson possibility.

Fogarty said that two "salamanders" found in the basement of one of the units are being investigated as a possible source of the fire.

A "SALAMANDER" is a machine that thaws ice in the basements of similar construction areas that have been exposed to the elements and then pumps the water out of the basements.

The two "salamanders" were reportedly in operation at the time the fire first started up, and there is a distinct possibility that one or both of them could have overheated.

Fogarty said that the two machines would be carefully examined by Rolling Meadows firemen today.

He said a final estimate of the damage would not be available for at least a day, because the insurance inspectors are still completing their investigation.

No Audit of Books Needed, Say School Dist. 59 Officials

School District 59 officials today called unnecessary a special audit of district finances which had been requested by the Elk Grove Township Active Citizens Party.

The party had requested the audit before any more township funds are given to the district.

"We would be willing to submit to such an audit," said Dr. Donald Thomas, District 59 superintendent, "but our books already have been audited properly as is required by law. This audit is available to anyone."

IF FUNDS ARE withheld until after July 1 when they normally are received, he said, the district would have to borrow about $100,000 to make up the temporary loss. This is the amount required to operate the district for about one week, Thomas said.

Paul Shanyfelt, the Active Citizens Party candidate for township supervisor, called for the special audit of District 59's books last night.

Shanyfelt said that his party will try to block any further distribution of Elk Grove Township funds to the district until the audit is made. The audit, he said, should cover the district's financial affairs for at least the current school year to determine whether money turned over to the district has been used properly.

"Because important amounts of money from Elk Grove Township have been turned over to School District 59 each year by the present township administration, and because that administration, headed by Supervisor William Rohlwing has asked citizens of the township to approve another large transfer of funds to District 59 at the annual town meeting next Tuesday, we of the Active Citizens Party are demanding that there be instituted a special audit of the school district's funds," said Shanyfelt.

"WE BELIEVE that the citizens of the township are entitled to know whether the funds given the school district by the township in the past have been properly used before additional township funds are turned over to District 59."

He said that the action of his Active Citizens Party stems from a number of recent developments.

"With the extreme confusion that has developed in the affairs of District 59, the Active Citizens party sees a special audit of the school district's funds as a means of developing additional public understanding of the problems of the district," said Shanyfelt.

"We think we are acting in the best interests of District 59 to bring about a public review of the spending of the school district accounts before large additional grants from township funds are made to the district."

In addition, he said, the actions of school administrators of District 59 have been deliberately opposed to the Active Citizens Party. An article which appeared in the district's publication, "Highlights and Sidelights" on March 21 urged payment of taxes locally.

"Since tax bills will be not available until late June," said Shanyfelt, "this publicity appears to have been politically inspired. Other elections were mentioned in the publication, but there was no reference to the township election."

Dr. Thomas said that calling for payment of taxes locally "is a common practice that we

FBI Holds Suspect In Robbery

FBI agents in Chicago yesterday arrested a Rolling Meadows man, Samuel Grooms, 3105 Wilke Rd., on a charge of unlawful flight to avoid prosecution on a charge of armed robbery in Salt Lake City.

Grooms, 38, is reported as single and unemployed, and was charged July 12, 1968, for the armed robbery of a Safeway Store in Salt Lake City.

He was arrested on the basis of a federal warrant, issued March 10 in Salt Lake City.

Grooms, according to a FBI spokesman, appeared before a U.S.Commissioner yesterday but his case was continued and he was not released.

Hospital, Police Defend Present Ambulance Service

Charges that emergency ambulance service now being provided Arlington Heights by private agencies is inadequate and demands that the village own and operate its own service, were challenged today by hospital and police authorities.

Malcom MacCoun, executive vice-president and chief executive officer of the Northwest Community Hospital, described the service, performed chiefly by the Luterburg & Oehler and the Haire funeral homes, as "highly satisfactory".

CHIEF CRITIC OF THE service has been Mrs. Barbara Vidmar, independent candidate of the village board of trustees, who maintains that service has been slow and not adequate to meet the communities demands.

Mrs. Charles Mallon, head nurse in the emergency room at Northwest Community, agrees with MacCoun, that the funeral homes act promptly. In her opinion, she said, the ambulance attendants are well-trained and co-operative.

ARLINGTON HEIGHTS Police Chief L.W. Calderwood agreed with the hospital authorities.

"We are very fortunate," he said, "to have the service we have and at a considerable savings to the village. The time may come when private ambulances may not want, or be able to provide this service, and it may be necessary for the village to provide it. But the job is being well handled now."

Chief Calderwood pointed out that under the present system there is no hardship on those who cannot afford ambulance service since it is now being provided free for indigents.

ACCORDING TO MacCoun, ambulance attendants provided by the funeral homes have been trained in artificial resuscitation and in emergency child delivery.

"They phone us in advance when they are bringing in a patient," he said, thus giving us sufficient time to prepare for whatever treatment is required.

"They even help the hospital staff make the patient comfortable if their assistance is needed," he said.

The question of ambulance service has been made a major issue in Mrs. Vidmar's campaign for election to the village board.

Jaycees Seek July 4 Paraders

The Arlington Heights Jaycees are again sponsoring July 4 festivities--carnival, fireworks and parade.

Any business or organization wishing to enter a marching unit or float should call Gordon Gullicksen, parade chairman, at 259-4403. Deadline for parade entries is April 15.

Dist. 59 Board Candidates Explain Views

By Joe Weiss

The eight candidates for three District 59 school board positions answered questions last night at a meeting for district teachers and administrators.

Money problems were seen as the biggest problem in the district by six of the candidates.

Paul G. Neuhauser, 1821 Magnolia Ln., Mount Prospect, said that the proposed expenses should equal the anticipated income.

"Because 70 per cent of the budget is salaries, you should not suddenly find yourself $180,000 in debt," he said.

He suggested that a team of educators be invited to evaluate the district programs and administrative efficiency.

"This is not an uncommon practice for colleges," he said.

"Budgets are a goal, not a god," said candidate William M. Garvey, 1048 Cheltenham Rd., Elk Grove Village.

"If the budget is constructed properly and there is no profligate spending, then we need more money if it runs out," he said. "The biggest problem is service provided by the budget."

IMPROVING the educational program by whatever the district can afford is the major problem seen by Albert Domanico, 7 Grange, Elk Grove Village, uncontested candidate for the only one-year term.

"I think we have an exceptional program now," he said.

George Blanchard, 15 Wildwood Rd., Elk Grove Village, said "The shortage of money and understanding what we can do with the money we do have is the biggest problem facing the district.

Understanding of what the district is doing has created a communication gap, according to candidate Harold C. Harvey, 200 Marshall St., Des Plaines.

The use of big words especially related to finances is the district's most pressing problem, according to Harry O. Stewart, 1433 Fern, Mount Prospect.

"The communication gap is not generated by a lack of pieces of paper sent home; it is brought about by the technical language used by the district in informing parents what is going on," Harvey said.

"The administration is trying to communicate in language parents don't understand. I remember one letter sent home which described a principal as a "unit director."

"THIS IS easily understood by teachers and administrators, but not by parents," he said.

Ernest Rich, 395 Lawn, Des Plaines, related the communications to the budget saying: "The budget should be explained in such a way that the parents know what is happening. There should be no way for the administration to stifle information the people should know."

"The parents are being told only certain things," he said.

Patrick J. Ordoveosky, 1380 S. Pennsylvania, Des Plaines, said that "the communication in the district is very good," and that the "lines from the parents to the top are excellent."

Neuhauser said that communication could be improved with a minimum of effort simply by using terms and words the parents would understand.

"It is not the most pressing problem in the district, however," he said.

Stewart said that the district's newsletter is informative but "needs to use everyday words."

Garvey suggested rotating the board meetings to different district schools to improve communication.

"The information is in the district. The problem is getting it home," Blanchard said.

Domanico, who is a current board member as well as candidate, said that it is physically impossible to provide the public with all the material on which the board bases its decisions.

"I don't know what to do with the 150 pounds of stuff that I have already," he said.

OF SIX candidates asked their opinion of an ombudsman, two favored it and

Moats, Harper Board Candidate, Tells Views

By Ruth Schulman

Unrest at Harper Junior College has resulted in a student leader running for the Collage Board of Education on a platform frowning upon formation of a teachers union.

Soon to ba 21, Larry Moats, a Harper honor roll student, announced his candidacy last week and his views today..

"BECAUSE OF MY considarable contact with students, the focal point of any collaga, I balieva my services are unique," Moats said.

"My theme is certainly not student power but studant communication," said the young man who has attended innumerable college board meetings as a student senator. "There must be affective and responsible communication between student, faculty and administration, board and community.

"Through communication comes understanding and ultimataly growth. Growth which will hava a positiva effect upon the citizens of this community.

"AN EXAMPLE of a barrier to communications the board should discourage as much as possible is a teachers union, which now is being considered by the teachers of Harper College," Moats said.

"A teachers union immediataly discouraged communication and lends itself to a labor-management type relationship. Such a relationship would be detrimental to Harper College."

Nobody wants a strike that is going to shut down Harper College, said Moats. He believas the board should do everything reasonably possible to find out why the faculty is examining this possibility and datermine what should ba done to deter a teachers union.

THE YOUTHFUL candidate believes the faculty and administration should work together in harmony in realizing the goals of the school, not against each other as he thinks would be the tendency if teachers were to unionize.

Moats' opponents for the two vacant seats for a three-year term on the board ara incumbents John L. Kuranz of Barrington and Richard Johnson, present board president, of Arlington Heights.

Summarizing his views on the faculty, Moats said:"The board and administration must be sensitive to the needs of the faculty. The faculty is a specialized group of people who are mora familiar with thair subject matter than anyone else and know best how to develop an effective working relationship with their students."

THE LEAGUE of Woman Voters in Palatine yesterday invited Moats to participate in an informal forum at 7:45 p.m. Monday, March 31 in Fremd High School, 1000 S. Quentin Road, Palatina. Candidates will answer questions from the audience and then lead splinter groups in informal discussions.

Moats headed the Student Senate committee investigating the recent dismissals of teachers Edward Kalish and Dr. Betty Enbysk.

His decision to toss his hat into the political arena as a trustee candidate was cheered by Mrs. Robert J. Wilson, Jr., 309 S. Waverly Pl., Mount Prospect.

"I'VE WORKED with young people for many years. I hava a great deal of faith in them," said Mrs. Wilson, a school nurse at New Trier High School, Winnetka and former diraetor of Mount Prospect school haalth services for 11 years, "I find Larry Moats to ba an articulata, farsighted young man, deeply interested in the future of Harper College in terms of its service to the community."

"I feel he will be an asset to tha Harper Board of Trustees as a refreshing young clear-thinking adult."

Mrs. Wilson said both she and her husband have been quite disturbed by the non-reappointment of the two faculty mambers with no reason being given. "We also wera quite distrubed by the acceptance of the resignation of the director of counselling," she said.

"UP TO THIS time, Harper Junior College has enjoyed a fina reputation," she said. "My husband and I believa that students and faculty are the vital ingredients of any college and that this unrest can only prove harmful to our community college."

The Wilsons have lived in Mount Prospect for 20 years.

A drumbeater for the collaga for aight years, Mrs. Jassalyn M. Nicklas of Palatine, secretary of the Board of Trustees, feels that youth is no barrier to serving on the board.

"The law says that when you are ready to vote, you are ready to taka on responsibility. My only concern is what can an individual do to help the college. There are various kinds of strangths that are brought to tha college."

Almost 21 and with his hat already in the political arena, Larry Moats, candidate for the Harper College board, said that one of his strengths is student contact.

Suburban Story

By Catherine O'Donnell

A man and his wife were driving a neighbor to the airport to catch an early, early flight. The wife, attired in curlers and the non-chalant outdoor garb of the very early morning, was to complete the airport run after dropping her husband off at his nearby office.

Before the husband left the car, he said to the man on his way to the airport, "Whatever you do, be sure to get your suitcase out of the car trunk. My wife once drove off with my suitcase in the trunk and I had to chase the car right through the middle of the street in heavy traffic."

"Oh," added the wife, "I remember that. I couldn't imagine who was pounding on the trunk of the car in the middle of the road."

Later at the airport, the neighbor asked for the keys to the car trunk before he would get out of the car. "I'm not taking any chances on you," said he, grinning over the keys.

She watched as he called the porter, got his suitcase onto the cart and turned to wave goodbye.

She waved back and turned to start the car. No keys. The flying neighbor had entered the terminal with her car keys in his hand.

She followed, with the curlers in her hair. "Oh well," she consoled herself much later on the way home, "I hope that wasn't anyone important he was with."

THE NIXON-NOVOTNY CLANS

When Tom Novotny returns on the weekends from his Washington duties with the National Republican Committee, he brings back little anecdotes of what life in the Capital city is like. He and his daughter, Mary K., 11, got into an argument a couple of weeks ago about which of the President's daughters was the prettiest.

"Tricia is," insisted Mary K. "Julie is," teased Tom.

Mary K. finally took matters into her own hands and wrote a letter to Tricia Nixon telling her that she thought she was prettier "by far." Tom read the letter and added a postscript. "I think your sister, Julie, is the prettiest," he wrote.

Neither parent thought the letter would be sent but it was. Two days ago, Mary K. received a very pretty autographed picture of Tricia. The Nixon girls ignored Tom.

SPEAKING OF POLITICIANS

"I'm beginning to feel like a man from outer space," complained Glenn Anderson. "No one even knows that I'm in that other contest."

Glenn is a candidate for the post of trustee on the Wheeling Township School Board. The school board of the township is one that was not included in the sweep of the Republican Caucus over township offices.

That meeting, you will recall, left only one contested position, that of assessor, which is being sought by independent Herman Koeneman and Republican Marshall Theroux.

Glenn points out that the Township School Board election will take place on Saturday, April 12 along with the School District 214 Board election and referendums. He also said that the job he seeks is the one left vacant by the resignation of Bill Griffin.

The other board members in the township are Robert Sir and Bud Richardson.

The function of the trustees of the Wheeling Township School Board is to hold title to school lands and to elect a treasurer.

Glenn, who has been very active in township and community affairs, especially in the interests of the Republican party is opposed by Joanne Shalk.

EXCUSES, EXCUSES

Tonight, when the football-only players of Prospect High School play the football only players of Arlington High School in a BASKETBALL game to help raise funds to finance the dazzling after-the-prom party for the Arlingtons, the loser will have a great excuse.

It seems that these amateur cagers will be on the same bill as Doctor Irwin Ross of Chicago. Dr. Ross is a hypnotist.

It hasn't quite been decided just who or what it is he will hypnotize. It could be the football players or it could be the coaches from the two schools who will play in the second half of the all-startling game. Or it could be the referee.

At any rate, right now no one seems to know who the subjects for the hypnotist will be. It sounds like the start of something memorable. The game jumps off at 7:30 p.m.

The losers can blame it all on their hypnotist. The tickets will sell for $1.25 for adults and for----students----zzz-----wonder why that man keeps waving that shiny object—much less----zzzzzzzzzz. Back and forth, back and forth, zzzzzzz.

Search On For 'Mr. Ugly'

By Linda Foster

Kaith Lewis ... Bob Tarrazas ... Sam Romano ... Tom Trudna ... who will be crowned Wheeling High School's Mr. Ugly?

The Mr. Ugly candidates will collect money from their graduating class until Saturday, March 29, when the one with the most money will be crowned.

Mr. Ugly's mock coronation at 9:30 p.m. will mask the climax of the week. Members of AFS who have worked on the mock coronation are Lily Chamsobhon, Jean Lu, Cinnie DuBois, Barb Moriarity, Jean Pasternak, Sue Simons, and Michelle McCabe.

Student exchange benefit week is AFS' campaign for raising funds for future Wheeling High School foreign exchange students.

EXCHANGE student shares will be sold for 25 cents during lunches Monday.

Students who buy these shares are entitled to a 50 cent reduction in Student Faculty Show tickets. Also, the price of Fun Nite tickets for share holders will be slashed from $1.25 to $1.

The student faculty talent show, "The Wonderful World of Walnuttoes," will be featured Thursday, 8 p.m. The theme of the show will be "a mixture of Laugh-in and burlesque," according to Kathy Keene, student director.

KATHEE, a junior, along with Gerry Daley, senior, have helped write the general script of the show.

Not only will there be student acts in the show, but teachers will demonstrate their talents as well.

The talent show will include a wide variety of entertainment. Performers will dance, sing, play their guitars, and do comedy skits.

EXCHANGE students from the area will attend the talent show. They will stay with Wheeling students Thursday night, and return to Wheeling early Friday morning.

Four assemblies, one for each graduating class will be held on Friday. During these assemblies, the exchange students will give short speeches about themselves and their countries.

During fourth hour, there will be an open house in the choir room. Here the exchange students will try to answer questions about themselves and their countries.

AN EIGHT-period day at Wheeling High School next year will substantially increase the number of classes offered during the academic school year.

In the past, a six-period day has prevailed with the classes running about 55 minutes in length. The addition of the two periods will reduce the class-period time to 48 minutes.

The lunch periods will be increased from 30 minutes to 48 minutes.

SEVERAL advantages evolve from the eight-period day: 1) classes will be increased, 2) teachers will have time to meet with students individually. Teachers will have two conference periods each day, and 3) the shortened class period will be more compatible for many courses.

In relationship to class time Dr. Clarence Miller, assistant principal of instruction, said, "Our class time now is 55 minutes per period. For most classes that is a little too long. Class time would be cut down to 48 minutes."

Dr. Miller sees fewer scheduling problems at Wheeling High School with the increased class offerings. Students will be able to carry five classes and still have a study hall. In the past, students were not permitted to take a fifth subject unless they maintained a high-grade average or were seniors.

A STUDENT could finish his high school career in three years if he carried six courses during one school year. Dr. Miller urges the students to take the usual four-year curriculum. "It usually takes a student four years before he is at the stage where he is ready for work or college. On the other hand I realize that some students are ready to leave school at the end of three years," Dr. Miller commented.

The eight-period day should lend to an easier transition to traditional scheduling to the modular scheduling which is under consideration for Wheeling High School.

Dr. Miller initiated the eight-period day for WHS after he had attended an educational seminar at the University of Iowa. "After the change to an eight-period day, students should be able to accept modular scheduling," Dr. Miller added.

School Dist. 59 Answers Our Questions

Editor:

Your editorial of Monday, March 24, entitled "Some Questions on School District 59" suggests that you are looking for some answeres. As President of School District 59, I will try to provide answers.

"Why board members publicly commended William L. Lankenau, Business Manager on Jan. 6, 1969 — and notified him less than two months later that his contract was not being picked up next year?"

I personally commended Mr. Lankenau for his appointment to a professional financial committee to which had given services of several years. This, however, was not a statement that his over-all performance for us met with our standards.

"Why District 59 also commended Jack Ward, Buildings and Grounds Director, in September --- than also notified him in February that they were not renewing his contract?"

Jack Ward was commended for his work on summer projects and for his efforts and preparations made for the opening of school. This also was a commendation for a specific effort and did not reflect an evaluation of his total performance. The contracts of both of these men are not being renewed for reasons outlined to them by their superiors. This action was carefully considered by the board members and approved. It is neither proper nor necessary to explain the details concerning their substandard performance in public.

"Why Wayne Little, former Budget Committee Chairman, was told in September by fellow board members that any questions he had about school operations should go only to Dr. Donald Thomas, district superintendent.

Wayne Little, former board of education member, had asked me on several occasions to call meetings of board members without the administrators being present. I insisted that any discussion of school district affairs should be held at regular board meetings in the presence of the administration and the public. To me, this seems more like the American way.

"Why Dr. Thomas gave board members, some principals, and The Day a chart on administration costs of District 59 showing budget figures for past years — when actual expenditures for those past years have been available since early fall?"

Dr. Thomas asked Mr. Waltman, assistant superintendent, to compile administrative costs of surrounding districts and to compare them to administrative costs of District 59. In compiling the information, Mr. Waltman simply asked for budget figures, rather than actual expenditures. Actual expenditures in every account had already been given to the board of education prior to this time. In addition, actual expenditures in every account are public information distributed monthly to the board of education and to the press.

"Why the chart Dr. Thomas handed out showed $263,150 administrative costs for 1967-68 (a budget figure) when audit reports from accountants Peat, Marwick, Mitchell & Co., showed actual expenditures for administrative costs during 1967-68 of $307,353.50?

The 1967-68 administrative budget allocation of $263,150 was taken from the original budget, which was developed in the spring of 1967. This budget was later revised because of increased state aid received during the summer. Together with other accounts, the administrative budget allocation was increased to $301,985. The actual expenditure was $307,353 of $5,368 (less than 2 per cent) over the amount budgeted. We probably could have done a better job of budgeting!

"Why District 59 paid $307,353.50 that year for administration costs -- up $99,527.46 from administration costs in 1966-67? And why did District 59 find it necessary to budget $398,700 for the current school year -- still another increase? No principals' or teachers' salaries are included in administrative costs; these are paid from instructional salaries accounts.

District 59 did spend $307,353 in administrative costs during the 1967-68 school year. This was 5.8 per cent of the total educational budget. Although $398,700 has been budgeted for this year, projections indicate we will spend $370,000 or 5.8 per cent of the educational fund.

These expenditures were increased because:

1. The student enrollment has increased between 11 and 13 per cent over the past two years. This required additional adminstrative personnel to maintain the level of service provided to our students.
2. Over the past two years, the teachers received a 5 to 12 per cent salary increase, central office and secretarial staff members have been given similar considerations.
3. Staff members who have been inappropriately paid from other accounts in the past are now being charged to administrative costs.
4. While the district was experiencing it's greatest growth, administrative departments had to be understaffed because of other more critical needs. Now that the influx of students has decreased, funds have been allocated to the administrative account which compares favorably with percentage allocations budgeted in other districts. All of this information is public and can be reviewed by the press or members of the community at anytime.

"Why Dr. Thomas asked the New York Foundation to give the district $22,250 to pay the salary of an ombudsman and his staff who would investigate complaints of people and report directly to the board of education?"

In January, Dr. Thomas provided board members with a copy of the proposal to the New York Foundation. The matter was discussed in a board bulletin and was an item on the January 20 agenda for board discussion. Dr. Thomas advised that the proposal was submitted in January. At the March 17 meeting, Dr. Thomas indicated that the Foundation was interested in the proposal. Many school districts as well as other governmental agencies are investigating the appointment of an ombudsman. In addition, we hired Dr. Thomas with the understanding that he would strive to seek funds for the district from every possible source.

"And why haven't some of the board members yet seen a copy of the proposal that was given to the foundation?

All board members received a copy in January of the ombudsman proposal.

"Does a grade school district even need a full-time ombudsman, even if the foundation gives District 59 money to hire one?"

It is my belief that a large school district can use the services of an ombudsman, especially if the money is provided from outside sources. It is a way to produce additional services to the people and students of School District 59.

I believe your newspaper should be asking additional questions such as:

Are the children in the district receiving an excellent education?

Are educational programs being developed for every child?

Are the schools being operated as a public enterprise?

Are parents given a voice in the education of [illegible] children?

Is each child treated as an important person?

During the past two years we have seen a remarkable improvement in the services given directly to children in our special education programs, and in our individualized programs for every child. It is my hope that the school district will continue to operate with this as its primary responsibility — services to children. I hope that it will never become a private organization to satisfy the vested interests of its employees or a political interest of individuals.

Sincerely yours,
Gene Artemenko

Special Dancing Class

Tuck your head under and over you go are the instructions given by Bonnie Wessorick to one of her special dance students at Clearbrook Center in Rolling Meadows.

By Marilyn Helfers

The 11:30 a.m. bell rang and the leotard-attired dancing teacher plugged in her record player and arranged the records in anticipation of her class' arrival.

But the children who came into the gym at Clearbrook Center in Rolling Meadows displayed more enthusiasm for their special dance class than the ordinary suburban little girl, enrolled in dancing lessons because her parents think it's a good idea. These little girls, each in their own special way, greeted Bonnie Wessorick of Arlington Heights, their teacher, and June Lippert of Prospect Heights, her assistant, as they do every Wednesday morning.

LAST YEAR Mrs. Wessorick, who also teaches dancing at Delores Eiler Studio, approached Clearbrook with her idea, to teach dancing to students at Clearbrook. "I felt that dancing would be relaxing and also teach coordination to these children," said Bonnie.

Mrs. Graca Koterba, Clearbrook Day School director, said she feels that dancing classes are usually available to normal little girls and should be available to retarded children. "We don't want retarded children to be separated from normal activities. Dancing helps motor problems and is an enjoyable activity compared to exercising. The kids have fun doing it. It also improves their ability to follow directions.

"I feel that by developing body skills some of it is carried over into other activities.

CLEARBROOK accepted Mrs. Wessorick's idea and she volunteered to teach an experimental 8-week program, using children they thought would get along alright. "The class was half an hour because we felt this would fit the attention span of the children," said Bonnie.

The class was so successful, and children and parents were so enthusiastic that Clearbrook asked Bonnie to continue it this year.

Class begins with the girls lined up in a row doing basic ballet and tap steps. A special favorite is "The Hokey-Pokey" and the girls' smiling faces register their enthusiasm.

SOON IT is time to exercise on the ballet bar that Mrs. Wessorick's husband made for the gym and in typical little girl fashion the dancers mimic their teacher. All the girls become enthusiastic when it's time for acrobatics and they find it hard to wait in their chairs until it's their time to tumble on the mat.

When the noon bell rings the children form a "train" that takes them to their lunch.

A quiet observer at all the dance lessons is 4-year-old Gary Wessorick who sits patiently on a chair watching the class at work. "Gary knows all the girls by name and proudly discusses each girl's progress with his two brothers, Kurt, 6, Mika, 10, and his 11-year-old sister, Kathy, during the evening's dinner conversation.

"ALL OF our children have become involved in my dance classes," said Bonnie, "and it is helping them to become sensitive to other children's feelings and not to laugh at kids just because they are different."

"Sometimes our lessons are very confusing, if one of the girls isn't having a good day," said Bonnie, "and we wonder if we accomplished anything. But when we come back the next week, the children do everything we showed them the week before and it is very rewarding.

"This little girl," said Bonnie as she introduced me to one of the dancers, "just sat on a chair in the beginning and watched us, but today she tries her best to do everything the others are doing."

As the two teachers collected their equipment and started for home, they were already discussing what they could do next week to make class just a little better.

Up, down, bend and stretch to keep limber on the ballet bar. These are necessary exercises for all young dancers.

Use Your Coupons

A coupon clipped, a penny saved. Benjamin Franklin surely would have gone wild over coupon clippings, a promotional tool whose popularity has increased dramatically during the past two years.

Ten cents saved on a bottle of catsup or five cents on detergent may not sound like enough of a savings to become excited about but over the course of 52 weeks one can save as much as $50 or more.

According to recent studies released by the A. C. Nielsen Co., Chicago marketing service which processes redeemed coupons, the 10 cent coupon is the most favored for promotions, particularly when introducing a new product. Of lesser importance is the 7- 8- and 15-cent coupon.

EACH YEAR there are thousands of coupons printed in newspapers and magazines. In 1967 their usage increased dramatically to an estimated 14.5 billion, a 13 per cent gain over the previous year.

In Arlington Heights it is a common sight in super markets to see a housewife carrying a handful of coupons around as she shops, working them skillfully into her weekly budget.

Two prime reasons for their growth is that they allow a reduction on new products and due to the keen competition between manufacturers, offer an ideal way to promote the old tried and true products.

St. Edna StyleShow

The women of St. Edna's Women's Club are tiptoeing through the tulips in preparation for their gala luncheon and style show set for Saturday April 19 at the Arlington Carousel. Spring and summer leisure and sportswear will be featured along with at-home and formal ensembles from Marge's Apparel, Arlington Heights, and modeled by members of the Women's Club.

Luncheon will be served after the cocktail hour and many door prizes have been obtained for the lucky ticket-holders. Tickets may be obtained from Mrs. Jeanne Duncan, 537-6285. New residents may contact Mrs. J. Reiland at 259-3549 for further membership information.

JOSEPH ROWAN

Penologist To Speak

The prevention of crime and delinquency will be the topic of the address given by Joseph R. Rowan at the regular monthly meeting of the Arlington Heights Woman's Club Wednesday, April 2, at Recreation Park. Rowan is presently executive director of the John Howard Association, a non-profit organization devoted to the rehabilitation on released prisoners, crime prevention and the improvement of prisons.

He received his penology training at San Jose State College in California and followed it with a degree in correctional administration from Notre Dame and one in social work from the University of California at Berkley.

PRIOR to his present position, Rowan was deputy commissioner of corrections, State of Minnesota, consultant to the National Council on Crime and Delinquency, and a member of the Wisconsin probation and parole agency II.

Hostesses for the April meeting are Mrs. Forrest Sward and Mrs. Charlas Watkins.

Jazz Service

An original Jazz Lenten service will be presented 8 p.m. March 26, at the Lenten Midweek Service at Grace Evangelical Lutheran Church, Prospect Heights.

Five theological students from the Lutheran School of Theology, Chicago, have devised the service as a contemporary expression of the Christian faith. The students are Victor Anderson, Knight Walla, Charlas Marknar, Barney Spector and LeRoy Dyer.

THE GROUP has been conducting such jazz services for the past two years in many churches in Illinois and has developed a worship format that is modern, yet conveys many of the traditional aspects of the worship service.

A coffee hour will be held following the service to give people an opportunity to discuss the experience and to get acquainted with the seminarians.

Using a bare wall as a canvas, the alert homemaker can readily achieve a scene that will credit her as a topnotch decorator and give her family and guests a feeling of warmth. Sharing the honors with her artistic talents is Masonite Corporation's attractive shelving system, compatible with traditional, Mediterranean or contemporary styling.

High-style Shelving

Shelving of high-style "living room" quality gives the talented homemaker the tools she needs to dress up the walls of key rooms so they are both attractive and useful.

Developed precisely for this purpose is a complete wood shelving system now available from Masonite Corp. through lumber and building materials dealers. It includes furniture-crafted wood pilasters and brackets and a choice of contemporary or traditional carved wood shelves, all in unit-matching satin walnut finish.

The shelves may be used with or without pilasters to create interesting, attractive and functional wall displays in various situations such as a living room, den or bedroom.

IT IS easy to move the shelves from one location, to another, as the slots in the sturdy metal standards within the pilasters will accommodate the shelf brackets in a variety of heights.

The ensemble is compatible with traditional, Mediterranean or contemporary styling.

A lacquer finish makes the solid wood shelves stain resistant.

Two styles of 7" wood brackets are offered. One fits any metal wall standard. The other is engineered for Royalcote Living Wall — a slotted woodgrained paneling concept popularized by Masonite. Pilasters are not used with this system.

For a colorful brochure on the Masonite shelving system, send a postcard to the company's Home Service Bureau, Box B, Chicago, Ill. 60690.

Flashy was the word when a flapper waltzed down the street carrying one of these beaded bags, often studded with colored stones.

Antique Antics

From Smelling Salts To Credit Cards

By Mary Bruce

With spring just around the corner and new spring bonnets waiting to blossom on Easter Sunday, we tend to ignore one of our most important and necessary fashion accessories, the purse.

The history of handbags is long and varied. In the middle ages they were carried by rich and poor alike. Because the clothes of the early days lacked pockets as we know them, people were forced to carry large heavy pouches made of skins or heavy woven fabric slung over the shoulder or arm.

During the late 1600s pockets were added to the clothes, and the stocking purse came into use. Before this, a large pocket had been attached to a belt.

THIS FASHION continued until the late 1700s when a handbag or reticule (a small purse made of network) took the place of the stocking purses, although they were still carried by some of the people until the late 1800s.

These reticules were worn with every type of costume and were made in every conceivable fabric, color and style. Many were circular with frills and flounces and closed with a tasseled drawstring.

A large reticule of the 1830s resembled today's purses with a lapover flap and lock, but many were just netted bags pulled with a drawstring and attached to a chatelaine. The chatelaine was a hooklike clasp worn on a belt around the waist. Other fashion accessories such as scissors, keys and other trinkets were also suspended from it during the years of its popularity.

THE RETICULES of the 1870s were just large enough to carry a handkerchief and were made to match every day, dance and tea gown of this period. Pockets had finally been introduced into the seams of the dresses so the little bags were not indispensible.

It wasn't until the early 1900s that the handbags became a work of beauty and art. The lovely beaded bags burst upon the fashion scene in a dazzling array of colors, designs, and patterns. Most of these bags had a ridged extension top with frames of silver or gold, many studded or inlaid with semi-precious or imitation jewels. They were suspended with a long chain for a handle and a long fringe of beads dangling from the bottom in colors corresponding to the body of the bag.

Elaborate scenes, flowers and designs created by machine or by hand decorated these handbags. The small reticule is handmade with a crocheted edging for the drawstring cord. Because of the fragile thread used on the fringe many were broken and lost. In many cases, the fabric has disintegrated and only the frame has been left, but because of the detail and beauty of the settings of the stones many collectors are saving these as a lost work of art.

SILVER and gold mesh bags on long necklaces were worn as coin purses during 1906. These opened on a spring and remained popular for years as evening bags. The large mesh bags came in about 1908-1909 and many of these had large rings attached to the chains for dangling the purse on a finger.

This was the time compact powder was being carried and although the young lady of the day never was seen using rouge in public, makeup was beginning to make inroads into the fashion scene. Handbags were growing larger as the amount of accessories grew.

Now, besides the handkerchief, smelling salts, pencils and scent bottle, milady was on her way to a never ending assortment of compacts, rouges, lipsticks and cigarettes, and that threat to every happy modern home, the credit cards.

From 1910 to 1930 one of the smartest accessories was the brocade and mesh purses, some hardly large enough to carry a flask through it was an era of prohibition.

Needlepoint purses were made both by hand or machine in varying shades of reds, greens and purples with much detailed crocheting added. Roses and violets were popular subjects, set on silver or gold frames.

Elk Grove Women Plan Luncheon

April 30 has been selected by the Republican Women of Elk Grove Township as the date for their annual luncheon and card party to be held this year at the Elks Club in Des Plaines. Mrs. Fred Thulin, club president, made the announcement at the group's March meeting held at her home.

A membership campaign to include parts of Des Plaines, Elk Grove Village, Mount Prospect, Arlington Heights and Rolling Meadows will soon begin. Membership chairman is Mrs. Jerome Zanca, Des Plaines, who may be contacted at 299-4871.

Girls to Compete

Two 14-year-old Arlington Heights girls will represent their junior high schools in the northern division competition of the Penny Flame Home Economics Awards Program, sponsored by Northern Illinois Gas Co.

Susan Marie Verdico of South Junior High School and Jean Keelan of Miner Junior High School will meet with other contestants on March 29 in Glenview.

As contestants, the girls will be required to prepare a cherry pie as well as write a 20-minute quiz on the principles of home economics. Both girls are competing on the junior level of the contest for monetary awards of $200 or $100. One junior will be selected to advance to the finals scheduled for April.

Jean, the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. James Keelan, is sponsored in the program by her home economics teacher, Miss Carolyn York. Susan's parents are Mr. and Mrs. John Verdico, and she is the student of Miss Barbara Givens.

Art Center Classes Scheduled

Four Seasons Art, Design and Idea Center of Niles, has announced that classes in the art of decorating plaster, plastic and vinyl will begin this week. The store, which opened March 15, carries over 5,000 different unfinished plaster, plastic and vinyl pieces which can be used for decorating home, office or place of business.

Mrs. Renee Kahn of Des Plaines will teach the classes to be held six days a week. She will give instructions in the use of paints, glosses and finishes to style their decorative choices.

In the near future, classes will begin in ceramics under the direction of Mrs. Judy Guarino of Mount Prospect.

Applications are now being taken for all classes at the center, 269 Lawrencewood Shopping Center, Waukegan and Oakton, Niles, 965-6661.

have followed for three years." He denied any partisan motivation for the message to taxpayers.

Shanyfelt said that early in March the Active Citizens Party applied to the principal of the John Jay School for a candidates night. The routine permit was not issued until it was too late to call the meeting and the plans for the rally had to be cancelled.

SHANYFELT said that a rally and candidates night for the Active Citizens Party will be held in Elk Grove Village Wednesday night. It is expected that the Active Citizens Party plans for blocking further transfer of funds to the District 59 will be discussed then.

On March 18, officials of Elk Grove Township announced that they would recommend to citizens at the town meeting on April 1 a giving surplus funds of abou $100,000 to District 59.

Guess Who's Coming at Easter

By Lori Adams

"Long ears, a head, some eyes, a nose, a mouth, a stomacb, a round fuzzy tail and a pair of legs."

That's what's going to Mary Miles' house on Easter.

Kindergarteners at North School, Arlington Heights, all know who will visit them on Easter, but they all heve their own idaa of what this mysterious bunny looks like.

"He's yellow or white; he has blue or green eyes, and he lives in a hole," said Brian McCarthy. "And he hops to my house with baskets of candy."

"He has tow big teeth that stick out, great big feet, and his name is Bill, said Barbara Geiseke.

"I don't like the name Bill, but the Easter Bunny gives me candy, so i like him."

"I call him an Easter Bunny. Ha can't heve any other name because he's just a rabbit," said Skipper Fay. "The Easter Bunny has four legs, pink eyes and is big and fat."

Lisa Drayson said the bunny that comes to her house looks like a daer, has a middle-size tail and is hiding in the forest until Easter.

"Hmmm, I think he's married and has two boy bunnies," said Brian McCarthy.

Easter Bunnies eat carrots, said Mary Miles.

Dist. 59 Candidates Outline Views

four were opposed.

An ombudsman is a person who would investigate complaints of parents and students and report directly to the board of education.

"An ombudsman is an absurdity for District 59," Garvey said. "It is designed for a govarnment that is removed and unresponsive to the people. The District 59 Board of Education is close to the public and elections are held often enough for it to be responsive to the people," he said.

Domanico supportad the idea of an ombudsman.

"If we get a grant, I am for the ombudsman the first year. After that we would heve to judge its affectivenass in determiming whether to continue the service."

"What I am concerned about is that funds were solicited for the ombudsman before the board took a stance on it," he said.

"Jan. 7 and March 3, though, the board was advised thet the funds were being applied for," he said.

Even before accepting the services at no cost for a year, Blanchard wants to know what kind of person would accept the position, knowing it would be for only a year. Secondly, he wondered whether it would commit the district to continue the program if it is offered for the year it would be financed by a New York Foundation grant.

"KNOWING these things, I would support an ombudsman program if there is additional money to pay for it," he said.

Neuhauser opposed the program if the district has to pay for it, but saw no harm in taking it free.

"Any parent can call a board member and relate his problams and lat the board membar speak for him at board meetings," he said.

"I am against paying ombudsman $23,000 a year to do the same thing whera there are adaquate channels for communication," he said.

Stewart said that an ombudsman would obscura communication and opposed heving one.

"The people can go directly to the board with problems. I favor this grass-roots approach to an ombudsman," Rich said.

A woman who identified herself as a parent asked the candidates their position on administrative services.

Neuhauser said thet a scala of priorities should ba established, rating the administrative services, and that any cutbacks then could be made easily.

"Administrative costs are $37 per child in the district, which is the second highest amount in the area among comperable districts," he said.

Domanico said that he strongly supports curriculum co-ordinators and that the new board will be conscious of administrative costs.

"It is the responsibility of the board to make sure that axpensas are justified. Raasonabla costs are necessary," he said.

"WE SHOULD evaluate the administrators and, if they are doing their job, then any savings in the budget should come from elsewhare," Harvey said.

Teachers can see their pay raises going down the drain in rising administration costs," Stewart said.

Rich said that the district can operate on a balanced budget.

"Administrative cutbacks will not substantially reduce class ratios," Garvey said.

"If we want to reduce pupil-teacher ratios, the money savad from curtailing administration activities will be of little use.

"If we want to reduce class sizes then we must pay for more teachers," he said.

"Tbirty-five pupils in a class are too many. I believe that a 26:1 ratio of pupils to teacher is acceptable," he said.

"The ratio should be based on the number of classroom teachers in the home room. For kindergarten through fifth grade an acceptable ratio is 26:1. For junior high school the ratio is lower, 24:1," he said.

"Class sizes should be the decision of the teacher. Education is teachers, children and programs and an individual teacher should know how many children can be taught effectively," Harvey said.

"CLASS SIZE in any school are not too large in this district," Rich said.

Blanchard said that he opposes the board of educatioo setting class sizes.

"It should be up to the teacher how many children are in his or her class," he said.

Ordovensky said that the 26:1 ratio was not realistic unless it reflects only the number of teachers teaching a class.

If a 21-cent tax rate increase were necessary, all the caodidates favored recommending it to the voters.

Domanico quotad Supt. Donald Thomas saying "the people will support whatever type of education they want."

A&P SPECIAL MESSAGE TO EX-A&P CUSTOMERS

(AND TO THOSE WHO NEVER HAVE SHOPPED A&P)

You may have heard about the "new" A&P.
You may even have read about how "We Care...about you."
Well, everything you've heard and read is true.
Your local A&P is a great place to shop.

Here's why. We took a good hard look at ourselves.
We analyzed our century of experience.
We made a check list of the things that made A&P America's leading food store.

Then, we decided to look for ways to do them even better.
We redoubled our efforts to make
A&P a friendly, dependable store to shop, to prove, "We Care...About You."

If you've been away, come on back.
If you've never been an A&P shopper, give it a try.
You may discover it's fun to be cared about.

Nixon Urban Affairs Report Given Today

A closed-circuit television report this morning on Nixon Administration plans for meeting urban problems was arranged by a committee headed by a Des Plaines industrialist.

The program, "Challenge from the Nixon Administration," was broadcast to members of the Urban Affairs Council and community leaders in 27 major American cities, including Chicago.

Chairman of "Challenge From the Nixon Administration" is M.P. Venema, chairman and chief executive officer of Universal Oil Products Co., Des Plaines, and president of the Chicago Assn. of Commerce and Industry.

The program was received in Chicago in the grand ballroom of the Sheraton Chicago Hotel. The three-hour program was broadcast live and in color on a theater-type screen.

It featured two-way communications enabling members in the Chicago audience to question officials in Washington during the discussion periods. Unanswered questions from the audience will be mailed to Cabinet members for personal reply.

Government officials taking part were President Nixon: Vice President Spiro Agnew; Daniel Moynihan assistant to the president; George Romney, secretary of housing and urban development; and Robert H. Finch, secretary of health, education and welfare.

George P. Schultz, secretary of labor; Maurice H. Stans, secretary of commerce, and John A. Volpe, secretary of transportation.

Others participating were Arch N. Booth, executive vice president of the United States Chamer of Commerce; Erwin D. Canham, editor in chief of Christian Science Moniter, and Jenkins Lloyd Jones, editor and publisher of the Tulsa Tribune.

The program was designed to present plans of the Urban Affairs Council for attacking urban problems and mobilizing voluntary action, particularly from private industry.

Dist. 214 Refuses Students Longer Spring Vacation Bid

Student Council members, speaking for the 15,000 high school students in District 214 last night asked the board of education for three extra days of spring vacation and were refused.

"We want the board to change our vacation from April 3-8 to March 31-April 8," Sue Mudry, 281 S. Wheeling Av., Wheeling, said.

THE STUDENTS contended the three extra days of vacation could be subtracted from five "emergency" days in the school calendar, days when heavy snow or a furnace breakdown, for example, cause cancellation of classes.

The school board, however, claims state law prevents using the emergency days for anything other than a real emergency.

Miss Mudry, secretary of the Wheeling High School Student Council, justified the students' request on the basis of the five emergency days.

"ALSO, OUR DISTRICT does not have a vacation at the same time as District 25, which is March 29-April 6. There are many families with children in both districts and there are many District 214 employes with children in District 25.

"Because the vacations do not coincide or even overlap very much it is difficult or impossible for these families to plan their holiday activities together," said Miss Mudry.

"The spring tour to Washington, D.C. also falls during this time.

"We feel it is difficult to learn on the days preceding spring vacation. Sometimes the teachers are absent.

"THEREFORE, WE FEEL that the emergency days built into the calendar should be used to lengthen our spring vacation," she said.

Raymond Erickson, board member, said the school calendar contains 185 days, of which four may be alloted for teachers' institutes and five for emergencies which leaves 176 days for education.

"This is the state minimum and according to our interpretation of the state code any of the days allotted for emergencies or teachers institutes that are not used for such will be used for education," he said.

CRAIG HOWARD, 926 N. Dryden, Arlington Heights, an Arlington High student, asked if the board could look at the five emergency days as being intended for no school instead of planning them for classes.

Richard Bachhuber, board secretary, said the code says the emergency days must be used for school and that the board feels there is so much to learn that every day is precious.

Edward Gilbert, superintendent, said that the district had planned 182 class days each year for three or four years before the emergency days provision was enacted in 1964.

"SO YOU SEE, you're not spending any more time in school than your predecessors did," he said.

Mike Pattarozzi, 360 Hiawatha Dr., Buffalo Grove, Wheeling High student council president, said that the classes missed by gaining three extra days could be made up by taking the slack out of the classes.

"In every one of my courses the teachers don't teach up to their capacity," he said.

STEVE SCHMIDT, vice president of the Wheeling High Student Council, said the teachers should lecture the entire class period or the student should be excused from the class.

"If education is merely listening to a teacher talking, then I'm afraid we've missed the boat," Gilbert said.

"If this were true then we could have the teachers on TV and you could tune him in.

"Our classes are designed to allow time for self-directed learning. I'm disappointed to hear that it may not be used profitably, but I believe it is," he said.

Prospect Band at Busse

The Prospect High School concert band will perform for Busse School children Wednesday, March 26 at 10 and 10:40 a.m. in the school auditorium.

As a part of the cultural arts program at Busse, the concert was preceded by an assembly featuring two films: Instruments of the Orchestra and Walt Disney's Toot, Whistle, Plunk and Boom.

According to Mrs. Robert Landes, cultural arts chairman, this is the second consecutive year the Prospect High band has been included in the cultural arts program.

Now It's Easier To Protest Income Tax

The United States government has taken steps to make it easier--believe it or note--for the income taxpayer to contest decisions of the Internal Revenue Service.

According to the Illinois State Bar Association, the Tax Court of the United States has adopted a new method for processing cases in which the amount at issue is $1,000 or less. The method, effective last Jan. 1, is designed to help the small taxpayer contest his tax with few delays and extra expense as possible.

HERE IS the way it works:

If the IRS feels that the taxppayer's own computation on his return falls short of his true tax, he will receive a bill, or assessment notice. If a settlemeot acceptable to both parties cannot be reached, the taxpayer will receive notice that he has 90 days in which to file an appeal.

At this point, the taxpayer has two options: 1) He can pay the addtional money and then sue for a refund in the U.S. District Court. If successful, he obtains not only the refund but 6 per cent interest on the money; 2) He can withhold payment and file a petition in Tax Court. In doing so he runs the risk of having to pay the governmeot 6 per cent interest plus the money in question should he lose the case.

THERE IS one hitch. Cases which are accepted by Tax Court are heard entirely at the complainant's expense. There is a flat $10 fee for filing.

There may also be additional costs such as attorney's fees, although there is no rule preventing the taxpayer from arguing his own case. However, win or lose, all expenses for contesting a tax bill are deductible expense items on the taxpayer's next tax return.

Tax Court operates in a manner reminiscent of circuit-riding courts. Though headquartered in Washington D.C., the court conducts hearings all over the country. Decisions are made by the judge and may be appealed to the U.S. Court of Appeals and the Supreme Court.

Anyone wishing to obtain a form for petitioning the Tax Court may write to the clerk U.S. Tax Court, P.O. Box 70, Washingto D.C. 20044.

Traffic Signal Promised Soon

Traffic signals at Rand and Thomas Rds. in Arlington Heights are due shortly after bids are let in May, according to Rep. Eugene Schlickman (R-Arlington Heights).

He presented petitions from John Hersey High School students to Gov. Richard Ogilvie, calling for installation of traffic lights before the summer session begins June 23.

"About 4,000 students are expected to attend the summer session and because there will be no bus service many will have to cross the intersection," Jack Martin, assistant superintendent, said.

According to Schlickman, Gov. Ogilvie said that he was aware of the situation and would contact George March, District 10 chief highway engineer, to speed installation.

"Gov. Olgilvie said that the bids would be let in May and that the signals would be installed soon thereafter," Schlickman said.

Students from the Problems and Internal Affairs Committee of the Hersey Student Council distributed letters and circulated petitions in the area around the high school seeking support for the traffic signal.

St. Colette Registration

FOR THURSDAY

ARIES (March 22-April 20)--Bring business deals to a close as soon as possible. This is not the time to leave others wondering where they stand.

TAURUS (April 21-May 21)--If you need a boost to your morale, consider accepting the offer of a journey. New interests should be stirred up at this time.

GEMINI (May 22-June 21)--Look into new opportunities carefully before accepting any one of them. You may be better off right where you are.

CANCER(June22-July23)--Make every effort. Count for for two today as you try to make up for last time. You can rearrange your schedule to advantage.

LEO (July 24-Aug. 23)--If a journey has a definite connection with progress in business of profession, undertake it. Otherwise, try to beg off.

VIRGO (Aug.24-Sept.23)--Should a chance for advancement be offered, move quickly. You could easily forfeit an opportunity through delayed action.

LIBRA (Sept. 24-Oct. 23)--Professional or business associates bring new and important contacts to bear upon your career. Look forward to success.

SCORPIO (Oct. 24-Nov. 22)--Prospects can materialize into real gain if you follow through with them. Don't leave things until tomorrow.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 23-Dec. 22)--Make the most of morning hours which promise to be highly productive. A good day for speaking your mind.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 23-Jan. 20)--Take a good, healthy step forward in the attainment of a primary goal. A demonstration of will power would serve you well.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 21-Feb. 19)--If a change in employment is what you seek, this could well be the perfect day to make a defioita move.

PISCES (Feb. 20-March 21)--Don't ignore the social amenities as you go about the business of making money. Now is the time to co-operate with friends.

Coaches Pick All-Conference Gymnastics Squad

Benny Fernandez, EG

Bob Gleichman, A

By Linda Hamilton
Sports Editor

The Mid-Suburban League gymnastics coaches announced their selections for all-conference honors yesterday. Tha list included 14 boys, all from Dist. 214 high schools.

State champion Arlington dominated the field, but each district school was represented on the elite team. All-around man Bob Gleichman of Arlington was named to the squad in four different events while teammate Jim Brousseau and Hersey's Gary Morava both were named in three.

TWICE STATE cahmpion Tarry Halnes of Arlington was joined on the list for trampoline work by Prospect's Jay Bensen, second in the state this year, and Card Nick Isaacs, 14th in the state.

Those honored for side horse work were Prospect's Dava Mattson, who owns the highest score in the state in that event this year, an 8.8; Forast View Faleon John Connally, undefeated until district competition, and Wheeling's Cliff Hoffman.

The high bar featured an all-Cardinal lineup and included the state champion, Jim Brousseau, the state's third-place winner: George Creswell; and 12th place Gleichman.

BROUSSEAU AND Gleichman were also named to the parallel bar trio with Morava sneaking in for Hersey.

On the rings, Elk Grove's Benny Fernandez, second in the state in that event this year, joins two Cardinals, according to the coaches' decisions.

Gleichman and Kevin Lindsey are rated second and third on the rings.

Arlington's Steve VonEbers, this year's state champion, joins leads last year's state champion, Gary Drake, and Hersey's Morava in the free-exercise all-conference selections.

ALL-AROUND competitors honored were Gleichman, Brousseau and Morava.

Three of the boys named to this year's all-conference team will be back to show their skills next year. Morava, Fernandez and VonEbers are all juniors.

Meadows Grapplers Win

Rolling Meadows Park District wrestling team won its second straight meet of the year Thursday night 46-16 against St. Colette's mat men. Rolling Meadows made a strong showing winning ten individual matches, losing four and tying one.

Victorious for Rolling Meadows by pins were: Blain Dahl, Glen Poyer, Dave Blake, John Rose, Jim Waswo, Tom Hayden, and Alastair Cousins.

Decisions for Rolling Meadows were Jerry Jones 9-2, Mike Roberts 7-6, and co-captains Dan Pirron 7-4. Don White tied St. Colette's wrestler Mike Suerth 1-1.

St. Colette's points came from a pin by anchor man Mike Caravello and decisions by Jim Carlstrom 10-2, Tom Savage 4-1, and Dan Olsen 9-8.

Five exhibition matches took place after the meet and wrestlers from the park district won them all. Winners included co-captain Jerry Longtin, Dick Whitfield., Steva Nicoloff, Gary Arneman, and Scott Rudd.

Rolling Meadows Park District will have two more matches against coach jack Hyneman's St. Colette team in preparation for the District Meet which will be held the end of March at Forest View.

Rolling Meadows coach Carl Couve wishes to acknowledge the volunteer coaching assistance offered by Mike Reynolds and Bob Recker. Reynolds wrestled at St. Joseph College and Recker was a member of Forest View High School's wrestling team.

Four Named To Morning Star's All-State List

Four area boys received honorable mention in the Rockford Morning Star's selection of an all state basketball roster.

Included in the list were teammates Jack Bastable and Carl Fricke of Wheeling. The two combined to give Wheeling a 19-6 record and a berth in the state sectionals. Fricke led the Mid-Suburban League in both rebounding and scoring.

Also honored was Notre Dame's John Kardzoniak, a senior forward for the Dons. Kardzoniak finished up his prep career as the state's 25th leading scorer.

Mike Kinneman of Forest View was also given honorable mention by the Star. Roger Steingraber, Hersey coach complimented the young Falcon dribbler early in the season by saying, "Nobody can take the ball away from him."

Whistle Stop

State Final Games

by John Katzler

Contrary to hardly anyone's prediction, the North (and Proviso East) gained revenge and beat the South. Behind generals Jim Brewer and Harvey Roberts, the Pirates' outcome in the Illinois basketball Civil War was rarely in doubt.

In spite of the 37-36 score in the semifinals, Proviso East was clearly the class of the field. Brewer looked and performed as a man among boys.

OVERALL, IT seemed to most of the fans and to myself that the caliber of "elite eight" was something less than exciting. Past Proviso East, the rest of the field was mediocre at best.

The tournament play reflected this and I had to search hard to find some interesting situations for today's column. However, I did pick out a couple (not particularly earth-shaking) for your reading pleasure.

PLAY NUMBER 1: In the first-round game batween Aurora East and Mt. Vernon, there was a play that got a resounding chorus of boos. Aurora's all-tournament guard, Tom Kivisto, threw a pass to his running mate at tha other guard. It was deflected by a Mt. Vernon player.

In turn, the ball hit the leg of the Aurora guard for whom the pass was intended and then bounced into backcourt. Kivisto retreived the ball but was called for a backcourt violation. Since the ball was originally deflected by the defense, why was this backcourt?

RULING: The decision hinged on two factors: (1) Aurora's team control did not end when the ball was deflected because team control ends only when a shot is attempted, if the defense gains control, or the ball becomes dead; and (2) since the last man to touch the ball was an Aurora player, it is ruled that he caused the ball to go backcourt.

PLAY NUMBER 2: During the Champaign-Galesburg game, the ball was being thrown in by a Galesburg guard. In attempting to get clear, one of his teammates pushed his opponent and a foul was called. Since the ball was being held by Galesburg, was this a player-control foul?

RULING: No. During a throw-in, the ball is dead and there is no player (or team) control. Accordingly, this is a personal foul and a free throw is awarded.

PLAY NUMBER 3: Probably the most provocative play situation of the tournament arose in the Proviso East-Champaign semi-final. On several occasions, Proviso's fine forward Pete Bouzeos, broke toward the end line, circled around the basket and out of bounds. He then returned to the court, received the ball and shot. No violation was called in any of these instances. Why not?

RULING: The rules state that a player may not leave the court during a live ball or when the clock is running unless it is inadvertent or not of his own volition. To do it purposely is subject to a technical foul.

Since this ruling requires a bit of mind reading, a technical is seldom assessed (as witnessed in this game.)

Well, that wraps it up for today as well as this basketball season. I enjoyed being able to present my views as an official and sincerely hope some of your questions about the game have been answered.

So, with a final toot, Whistle Stop says good-bye for this season and hopes to see you again next year.

Gattas to Speak, Make Presentation Thursday

The Illinois High School Athletic Directors' Association will hold its fourth annual convention in Springfield on March 27 and 28. Featured speakers on this year's program include Ray Eliot, former University of Illinois football coach and now Associate Director of Athletics.

Cliff Fagan, Executive Secretary of the National High School Athletic Associations, and Harry Fitzhugh of Arlington Heights who holds a similar position with the Illinois High School Association, will combine to present an afternoon program this Friday.

George Gattas, Director of Athletics at Prospect High School will speak on "Athletic Directors' Association Tomorrow." Gattas will also make a presentation on Certification of Coaches, and will be the committee chairman of the same.

'Break in Weather' Would Help 1st Huskie Nine: Coach Chernicky

Head baseball coach of the Hersay Huskies Steve Chernicky, has made the final cut for the 1969 baseball team. The result is 18 boys, all juniors with the exception of one lone sophomore.

Coach Chernicky comes from Wheeling High School to direct Hersey's first baseball club for the new school. The juniors on the squad are made up of boys who were sophomores last year at either Arlington or Wheeling, most of them coming from the Wildcats.

COACH CHERNICKY is confident in his young ball club. The boys are working hard in the early sessions and are a spirited bunch, said the coach. "The pitchers and catchers have been working out in the gym since basketball season ended, and the other fellows came out about a week later."

According to the coach, if the Huskies can get a break in the weather and get some hitting practice in, the players should be in good shape for their opener April 3 with Elmwood Park.

Rotating on the mound for Hersey will be their two top pitchers, Richard Kreutzfeld and Robert Leja. Backing up the two regular starters will be Paul Elisco, Rick Martel and Bruce Frase.

KREUTZFELD, LEJA and Elisco are all lefthanders and will add some variety to the Huskies pitching staff.

Douglas Glander will be starting at second base for Wheeling and will be backed up by John Durso and Steven Fisher. Bruce Frase, the only sophomore on the squad, will be starting at shortstop for the Huskies. Giving depth at this position will be Richard Grutzmacher.

Starting catcher will be Steve Toneff, and he will be backed up by Tom Hart and Michael Ryder. Third base is still undecided as James Fletcher and Jack Jenkins are fighting it out for starting spots.

DICK POWELL rounds out the infield at first base with John Durso capable of stepping in when needed.

Thera are six Huskies trying to win starting berths in the outfield: Scott Feige, Glen Reames and George Solomon are strictly outfielders. Ryder plays in the outfield and will also be ready to fill in at catching position if needed. Fisher will also be trying to break into the outfield lineup.

Northwest Girls Stop Waukegan

The Northwest Suburban YMCA girls' swim team defeated Waukegan's girls swim team in a hard-fought contest which saw the lead change back and forth throughout the meet. The Northwest team won by a score of 165-158.

The "B" team, coached by Mrs. Ida Gabler, finished their season undefeated as did the "A" team, coached by A. Geisler. Members from both teams who qualified in district competition are swimming in the Illinois Area meet this Saturday in Peoria.

IN THE CADET division, both relay teams attained first place awards. On the 100-yard medley relay team were Terri Westdale, Tracey Hibbs, Barbara Larsen and Diane Chrysokos. Miss Chrysokos and Miss Larsen also combined with Cathy Howland and Chris Takata to win the 100-yard freestyle relay.

The 200-yard medley relay team of Terri Fitzsimmons, Shannon Corbett, Siobhan Rafferty and Carrie Hockin combined with the 100-yard freestyle relay team of Miss Corbett, Miss Rafferty, Miss Hockin and Kathy Blair to sweep the relay honors in the Midget division. Miss Blair also received two individual laurels in the 50-yard freestyle and the 100-yard freestyle. Miss Rafferty and Miss Fitzsimmons teamed up for two wins in the 50-yard butterfly and the 50-yard backstroke, respectively.

IN THE PREP class, Jackie Hockin won the 50-yard freestyle and Karen Keegan won the 100-yard freestyle. In the event that decided the meet for the Northwest team, Miss Hockin, Julie Cunningham, Lynne Richartz and Miss Keegan teamed up for the win in the 200-yard freestyle relay event.

The 200-yard medley relay team of Mary Fitzsimmons, Barbara Rezner, Sue Keegan and Carla Gormsen combined to receive another win for the Northwest swimmers in the Junior division. Miss Rezner and Miss Gormsen received the first-place awards in the 100-yard butterfly and the 100-yard breaststroke, respectively.

In the Intermediate division the Gabler sisters teamed up for three first place finishes. Ruth Anne Gabler won the 200-yard individual medley and in the 100-yard backstroke. Margaret Gabler won the 100-yard breaststroke. Another intermediate swimmer, Kathy Zold, captured the first place award in the 100-yard butterfly.

'Pin' Loop Ends

The second session of the Arlington Heights Park District Junior bowling league competition ended March 7.

Les Zikes, professional bowler, instructed the classes. There were about 100 boys and girls between the ages of nine to 13 participating.

First place winner included Dan Brown, James Politis, Sue Smith, Steve Schiabel, Cheryl Nirva, Steve Roessler and Valarie Eurick.

Other first place winners included Roxie Kally, Berry Brinn, Tracy Wharton, Mike Guildord, Jan Pluckett and Pat Lidge.

Second place winners included Peter Harper, Gary Steel, Katby McAleer, Karen Juretschke, Chris Mannarilla, Sharon Gassar and Penny Lindsey.

Karen Moore, James Devuono, Frank Richard, Allan Ernst, Ann Thompson and Eileen Turmack were also second place winners.

Trophies were presented to all first and second place winners.

Taking Driver's Licence Test? Here's What Happens

By Ruth Schulman

If you get a letter from Illinois' Secretary of State ordering you to appear for a command performance of your driving "savvy," don't feel too privileged, and don't be upset.

It's all strictly routine. You'll have plenty of company. One-third of your neighbors also will have to pass a drivers test before their licenses will be renewed this year.

Last summer, tha State Legislature passed the Driver's Licenses Act requiring that all 6½ million Illinois drivers be tested within tha next nine years.

The giant testing program began in January. Drivers from 19 to 69 years of age are now studying and cramming for weeks before tackling tha tests at a nearby driver's license examination station. Any citizen may take the test at any station throughout tha state.

Lady luck is playing a hand in choosing those who must brush up on "Rules of the Road," the booklet complied by tha office of Secretary of State Paul Powell. Drivers whose licenses have expired are chosen at random. Ten per cent of tha groups chosen must take the driving test as well as the written test.

Mrs. Helen Lee, above, thinks that "everyone benefits" from the new drivers tests which will be given all drivers during the next nine years. She is, shown above, getting her license renewal.

A bit of advice to this feminine applicant for the drivers test is given by J. Arroyo of Waukegan, an expert examiner, who has been supervising all phases of testing for the last four years at the Libertyville station.

"EVERYONE benefits," said Mrs. Helen Lee of 6908 Mannhaim Road, Des Plaines, a telephone operator at tha Sheraton-O'Hare Hotel, after passing the test at the Libertyville examination center.

"This test is great. It prevents many accidents by helping teach drivers all the regulations of the road. Drivers shouldn't overestimate their driving ability, either, or their knowledge of driving laws. There is often much to be learned that this book can teach."

Mrs. Lee, an affable woman in a beige coat, said she studied for a whole week, both at night and during her lunch hour before tackling tha test.

"I FOUND every employe here most cooperative," she said. She seemed happy, happy, happy at having passed with flying colors.

"We are getting people off the roads who don't know right from wrong and who are hazards for everyone, including themselves," said Phillip Skoff, head of the Libertyville and Waukegan examination stations.

"There are some people driving who can't read English or interpret it," said Skoff. "Many of these people – both young and old – can't tell a left turn from a right turn. Sometimes, they are given an oral test".

If they can't pass, they are not allowed to have a driver's license, ha added.

THERE ARE many persons who have been driving for decades who have developed bad driving habits but have never had an accident," said Skoff, "These drivers have never had any one to correct them before. They are just poor drivers and are better off if they don't drive."

Closest stations for area drivers' are those at 5401 N. Elston in Chicago; 929 N. Milwaukee, Libertyville, 491 Dundee, Elgin, and 837 B-29 S. Westmore, Lombard.

"We've had many men and women come in for the tests who have been driving for 50 years without an examination until now," said John Kalbeck, North Side supervisor at the Elston station.

Driver's licensing began in 1939, and anyone who was 14 year of age or older could get a license, Kalbeck said.

"We've also taken some off the roads who haven't had accidents but who have caused them by not knowing what signs are," said Kalbeck.

This test which takes only from 45 minutes to an hour may save lives, Kalbeck pointed out.

POINTING OUT another test advantage, Kalbeck said: "Sometimes a driver may pass a test and then drive for a period of 10 years. When a new test is given, ha may find that ha now needs glasses."

About 900 persons a day are tested at tha Elston Avenue Station.

Offering a bit of advice to concerned drivers, Kalbeck urges that they get a copy of "Rules of the Road." The booklets are available from Powell's office in Springfield or at any of the testing stations. As long as drivers are prepared, they need not be concerned about the tests, he said.

The Libertyville station which has 20 employes examines from 200 to 300 drivers daily. The station is open from 8 a.m. to 4:30 p.m. Monday through Friday.

"CONGRATULATIONS! Congratulations!" said Ann Miksch, 311 South Dwyer, Arlington Heights, to her companions who had just finished and passed the test at Libertyville.

It's a happy day for Mrs. Helen Lee, 6908 Mannheim Road, Des Plaines, who has just passed her drivers test at the Libertyville Examination Station. She is filling out one of the essential forms. (Day Photos by Harold Wambach)

"We're going to go out and celebrate," said Mrs. Martha Myers, 206 West Wing, Arlington Heights, "We'll go to McDonald's and have hamburgers."

Mrs. Myers said she has been studying for two weeks. She had received her notice to appear two weeks ago.

"I decided to take the test now so that if I failed, I'd have time to take it over. But I've been lucky," she said.

She took tha test six years ago when the Myers family moved to Arlington Heights from Cleveland.

"I feel kind of like an authority on driving," she said. "I've gone through this three times with my three boys, too."

THE DRIVER'S license bureau seemed to be a happy place on Thursday. As drivers left, they seemed to be buoyant and floated out, smiling at employes. The importance of driving an auto was uppermost in their minds.

"Thank yous" rained on employes who had handed out sign and question tests, and given visual tests.

Sixteen-year-old Diane Bista of 215 West Rand, Arlington Heights, was feeling proud, too. Sha had just passed her test, also. Her mother, Mrs. Fred Bista, shared har elation.

A driver awaiting the road test was Steve McDowell, 20, 859 Mount Prospect Road, Des Plaines, who had passed his written test. He was accompanied by Dawn Williamson of 505 S. Edward, Mount Prospect.

The driving test usually takes about 20 minutes, said Maurice Whitaker, an examiner, who usually tests from 20 to 25 persons daily.

James E. Gunter of Zion, another examiner, noted a variety of reactions among those who have taken the test.

A YOUNG girl began to cry after she had passed the tests and another thought she was angry. It turned out that she was so happy, she burst out in tears, ha said.

A physician approved tha whole idea of testing but hated to lose an afternoon's work. A construction worker also was displeased about losing working time, particularly because ha didn't pass the test.

Skoff's most unusual encounter was with a middle-aged woman who failed to pass her test and sent har husband to the station "to protest by bawling everyone out."

Later, tha woman admitted that sha really hadn't studied very well and , sheepishly, passed at a later date.

In the visual screening test, individuals must have 20-40 vision with or without glasses, according to an examiner. Some people are restricted to daytime driving because of visual defects.

Ninety per cent of those who take the exam, pass the first time. If you fail, you get two more chances. The fee is $8, paid when you pass tha test.

Congratulations are in order for Mrs. Martha Myers of Arlington Heights, shown above at right, who had just passed the written drivers test. She is going to celebrate by taking a friend out for a hamburger luncheon.

Griffin Urges Expanded Village Health Services

William Griffin, caucus candidate for trustee and who is also administrator of Augustana Hospital, Chicago, this week called for improvement of village health services.

"There is a present need for expansion of the village's visiting nurse program. Currently the village has one visiting nurse," he said.

IN HIS OPINION the visiting nurse carries an almost crippling case load of more than 60 patients who are confined to their homes. This is in addition to her duties as a school nurse, according to Griffin.

"There is a possibility that the village can greatly expand this program by co-operating with the Northwest Community Hospital, which is planning on moving into a federally funded program of extended care home nursing through Medicare," he said.

He said that the village must make every effort to cooperate with and encourage the hospital to move into this area, because there are many patients now served by the village nurse who would be eligible for Medicare-supported care through the hospital.

"THE NURSE at the hospital would also be able to work with the mothers of newborn children, both in the village and just out of the village on the fundamental care that is required," he said.

"At the present time much of the help for new mothers is coming from senior nursing students rather than graduates.

"These girls need experience but the mothers also need advice of competent, professional graduate nurses," he said.

GRIFFIN ALSO proposed to extend the duties of the sanitarian into the industrial areas of the village.

"Our present sanitarian and the one who has been approved in the current budget should extend their activities into the industrial area.

"There is an entire field of industrial accidents and illness to which we must now devote ourselves," he said.

He said that through inspections and recommendations, many problems can be put on a preventive rather than cure basis..

"ARLINGTON Heights was the first suburban community to my knowledge to institute a program of food handling inspection.

"As a direct result of the sanitarian program of inspection, one food shop has closed.

The sanatarian was helpful earlier this year in inducing the Arlington Market merchants to maintain efficient trash disposal," he said.

Griffin said that the Chicago & North Western Railway right-of-way has been cleaned up following inspections.

"This refers not only to litter but also to rat," he said.

"Our program is good and will continue to get better," he said.

Expanded Park Use Urged at Candidates Night

Mrs. Vidmar Defends Solicitor Law Plan

By Joe Weiss

Candidates for Village Board and park board offices made their last scheduled appearance last night to discuss campaign issues.

The League of Women Voters hosted the meeting at Miner Junior High School, 1101 E. Miner, Arlington Heights.

Mrs. Barbara Vidmar, independent candidate for trustee, was asked how she could justify saying the village should have a solicitors ordinance when Village Atty. Jack Siegel has said it would be illegal?

"Two other communities, Schaumburg and Evanston, which he represents have ordinances regulating solicitors. I would like to know how he explains that?" she replied.

She said later that all Schaumburg solicitors must register with the police department, listing what they intend to do, where they will do it and whom they represent.

"Also they must register the license plate number of the vehicle they intend to use. The ordinance imposes a penalty ranging from $5 to $200," she said.

She cited a statement of Siegel's in Monday's Day:

"Siegel said that the village policy toward solicitors is based solely upon his legal advice that such ordinances are invalid and unenforceable.

"He also said that this does not mean that such an ordinance isn't desireable for the village.

"INSTEAD, it represents the determination of members of the Village Board to faithfully observe their oath of office, which required their obedience to the laws of this state."

Mrs. Vidmar said that because Schaumburg and Evanston are represented by Siegel and have ordinances regulating solicitors, "does this mean that the mayor Schaumburg and the mayor of Evanston are not upholding their oath of office to the state of Illinois?"

"There are ways to regulate solicitors without enacting a solicitor ordinances," she said.

"The village can pass a tresspassers ordinance which would subject solicitors to arrest if they came on posted property. Or the village could pass a nuisance law under which uninvited persons could be defined as a nuisance," she added.

Nathaniel Leighton, candidate for park board, was asked his opinion on using village parks in some sort of inner-city program which would bring children from Chicago to Arlington Heights.

"I WOULD favor using parks as a vehicle that would support that kind of activity," he said.

Later, he enumerated similar programs for children from Chicago.

"For example, there is a Friendly Town organization in the village. It gets a number of children from the inner-city to spend time with families in Arlington Heights for a summer.

"St. James Parish has exchanged student visits with St. Dorothy's parish on the south side of Chicago and Forest View High School has exchanged students with South Shore High School on the south side.

"I see no reason why the park district couldn't assume its role in this area.

"Last summer a number of Japaneese students lived in Arlington Heights and the park district welcomed them and let them use the pools," he said.

Thomas McShane, park board candidate, said that his family has lived in the village for 10 years and that during that time not one new facility has been built.

"The last meeting of the park board was called especially to consider letting bids for the construction of a swimming pool and the board failed to even have a quorum," he said.

"If elected I would attend the meetings," he said.

Jack Edwards, incumbent, said that from 300 to 360 days are required from the

FBI Nabs Deserter Suspect

Special agents for the FBI made their second arrest here in two days yesterday as they apprehended an alleged Navy deserter in Arlington Heights.

William F. Doerscheim, 21, 405 Circle Hill Dr., was arrested at his home on a charge of deserting the navy in San Diego on Nov. 11, 1968.

Doerschelm was held for a time at the Arlington Heights Police Station, and then transferred to an FBI field office.

The FBI arrested a Rolling Meadows man the day before for fleeing a charge of armed robbery in Salt Lake City.

Recorder Taken

A $50 tape recorder was stolen from a locker early yesterday, August J. Supan, 1106 S. Wilke told police. The locker in the basement of the apartment building apparently was pried open with a small tool, according to police.

'Hike for Hungry' Here To Benefit 3 Charities

A group of teen-agers and some adults will hike 17 miles Good Friday to get money for three charity programs.

These programs are the Emergency Fund for Biafra, Ecuador Agricultural Self Help Project and the Northwest Opportunity Center. Center.

Between 1,000 to 2,000 are expected to take the "Hike for the Hungry."

The students, from all over the northwest suburbs, will hike from Maine East High School in Park Ridge to the Northwest Opportunity Center in Rolling Meadows.

They will stop at check points along the way.

The students are sponsored by persons who will pay the student a sum of money for each mile hiked.

THE PROJECT was begun last fall by the Lutheran Parish Fellowship, a group of Lutheran churches and clergymen from the northwest suburbs.

However, the students have served on the committees and have made all tha plans. There also are four adults acting as consultants. David Wurm, 1426 S. Birch, Mount Prospect has been coordinator.

According to Wurm, one of the biggest problems facing the project is that students take sponsor cards and get sponsors, but don't realize that these must be taken to registration centers in schools and churches. Those planning to register in schools must do so by this Friday, and those registering in churches must do so by Sunday.

Some of these registration centers are St. Paul Lutheran Church and St. Mark Lutheran Church in Mount Peter Lutheran Church, Faith Lutheran Church and the First Presbyterian Church in Arlington Heights; and Maine West High School and Trinity Lutheran Church in Des Plaines.

Also, Wurm will be at the Crystal Ship coffee house Friday night to register marchers.

Another problem, Wurm said, is lack of adult helpers. They may volunteer to serve as checkpoint personnel, traffic monitors and hiking marshals.

$96 Million Planned to Treat Sewage, End Pollution Here

By Ted Lacey

About $96 million is to be spent for sewage treatment and water pollutioo prevention in this area under a non-referendum bond issue plan proposed by the Metropolitan Sanitary District.

Approval of tha Illinois General Assembly is necessary, however, if the total package, involving a $381,934,490 expenditure, is to go into effect, according to MSD Supt. Vinton Bacon.

Mount Prospect Mayor Daniel Congreve, in a meeting with Bacon Monday, requested a list of projects proposed under the plan. The list Congreve received yesterday indicated that the two major projects that would affect Mount Prospect, Arlington Heights and Des Plaines are the construction of retention basins and treatment plants on upper Salt Creek and on the upper Des Plaines River near O'Hare Airport.

Congreve said he may ask the Mount Prospect Village Board Tuesday to consider passing a resolution in support of the MSD's plan to provide some backing when the matter is presented to the state legislature.

Bacon said last month, when the plan was revealed, that these three towns would be in for many new sewers, besides the major treatment facilities.

Taxpayers can relax, because, according to Bacon, the $381 million in bonds can be issued without increasing taxes.

No flood-control measures will be involved in this package, he said.

Theater Party to Aid Countryside Center

The Parents' group of the Countryside Center for the Handicapped and DOOR, Inc., will have a benefit dinner theater parties at the Old Orchard Country Club in Mount Prospect on April 18 and 25.

The evening's festivities will include a gourmet dinner and the performance of "Star Spangled Girl."

Tickets are $9.25 each.

Mrs. Reigh Grunewald of Barrington, chairman of the ways and means committee for tha center, is being assisted in planning the benefit by Jack Hallock of Arlington Heights, Adolph Bulay and James Wallace of Barrington, James Nowlin and Everatt Charlier of Palatine and Mrs. James Weider of Wheeling.

The proceeds will go to the Countryside Center for the Handicapped and DOOR, Inc. The Countryside Center is a not-for-profit corporation organized for the purpose of providing education, training, recreation, rehabilitation of sheltered work for the mentally retarded, physically or emotionally handicapped child and adult.

DOOR, Inc., located in Wheeling, is a rehabilitation and job training center. Tickets for the benefit may be ordered by calling Mrs. Grunewald at 381-6973 or Ralph Walberg, Executive Director of the Countryside Center, at 438-8855.

Peruvian Student Finds School Here Less Formal

By Janice Burns

Lourdes Perea, foreign exchange student to Arlington High from Arequipa, Peru.

Lourdes Perea, the foreign exchange student at Arlington High from Arequipa Peru, has found the school system here quite different from that in her native land.

In Peru, students must take 12 subjects a year and they cannot choose their courses. They have six classes a day and the weekly schedule of classes is more like college schedules here.

Another difference is that students remain in the classrooms while teachers change rooms. When the teacher arrives, students must rise and remain standing until the teacher is seated. Also whenever they talk to a teacher they must stand.

Students attend class from 8 a.m. to 11:30 a.m., go home for a two-hour lunch period when many persons take siestas, and return to school for more classes from 1:30 to 5 p.m.

LUNCH IS the biggest meal of the day, with soup, a meat dish, potatoes or rice, vegetables and something to drink. Fruit salads are not eaten with the meal, but as a dessert. Also milk is drunk at breakfast and sometimes tea, but otherwise hardly ever.

Peruvians eat a lot of seafood and spicy foods, but the spicy foods are not served every day.

Lourdes doesn't use her lunch hour for siesta, but rather for studying.

The first month here she had trouble understanding anything that was said. The family she lives with had to talk slowly so she could understand them.

She is living with the Donald O. Hodges family, 524 S. Ridge, Arlington Heights. She goes to school with Kim and Pam, the daughters of Mr. and Mrs. Hodges.

Lourdes, who is 18 years old, was graduated from high school before coming here. When she returns to Peru she plans to attend college in Lima and to become an interpreter.

This will require four years. For three years, she will study and learn and the fourth year will work on polishing and perfecting her use of the language.

One thing that surprised Lourdes was the lack of respect that the young persons here show towards adults and each other, especially towards teachers.

She has two sisters, one who is 19 and one who is 8. Families in Peru are closely-knit with the whole family showing up for birthdays, anniversaries, and other celebrations.

The "whole" family includes everyone from grandparents, aunts, uncles, cousins, nephews, and any other relatives to the immediate family.

ONE OF HER aunts is a famous golfer. She is Virginia Abanez from Lima, who has been in many South American tournaments. As a rule, however, girls and women do not participate in sports much.

They have gym once a week for 20 minutes during which they really "do nothing." Therefore, when she came here where there is an hour of gym every day, she had aches and pains for weeks.

Lourdes was among a group of about 15 girls who went with two nuns from school every Sunday to teach the poor people such things as reading, religion, proper diets, and sanitation.

The climate there is quite different from here since the temperature rarely gets to 32 degrees there and then it is usually at midnight or some other time when persons aren't outside.

Mrs. Vidmar Defends Solicitor Law Plan

time the bids are let until construction of the swimming pool is complete.

"Engineering considerations consume a lot of time before the architect can even draw plans," he said.

The $2.8 million bond issue passed in July is for three outdoor pools, one indoor pool at Arlington High School, development of three new neighborhood parks and improvement of five existing parks, said Edwards.

"THE COST of the projects was more than the allotted budget and we have had to trim them to fit." he said.

"We didn't let any bids Monday because we didn't have a quorum, Charles Cronin was out of town and Mr. (E.E.) Ormsbee was in DeKalb and couldn't get back on time because of the weather. We rescheduled the meeting for Friday to let the bids," he said.

John Walsh, caucus candidate for village president, was asked his opinion of combining the northwest suburban communities into one governmental boday.

"This is the idea of John Woods as an individual," he said.

Frank Palmatier, caucus candidate for trustee, said that the plan was proposed by Woods to counter a proposal of high-density development along the Chicago and North Western Ry. tracks by the Northeastern Illinois Planning Commission.

Walsh and the trustee candidates agreed that they did not favor combining the political machinery of different northwest communities, but Walsh said that Arlington Heights must work closely with other communities.

Robert Frost Holds First Science Fair

Robert Frost School in Prospect Heights held its first annual science fair recently with more than 100 projects submitted for competition.

First graders in Mrs. Doris Keyes room entered an exhibit on simple machines. The children built toys of wood to demonstrate how simple machines were used in their lives.

Katherine Samsel, Holmes School principal and science consultant for District 21, and James Messer, science teacher at Holmes, were selected as judges to review the fair.

Fifteen projects were chosen to go on to the District 21 fair at Holmes Junior High School. The 15 children who were awarded first place were:

Nancy Zelenske, a water magnifier, first grade; Cynthia Block, a potato plant, first grade; Ricky Shonover, electronic quiz board, second grade; Steven Onishi, how to make electricity, third grade; Cheryl Collien, chlorophyll necessary for photosynthesis, third grade; Joy Martin, your sky map, third grade.

Tim Sepper, series and parallel circuits, second grade; Greg Veitch, electric belt, second grade; Mark Grote, flowering bush, third grade; Don King, solar cell, third grade; Debbie Colburn and Pam Gauper, how a volcano erupts, fifth grade; Michael Stanton, AC and DC current, fourth grade; Beth Magnuson, corrosion, fourth grade; Brian Bartlow, phenomenon of optical illusion, sixth grade; David Mede, how an aerosol is made, fifth grade.

Obituaries

Mrs. Sadie Mylan

Mrs. Sadie Mylan, 73, of 113 S. Albert, Mount Prospect, died yesterday at Holy Family Hospital, Des Plaines.

Clerk Candidates Split on Vote Procedures

Voters may fill out their absentee ballots Saturday from 10 a.m. until 2 p.m., according to Jean Novotny, village clerk.

Her opponent in the April 1 village election, Mrs. Betty Revard, has charged that absentee ballots are not easy to come by.

"More than a few villagers have complained to me about existing confusion and inconvenience in obtaining their absentee ballots," Mrs. Revard said.

"Earlier in the month, persons were told to come back later because the ballots were not available, though they should have been on hand since March 2," she said.

"With proper foresight and management, this condition would not exist. Apparently the unusual demand for absentee ballots because of spring vacations was not anticipated by the incumbent clerk, Mrs. Novotny," she said.

Mrs. Novotny said that the demand for absentee ballots during the last election two years ago was eight and that this year the demand has been for 50.

"We are the only municipality, holding municipal elections the first Tuesday in April. It was moved from the third Tuesday," she said.

"This was decided in February and I placed my orders for elections supplies then with March 17 as a deadline. The suppliers apparently didn't understand that we had an earlier election that the surrounding communities and so we ran out of ballots when we had a heavy demand," she said.

"I CALLED the printar every day from the last part of February until March 9, asking when our election ballots would be ready. Our other suppliers were called too," she said.

"It is true that I didn't anticipate the demand for absentee ballots. It seems to be because persons are going out of town for spring vacation," she said.

Mrs. Revard said that the clerk's office was open only one Saturday, March 22, and for only two hours.

According to Mrs. Novotny, it not always is possible for her to spend a whole Saturday in Village Hall.

"I think that Mrs. Revard would discover the same thing if she is elected," she said.

"It is disturbing to know," Mrs. Revard said, "that only 15 per cent of the eligible voters came to the polls at the last village election."

"In view of such a small participation record, no effort should be spared to encourage voting by making it as easy as possible and by fully publicizing the requirements when it is timely to do so," she said.

Mrs. Novotny said she agreed.

POINTING out that absentee voting for the village, township and park district must be done at three different places, Mrs. Revard pledged that, if elected, she would work to further combine elections and to simplify attendant procedures.

"For instance," she said, "It should be possible to have one common place for issuance of absentee ballot applications and for completing the ballots, either by bringing the necessary people to a common location or by deputizing additional clerks."

Mrs. Novotny said that Illinois law prohibits a common place for issuing ballots applications and completing them. She agreed that additional clerks could be deputized.

Mrs. Revard said, "With two years before the next village election after this one, it would be possible to work out any technical difficulties which might exist."

Mrs. Novotny said, "If elected, she will have four years as clerk to work out any difficulties."

Personal Contact Swung Vote To Ogilvie, Hansen Claims

By Richard Crabb

Richard Ogilvie won the governorship ovar Samuel Shaprio because of more intensive campaigning in the final stages of the campaign last fall.

This was the report given by Elk Grove Township Republican Committeeman Carl R. Hansen of Mount Prospect in his talk Monday before the township Republican organization.

"The post-election survey revealed that in the closing weeks of the campaign," Hansen said, "that more voters in Chicago and downstate saw Ogilvie personally. In Chicago, 4 per cent of the voters reported that they saw Gov. Shapiro personally while 6 per cent said that they saw Republican Candidate Ogilvie. Downstate the advantage was even greater for Ogilvie. Outside of Cook County, 8 per cent of the voters saw and heard Ogilvie personally while 4 per cent reported they saw Gov. Shapiro."

The study also reported on the amount of work done by party callers during the campaign.

Richard M. Hall of Des Plaines, campaign manager for the campaign to elect Elk Grove Township officers next Tuesday, reported at the meeting on background and importance of township government.

"This is a fight between Republicans and Democrats," said Hall. "It is that and nothing more."

"Next week our citizens are going to determine whether our township is going to be run by Republicans or Democrats. They are going to decide whether the Daley machine is to move into the Elk Grove Township Hall."

"Township government is a heritage created by early Americans who sought to right the wrongs of centralized government in the European nations from which they fled.

There will be a starting ceremony at 9 a.m. at Maine East. A musical combo will play as hikers start gathering at 8 a.m. Jimmy P. Stagg of radio station WCFL, Harry Volkman, the weatherman of Channel 9; mayors of area towns and others will be involved in the ceremony. Wurm will talk briefly on the purpose of the march.

There also will be a brief ceremony at the end of the hike at about 5:30 p.m. On April 13 there will be a major presentation ceremony in the Arlington High gym.

Sponsors hope to have a "battle of the bands" or a band and dancing for the first two hours while the money collected from sponsors will be brought in and credited.

Then there will be a speaker. Sponsors are trying to get U. S. Rep. Donald Rumsfeld (R-13th), but have not yet received a reply.

The Growing Need For 2-Year Colleges

By Pat Tenerowicz

A community often underestimates the potential of its new junior college.

This is the opinion of Donn B. Stansbury, director of admissions and registrar, Harper College.

He believes the community will have to be re-educated to understand the role of the junior college, the community college.

How many persons believe that a two-year college is inferior to the four-year college? How many high school students overlook the two-year college because "it's the place to go when you can't be accepted anywhere else?"

JUST A few years ago, Stansbury recalled, "the junior college had the image of being for the below-average student.

"But a new state law was passed in 1965. Now the community college is designed to replace the first two years of normal four-year college work."

To meet the requirements of this state law, he explained, state schools have cut their freshmen enrollments.

These colleges, he continued, are concerned about out-size freshmen classes. Additionally, they want top scholar groups.

THE COMING fall enrollment at the University of Illinois will be students from the top eighth of their high school class.

Beside the growing scholastic competition for enrollment at the four-year schools stands the growing pressure of those who want to go to the big schools.

Northern Illinois University at DeKalb closed freshman enrollment in mid-February. More than 700 applications a day were rolling in.

THIS ALL puts the community or junior college into a new and demanding role.

Stansbury cited the California and Florida junior college programs.

Pat Tenerowicz

"In these states 78 per cent of the students attend junior college ... their development of the system is about 10 years ahead of ours."

HARPER, he said, is at a disadvantage. Classes are held in the evening and the use of high school facilities will continue until Harper's new campus is completed this fall.

"With our own campus, the public's impression will change. We'll attract more students," he said.

Summer college students -- many from campuses across the nation -- were surveyed during their study at Harper.

MANY, said Stansbury, described the college as the academic equal of their own "home" college. And a large number said the instructors -- the professorial staff -- were as good and often better than theirs.

Harper has attracted a large number of transfer students.

Stansbury conceded that many of them have done poorly in other colleges. But there are good reasons for their enrollment at Harper.

SOME WISH to earn better by working while studying. Others want to marry. Others again want to avoid the high-cost of life on a faraway campus. For these and other reasons, they filter into the "ivy-less" halls of Harper.

Stansbury said the college will do more in the future to attract the more intelligent student.

He predicted that recruitment campaigns will serve to encourage enrollments of many high school seniors who previously had ignored the college.

LARGE enrollments, he admitted, can pose problems.

"With this new system of junior college districts, we can expect a larger percentage of failures."

Alternatives to four-year college sequences, he explained, are in general and career programs.

Students Petition State

Students at John Hersey High School, Arlington Heights, are continuing to circulate petitions calling for installation of traffic signals at the Rand Rd. and Thomas St. intersection by June 23, when summer school starts.

"We won't be completely satisfied until there are people actually putting up the stoplights," Craig Sjogren, student spokesman, said.

STUDENTS GAVE petitions containing more than 2,000 signatures to Rep. Eugene Schlickman (R-Arlington Heights) who turned them over to Gov. Richard Ogilvie.

Ogilvie promised to speed installation of the traffic signals, which were originally scheduled by the fall term at Hersey.

"Another 2,000 signatures from residents should be coming and we will have faculty and student petitions to add to that," Sjogren said.

John Sienicki, another student spokesman, said that the Illinois Department of Highways, District 10 informed him that installation of the light could be speeded up by including a time factor in the bidding.

"ALSO, I WAS TOLD that a loan of equipment from the state could speed installation as well as placing the lights at the top of the priority list for engineering projects that are scheduled for the intersection," Sienicki said.

The Stronger Love

A Humble Woman Is Faced With Saving the Life Of the Man She Loves, Or. . . The Man She Serves

By John A. Hurst

Sometimes a woman heith two loves. One is for her man. One is for her country. Once in a while she must choose the one which is more important. Sadly, her choice may mean ... life for one ... death for the other!

This is the unhappy love story of Phoebe Fraunces. She was a shy, bird-like girl. She worked for a very famous man. About two hundred years ago, Phoebe kept house for him. His home was in Virginia. At the time, this nation was very young. Her master was very important to the new nation.

Phoebe's master had a bodyguard. Tom Hickey was his name. Tom was a large man with strong muscles. In fact, he was a champion wrestler. All day long, Phoebe's heart sang. She was thinking of Tom. Happily, she worked at the great stove. Phoebe was a girl in love. She was in love with Tom. And Tom returned her love. Big Tom had been courting her. In a few months, they planned to be married.

ONE NIGHT little Phoebe was on her way to meet him. The path took her under one of the windows in the house. As she passed the window, she heard a voice! It was the voice she knew so well. She heard these words clearly:

"We got to get rid of him. I'm his bodyguard. I can do it easy. We'd best use something quiet ... like ... like poison! That's it! Poison'll do it!"

Phoebe's heart stopped. She couldn't believe her ears. She leaned against the wall. It was Tom's voice she heard. Her Tom was planning to poison their master! What should she do? This was her Tom ... the man she was to marry ... She loved him with all her heart. But ... he was planning a murder!

SADLY, she turned back to the house. She must think! She stumbled as she walked. Then ... she stopped! A thought ... a hope ... crossed her mind! Maybe it wasn't Tom! That was it! It was someone else -- not her Tom! She ran back to the window. She stood on her toes. Now she could see into the room.

Once more, she heard the same voice. "It'll be easy. You get me the poison. I'll see that he gets it!"

Now, there was no doubt. It was the voice of the man she loved. She had seen him with her own eyes. The man planning to murder the master was ... her Tom!

THERE WAS nothing for her to do. She went back to her room and got into bed. But there was no sleep for Phoebe! All night long she lay awake. She stared into the darkness. Her mind was spinning. She must decide. When she does ... one will live ... and one will die!

Near dawn, she fell asleep. She had tossed and turned all night. After much thought ... she had made her choice!

She rose early and slipped out of the house. Slowly, she walked down the road to the nearest town. She told an army officer what she had heard.

IN A few hours, Tom was arrested! Three days later ... the man she loved ... was hanged!

"...and so the story goes..." of the two loves of Phoebe Fraunces! Really, it's the story of a decision. Her decision between the man she loved ... and the man she served. When she turned Tom Hickey in, she destroyed her own happiness. She gave up the man she loved. He confessed his plot ... and paid with his life!

To this day our nation owes Phoebe a debt of gratitude. To save her master's life ... she gave the life of her lover! For you see, her master was a great American statesman. He was one of the guiding lights of the American Revolution. He was ... "first in war, first in peace, and first in the hearts of his countrymen." You're right .. he was ... the Father of his Country ... George Washington!

Assessments Must Reflect Values

EDITOR:

As I see it, the basic issue Wheeling Township voters will decide when they select an Assessor April 1 is how best to assure fairness of assessments. Tax assessments must fairly reflect values. Also, each taxpayer should be able to receive immediate, courteous local review when he feels an error has been made.

Although the Cook County Assessor does the actual assessing of real estate, I will, as Township Assessor, stand ready at all times to support the just complaints of local taxpayers and to intercede for them at the County office. After all, a citizen should not have to spend time being shuffled from office to bureau to office in the County Building when he has elected a Township Assessor who is perfectly willing to take care of the matter for him.

Incorrect assessment often results from incorrect tax records. There are some 50,000 parcels of land in Wheeling Township, one of the fastest growing suburban areas in the country. Improvements are made on many parcels each year. The Township Assessor must report every such improvement accurately and quickly. This job calls for experience in administration and organization.

I have a successful background in exactly these areas, including data handling and procedures. I have carried national responsibilities with companies such as Westinghouse and Monsanto, and, for the past 12 years, have conducted my own businesses as a manufacturer and manufacturer's representative.

Equally important to Wheeling Township residents is that my election offers protection in the highest tradition of the two-party system. A Republican Assessor will provide an essential check and balance against the Democrat County Assessor's office.

Because the Township Assessor is involved in the sensitive area of amount of taxes paid by individuals and businesses, residents should know there is no possible conflict of interest between my past or present business affiliations and the office for which I run.

I am 49, have two sons in College and have been a resident of Mount Prospect and Arlington Heights since 1950. For many years I have maintained a high interest in local affairs. Recently I served with District 214's Lay Citizens Committee and on the Steering Committee of 3rd District Citizens for Constitutional Convention. I have been a volunteer precinct captain and Deputy Committeeman with the Republican Party and am immediate Past President of the Wheeling Township Republican Club.

As one with a long standing belief that more citizens should be willing to accept public service, I am pleased the Republican Party chose me as a member of an outstanding slate for Township office. The public evaluation process was lengthy and intensive, culminating in a selection caucus meeting involving over 600 voters. This caucus also nominated Mrs. Ethel Kolerus for Supervisor, Mrs. Dorothy Hauff for Clerk, Lawrence Carrozza for Highway Commissioner, Mrs. Marjorie Annen Carter for Collector, and Merle Willis, Fred Reimann and Ron Wittmeyer for Auditors.

With my nomination I also accept the commitment of the Republican Party to provide four more years of cost-conscious, honest, energetic service to all residents of Wheeling Township.

Common Pantry

By Catherine O'Donnell

There are so many "help" projects going around that it seems sometimes as if they all run into each other.

One of the most unique is the Common Pantry, a really different approach that has two busy woman of our town helping people who need immediate help.

It all began when a group of men who call themselves the Brothers of Taize visited and talked to an ecumenical meeting at the First Presbyterian Church. The men are ministers, priests, brothers and just interested and they live together and minister to the people of Chicago who need help. One of their most popular movements is the activity of a spot called the "Common Pantry," located at 741 W. Fullerton. This is a place where members of north side churches send food. The food must be of a type that can be stored. This includes canned ham, meat, vegetables, jars of jelly, preserves, anything that comes packed in glass, soups, anything at all. It is stocked at the Fullerton address.

Whenever a family needs instant help just to stave off hunger, they can go to the Common Pantry and select whatever they want. In one month alone, the brothers supplied as many as 4,000 meals. They all went to emergency cases. These are families in which the wage earner is temporarily out of work.

THE FOOD for the pantry has been rolling in as each community becomes involved. It will begin here under the able guidance of St. James' Nova Thompson and the First Presbyterian's Ethel Baker. Starting on the first Sunday of April, Easter Sunday, and continuing on the first Sundays of the ensuing months, a large box will be placed in the vestibule of St. James and First Presbyterian so that it is available to all who attend services. The parishioners are asked to bring a can, jar, box of anything and put it in the carton. The two gals will see that it promptly is delivered to the Common Pantry and the men will do the rest.

This is the first time that Arlington Heighters have been asked to contribute and Nova and Ethel are hoping it will be a big success. If absolute unselfishness is a way to success, then they've nothing to worry about. Call 255-5910 for more information.

LETTER FROM A READER

The following letter was submitted by a woman of our town who has a delightful sense of humor.

It reads, "I thought you would like to hear how I discovered what is meant by the phrase, 'fighting traffic.' When my husband leaves for work in the city every morning, he says, "good-by" and then mumbles as he gets into the car, 'Here I go fighting the traffic.' When he comes into the house at night, he announces before the salutations and ablutions, 'I fought traffic all the way home.'

"The other morning I had an errand in town so I drove in with him and now I know what 'fighting traffic' means. He fights all the way. He fights with everyone. He talks, fortunately through the car window, to every motorist within his line of vision, front or rear. He intersperses his name-calling with names I never knew he knew.

"It went like this: 'Look at that old fool over there. They shouldn't give licenses to people that old. They hold up traffic.' 'Look at that long-haired punk. He thinks he's on a drag strip. He's pretty big with his old man's car. They shouldn't let them drive til they've acquired some sense. Look at that old bat in the hat. Move it or lose it, lady. The old witch is probably on her way to school to torment the kids all day long.'

"'LOUSY TRUCK drivers. Think they own the road with their teamsters' union card. I'd love to drive a truck like that and meet them in open competition.' 'Look at that guy, will you. The one in the gray Cadillac. Probably sells shoes at Sears. Looks big, right, but he can't drive worth a darn.'

"'I'll never understand why they let women drive. I know which movement I'd like to join. I'd like to march in protest to the 19th or 18th amendment, the one that gave women the right to vote.'

"And on we went and on he went, fighting traffic all the way. As he left, he said, 'Be careful, dear. Don't take a bus home. Take a train. You can't trust those bus drivers. They're the worst especially when they've got a school bus.'

"I must go with him again. He missed seeing a man on a motorcycle. I'll bet that would have been a good one."

POPULAR GUY

No one was more surprised than Nat Leighton when he dropped in at a neighborhood party to say a few words about his candidacy for trustee of the Arlington Heights Park District and discovered that 30 persons had gathered just to write postcards for him. Three hundred cards were sent bearing the message, "Don't be fooled April 1. For better parks and recreation progress vote for our friend, Nat Leighton."

Cook of the Day

Special Spring Recipe

By Margarete Murphy

To create a home and to enrich the lives of others has been a joyous experience for Celia Hermesdorf, a resident of Arlington Heights for 33 years.

Recently when the Arlington Heights Woman's Club presented its annual style show, Celia and her granddaughter Lyn, both modeled the stylish garments that Celia expertly sews and tailors.

This year Celia will again represent her club in the 7th District sewing contest with a coat and dress ensemble.

CELIA inspires Lyn and her Scout companions by teaching them needlecraft. Lyn proudly showed me a sampler, baby bib and handle holder she learned to embroider.

Frequently Celia outsmarts the pattern makers by sewing a garment for less than the amount of fabric prescribed, and cleverly finds ways and means to use remnants to make fetching blouses or skirts for Lyn.

Celia is one of the early members of the First Church of Christ Scientist of Arlington Heights and taught Sunday school for many years. She also served as librarian in the church's reading room for a period of six years and was a member of the building committee.

AS A member of the Arlington Heights Woman's Club, she also helped to raise funds to establish and build the first public library in our town.

Celia enjoys meeting friends over a bridge table, and has held the chairmanship of bridge tournaments for eight years, raising money for scholarships.

Playing bridge calls for a dessert and below is one of Celia's "from scratch" recipes, using rhubarb which will be in season shortly. Celia called to my attention that the custard in the pie cuts down on the acid qualities of the dish.

RHUBARB CUSTARD PIE

Pastry:

2 cups all-purpose flour
1 teaspoon salt
1 cup shortening
3-4 tablespoons ice water (use only enough water to hold dough together)

Combine flour and salt. Add shortening and blend with pastry blender until mixture resembles coarse meal. Gradually add water. Mix quickly until dough is evenly moistened. Roll out ½ of dough for bottom crust.

Filling:

2 tablespoons butter
3 eggs, slightly beaten
4 cups fresh rhubarb, cut into ½-inch pieces
1½ cups sugar
1 tablespoon plus 1 teaspoon flour

Melt butter; add to beaten eggs. Stir in rhubarb, sugar and flour. Spoon mixture into pastry lined 9-inch pie pan. Top with crust. Bake at 425 degrees for 10 minutes. Reduce heat to 350 degrees and bake 45 minutes longer.

In anticipation of the rhubarb season, Mrs. Walter Hermesdorf shares her recipe of Rhubarb Custard Pie with Day Readers. Photo by John Kruissink.

Garden Club Luncheon

The April 9 meeting of the Garden Club of Mount Prospect, to be held at the Community Center at 12:30 p.m., will be a salad bar luncheon, with guests welcome for a fee of $1.

The program will be very timely and inspirational. Mrs. Edna Crumbaugh will arrange flowers and give a lecture on "Plants of the Prophets," using flowers in her arrangements that are mentioned in the Bible.

Members are asked to notify the committee members if they are bringing a guest. Board members are reminded of a meeting also to be held April 9 at 10:30 at the Community Center.

Partners to Elect New Officers

President Joseph Eschenbrenner will tap his gavel to open the meeting March 27 of the Northwest Suburban Chapter 168 of Parents Without Partners, Inc., for the last time, as this date will be election night.

Michael Bonner, chairman of the nominating committee, presented a slate of nominees at the March 7 meeting. Additional names for each office may be submitted from the floor.

Chapter 168 has doubled its membership this past year under the direction of President Eschenbrenner, Vice Presidents Michael Bonner, Nancy Pain and Mel Frye and their committee members.

NORTHWEST Suburban Chapter 168 of Parents Without Partners, Inc., meets every first and third Friday of each month at the Knights of Columbus Hall, 15 N. Hickory, Arlington Heights.

Coffee and cake will be served following the meeting.

Parents Without Partners, Inc., is an international, nonprofit, nonsectarian, educational organization, devoted to the welfare of single parents and their children.

The organization, which has chapters from coast to coast, and in England, Canada, Hawaii, Alaska and Australia, enrolls single parents (widowed, separated, divorced), both men and women, with or without custody, so that they can benefit from the help of professional people in the areas of child rearing.

Northwest Suburban Chapter 168 of PWP, Inc., carries on an extensive program of activities for parents and their children. Membership is open to all qualified single parents.

For further information, write PWP, Inc., P.O. Box 472, Palatine, or call 358-2465 or 253-0890, or see the membership chairman at the general meetings.

Art Talent Contest Winners

Five Forest View High School seniors were recently named winners in the Illinois judging of the General Federation of Women's Clubs' 1969 Hallmark Art Talent Contest for high school seniors.

Mount Prospect Junior Woman's Club sponsored nine entries in the contest. John Doyle, art instructor at Forest View, selected the entries. The contest was judged on artistic promise and esthetic qualities.

FIRST PLACE winners in each state received $100 and are entered in national competition. Second place winners received $50.

Winners from the Mount Prospect Junior's entries as announced by Mrs. Harvey Mogged, Illinois Federation of Women's Clubs art chairman, were: 2d place - John Alsterda, Mount Prospect; 4th place - Anita Mueller, Rolling Meadows; 6th place - Arlene Dul, Rolling Meadows; 7th place - William McDowell, Mount Prospect, and 8th place - Doreen Schuman, Rolling Meadows. Cheryl Haugh, Mount Prospect, was named second alternate for the $125 Loredo Taft Scholarship.

Try-outs Tonight

Try-outs for the 2nd annual St. Alexius Hospital Auxiliary Variety Show will be held tonight at 7 at Grove Junior High School, Ridge and Elk Grove Blvd., Elk Grove Village.

Anyone who seeks an opportunity to display their performing talents is invited to attend.

GINGER WALSH, who will cast, produce and direct the variety show for the second time, will announce the theme of the variety show in the near future.

The Variety Show, to be held May 30, 31 and June 1, is one of the most ambitious fund-raising projects of the St. Alexius Hospital Auxiliary.

The chairman of this year's variety show is Mrs. William Maloney. Would-be performers may contact Mrs. Maloney at 437-0893 for further information about the try-outs.

Choralettes To Entertain Dempster PTA

The Northwest Choralettes will present a "Singing - Swinging" concert March 27 at Dempster Junior High School, 420 W. Dempster St., just west of Elmhurst Rd.

Nomination of officers for the coming year will be a part of the evening, scheduled to begin at 8 p.m.

Pat Fergusen, director of the choral group, indicated it would sing music for the entire family to enjoy.

Congratulations!

Last Tuesday evening a pink and white shower in the home of Mrs. Gordon Kubiak, Arlington Heights, honored Mrs. David Hoyt and introduced their lovely new daughter, Rachel, to family friends.

Guests were all Board members of the Arlington Heights Newcomers Club of which Mrs. Hoyt is treasurer. Prizes were won by Mrs. Robert Huber and Mrs. Karol Freed. Assisting Mrs. Kubiak as hostesses were Mrs. Huber, Mrs. Joseph Lang and Mrs. George Fillebrown and Mrs. Harry Maul.

The proud new father is David Hoyt, a city editor with Paddock Publications.

Not until the first bite will the family know that there's a surprise in these April Fool Meatloaves, a filling of melted cheese and mashed potatoes.

April Fool Dinner Full of Surprises

Want to turn the tables on the cut-ups in your family who enjoy playing pranks on April 1st? Serve them a dinner with a few surprises and show them you're nobody's fool.

The surprise comes with the first bite of the April Fool Meatloaves, each with a center of melted cheese and mashed potatoes as suggested by The R.T. French Company's Test Kitchens. The meat is flavored with an envelope of ground beef seasoning with onions and the potatoes are made the simple way with country style mashed potato flakes. The cheese prevents the potatoes from absorbing the meat juices and becoming too soft while baking, a clever trick you may want to tuck away for other dishes.

Give the vegetable accompaniments a twist on the conventional, too, by serving cold pickled beets and a Hot Cabbage Salad.

APRIL FOOL MEATLOAVES

1 pound ground beef
1 envelope French's Ground Beef Seasoning with onions
¼ cup water
1 1/3 cups Country Style Mashed Potato Flakes
4 slices American cheese

Mix ground beef with contents of seasoning mix envelope and water; shape into 4 thin patties, 7 inches in diameter. Prepare mashed potatoes according to directions on package for 4 servings. To shape meatloaves, place a cheese slice on each meat patty.

Spoon a serving of prepared mashed potatoes on cheese. Bring edges of meat together and seal, completely covering cheese and potatoes. Place seam side down on baking pan. Bake in 350 degree oven for 15 minutes. Makes 4 servings.

HOT CABBAGE SALAD

4 slices bacon, chopped
2 tablespoons sugar
2 tablespoons French's Yellow mustard
2 cups shredded cabbage
½ cup each chopped celery and green peppers

Cook bacon in skillet over medium heat until pieces are crisp; remove from heat. Blend sugar and mustard into drippings. Add vegetables and stir well to mix. Cover; return to medium heat for 2 minutes or until hot. Makes 4 servings.

Easter Egg Secret Revealed

By Frances Altman

It is not too early for the women who enjoy craft projects to start experimenting with this ancient Lithuanian secret on the fine art of decorating Easter eggs. During the Easter season some very ornately decorated examples are on display at the Balzekas Museum of Lithuanian Culture, 4012 Archer Av., Chicago.

A spokesman for the museum offered these instructions to Day readers. Soak two handfuls of onion skins in cold water overnight. Add 12 eggs, a dash of salt and bring the water to a boil, allowing to simmer for 10 to 15 minutes.

LET THE water cool without removing the eggs. Then begin to decorate your egg by gently carving a design, cutting away the very thin layer of dark color. Around the house you may find many suitable small tools for carving, such as the tip of a bottle opener, manicuring tools or a peach pitter.

This reporter found that for best results it is wise to try an experimental dozen of eggs first. As easy as it may seem, you will soon wonder why the Lithuanians kept their secret so long. For only those really challenged by the artistic creativity of this project will find the time and patience to pursue it.

Flowers Are Her Specialty

BY FRANCES ALTMAN

Flower power is a subject that brings a sparkle to the eyes of one pert Arlington Heights lady. She is Mrs. David E. Kissam, one of 24 Illinois women being honored this week as an honorary chairman of the Garden Club of Illinois' show "Rhapsody in Bloom" presented in conjunction with the Chicago World Flower and Garden Show.

Gardening and its related interests of flower arranging and judging have been Mrs. Kissam's hobby for many many years. She was one of the founders of the Glencoe Garden Club and is an honorary member of that group as well as the Arlington Heights Garden Club.

"When you reach 80, everyone tends to consider you an old fuddy-duddy," confided Mrs. Kissam. But after visiting with her for a while and observing many of her contemporary flower arrangements you know this doesn't apply to Mrs. Kissam.

MRS. KISSAM moved to Arlington Heights three years ago after living much of her married life in Glencoe and Deefield. As an active gardener in all of these suburbs, she has gained a wide circle of friends and is looking forward this week to renewing acquaintances with many Illinois women whom she met while serving as president of the Garden Club of Illinois.

One of the most rewarding aspects of gardening for Mrs. Kissam has been obtaining her judge's credentials. She first obtained a life certificate for juding flower shows by attending 5 schools, 2 symposiums and passing a number of tests on horticulture, artistic arrangement, planning flower shows and other related subjects.

After five years of additional study and judging, she obtained her Master's certificate. But reaching this top level has not diminished her enthusiasm for attending study groups or reading further on the subject, although she has curtailed her once active judging schedule.

THOUGH THE Kissam home is furnished exquisitely with many treasured antiques and family heirlooms, Mrs. Kissam likes to mingle the old with new ideas. She enjoys bright colors, new methods and contemporary designs as well as traditional ones.

In the entrance way to her home she has used her mother's silver pitcher to hold a traditional arrangement of flowers. Several iris in the arrangement have been given a porcelain treatment which Mrs. Kissam enjoyed experimenting with in her basement workshop.

Another of her favorite vases is of dark brown freeform pottery which now contains a bittersweet arrangement and blends with a Navajo Indian decor she has used to highlight a collection of Indian pottery, many collected by her father while he was president of the State University of New Mexico.

This spring Mrs. Kissam's interests are centered around her own backyard where she is anxiously watching over several plots of new plantings.

She recalls in quiet amusement that when she moved into the house on S. Evergreen her first task was tearing into the flower beds in the backyard, unrooting and throwing away several bushels of iris. These she has replaced with improved strains of lilies and wants to add improved varities of iris.

Her neighbors now know her better, too, so they are not quite so surprised when she advances purposely into the garden plot and starts throwing away plants. Now they realize she knows what she is doing.

Coffee connoisseurs now can brew a single cup of delicious drip coffee in minutes without making a whole potful. The West Bend Company has introduced a new "Mini-Drip" coffee maker that brews a full-flavored 7-ounce cup of coffee using ground coffee, not instant. To brew a cup, simply place coffee into an aluminum dripper fitted to the cup, insert a cup-like bell spreader and fill the dripper with actively boiling water. In less than 3 minutes your coffee will be ready to drink.

Penny Contest

Kathleen Kozanecki, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Richard J. Kozanecki of Mount Prospect and senior at Prospect High School, will participate in the Penny Flame Bake Off sponsored by the Northern Illinois Gas Company Saturday, March 29. Winners are eligible for scholarship awards. Miss Kozanecki has been named as Illinois State Scholarship winner.

Easter make-aheads

By Charlotte Erickson

Having company for Easter Sunday dinner? Now is the time to get most of your cooking done, so that you can be COOL, CALM and COLLECTED come Easter Sunday and enjoy all the festivities out and away from the kitchen. After all, who wants to cook in their new Easter outfit?

BARB'S CHEESE SOUFFLE

A delicious side dish that is marvelous when entertaining as it can be made in advance and frozen. As a single recipe makes quite a bit, you may wish to make it in smaller sized pans, depending on the number of people you wish to serve.

Single Recipe:
Yields: 10-12 servings
14 slices day-old bread
softened butter or margarine
14 slices American cheese, quartered
1 4½-oz. jar sliced mushrooms or fresh sauteed, about ¼ lb.
1 small jar (about 3 oz.) stuffed olives, sliced
1 4½-oz. can shrimp freshly ground pepper
4 eggs
2½ cups milk
1 teaspoon salt
¼ teaspoon dry mustard garlic and onion powder*
paprika

Double Recipe:
Yield: 20-24 servings
28 slices day old bread
softened butter or margarine
28 slices American cheese, quartered
2 jars (4½ oz. each) sliced mushrooms or fresh sauteed, about ½ lb.
6 oz. stuffed olives, sliced
2 4½-oz. cans shrimp
freshly ground pepper
8 eggs
5 cups milk
2 teaspoons salt
½ teaspoon dry mustard garlic and onion powder
paprika

Butter bread and cut into fourths. Put half of buttered bread into a generously buttered 12 x 7-inch pan (for a single recipe). Sides will be touching. Distribute sliced mushrooms, sliced olives and shrimp evenly over bread. Now a layer of cheese and the rest of the bread, buttered side up. Sprinkle generously with freshly ground pepper.

Beat eggs well (make short work of this with your blender); add milk, liquid from canned mushrooms, salt, dry mustard, and garlic and onion powder or salt. Beat or blend and pour over bread mixture. Garnish top by sprinkling with paprika. Let stand several hours or overnight. Then bake 40 to 45 minutes at 325 degrees F. Serve immediately.

TO FREEZE: This dish may be set into the freezer immediately after it is assembled. Be sure to wrap properly, date and label before freezing.

TO SERVE WHEN FROZEN: Let dish thaw completely and bake according to directions, or put frozen dish into oven and add approximately 25 minutes to the baking time. Souffle should be lightly browned and set before removing from oven.

*Add according to taste. I like a liberal amount of garlic salt on mine.

WATER CHESTNUTS WRAPPED IN BACON

These goodies, usually served as an appetizer, can be made in advance, frozen, and then baked in the oven just before serving. The brown sugar and soy sauce give them a Polynesian flavor.

Single Recipe:
2 cans water chestnuts
½ pound bacon
soy sauce
brown sugar

Preheat oven to 400 degrees F. Cut bacon strips in half and lay flat in a single layer on a broiling pan. Sprinkle with soy sauce and brown sugar. Put bacon into the oven for about 15 to 20 minutes, watching closely at the end of baking time. Bacon should be almost done, but not crisp.

Remove bacon from broiling pan and drain on absorbent paper. Now wrap one half slice of bacon around each water chestnut, securing each with a toothpick. Return to oven for another five minutes or until bacon is very crispy.

TO FREEZE: Do not return bacon wrapped water chestnuts to the oven. Place on an oven proof platter or dish. Wrap securely, date, label and freeze.

TO SERVE WHEN FROZEN: These may either be thawed at room temperature and baked according to directions or you may wish to put them frozen into a 400 degree F. oven and bake for approximately 10 to 15 minutes. Watch closely toward the end of baking time. Remove as soon as bacon seems crisp.

VARIATION: BACON WRAPPED CHICKEN LIVERS. Follow above instructions, but saute chicken livers for five minutes in butter while the bacon is in the oven.

If you have any questions, suggestions, etc. write to Charlotte Erickson, c/o The Day, 117 S. Main St., Mount Prospect, Ill. 60056. Please enclose a self-addressed envelope for a personal reply.

The Four Flours

Have you ever been confused when a recipe calls for a certain kind of flour? Home bakers have a choice of four flour blends.

All-purpose flour is usually made from blends of wheat. It is suitable for all types of home baking and cooking, except for delicate cakes.

Instant flour is specially processed flour made from all-purpose flour. It is granular, easily dispersed in cold liquids and does not need sifting. It costs about 2 cents a pound more than all-purpose flour.

Self-rising flour, usually milled from soft wheat, has a leavning agent (baking powder) and salt added. It may be used in any recipe calling for baking powder and salt by omitting these ingredients from the recipe.

Cake flour, made from soft wheat also, is the finest in texture and the most expensive of all flours. The protein content is lower than in all-purpose. It is made specifically for delicate cakes.

Food Values

Turkey prices are still offering area shoppers the best meat values this weekend ranging from 29 to 33 cents for toms and hens featured at 35 to 37 cents in many stores. Fresh Grade A fryers are averaging slightly under 29 cents a pound. Egg prices are about the same, rising a few pennies over the past two weeks.

Beef costs have reached a new high. Hindquarter cuts are favored for this week with boneless rump roasts being noted in some stores from 98 cents to $1.09 a pound; sirloin tip roasts $1.09 to $1.19; round steak 89 cents to $1.09. Pork should be a better value. Easter hams will range widely according to brand, weight and cut.

Low quotations for whole, smoked hams are 53 to 55 cents a pound; shank portions 39 cents and butt ends 49 cents. Center cut pork chops will range from 69 to 98 cents, bacon from 79 cents promotions to 95 cents for name brands.

FROM NOW to early April the more common Chicago-area food values are:

Poultry: frozun turkey, fryer parts.

Meats: hams, pork chops, loin and butt roasts, picnic hams, bacon; beef rump and sirloin tip roasts, beef steak and ground beef.

Produce: oranges, bananas, apples; cabbage, carrots, cucumbers, radishes, lettuce, tomatoes, onions and potatoes.

Legal Aspects of Nursing

"Legal Aspects of Nursing" is the topic Robert Harrington will discuss before the Arlington Heights Nurses Club, 8 p.m. tonight in the cafeteria-conference room at Northwest Community Hospital. Mr. Harrington is an attorney and member of the law firm of Harrington and Day with offices in the loop.

Any rugistered nurse residing or employed in Arlington Heights is invited to attend. Further information may be obtained from Mrs. Richard Ackerman at 259-0796.

Hostesses for the uvening will be Mrs. Lee Bourgeois, chairman; Mrs. Richard Degener, Mrs. John Langhenry, Mrs. Albert DiGiulio, Mrs. Donald Kettering, Mrs. John Detweiler and Mrs. Harold Klingner.

IN OTHER activities, Mrs. Howard Johnson has been named acting Lending Closet chairman. All equipment in the Closet is available without charge to any resident of Arlington Heights for as long as 6 months.

Another Story Poem

Talk with a Teacher

By Esther F. Culton

I promised that, if you enjoyed the story poem, Casey At the Bat, in my previous column, I would follow it with "Casey's Revenge," which is a reply to the famous baseball classic in which poor Casey "struck out." "Casey's Revenge" was written by James Wilson.

CASEY'S REVENGE

There were saddened hearts in Mudville for a week or even more;

There were muttered threats and warnings - every fan in town was sore,

"Just think," said one, "how soft it looked with Casey at the bat!

And then to think he'd go and spring a bush-league trick like that."

All his past fame was forgotten; he was now a hopeless "shine,"

They called him "Strike-out Casey" from the mayor down the line.

And as he came to bat each day his bosom heaved a sigh,

While a look of hopeless fury shone in mighty Casey's eye.

The lane is long, someone has said, "that never turns again,

And Fate, though fickle, often gives another chance to men."

And Casey smiled - his rugged face no longer wore a frown;

The pitcher who had started all the trouble came to town.

All Mudville had assembled; ten thousand fans had come,

To see the twirler who had put big Casey on the bum;

And when he stepped into the box the multitude went wild,

He doffed his cap in proud disdain - but Casey only smiled.

"Play ball!" the umpire's voice rang out, and then the game began;

But in that throng of thousands there was not a single fan

Who thought that Mudville had a chance; and with the setting sun

Their hopes sank low - the rival team was leading "four to one."

The last half of the ninth came 'round, with no change in the score;

But when the first man up hit safe the crowd began to roar.

The din increased, the echo of ten thousand shouts was heard

When the pitcher hit the second and gave "four balls" to the third.

Three men on base - nobody out - three runs to the game!

A triple meant the highest niche in Mudville's hall of fame;

But here the rally ended and the gloom was deep at night

When the fourth one "fouled to catcher" and the fifth "flew out to right."

A dismal groan in chorus came - a scowl was on each face -

When Casey walked up, bat in hand, and slowly took his place;

His bloodshot eyes in fury gleamed; his teeth were clinched in hate;

He gave his cap a vicious hook and pounded on the plate.

But fame is fleeting as the wind, and glory fades away;

There were no wild and woolly cheers, no glad acclaim this day.

They hissed and groaned and hooted as they clamored, "Strike him out!"

But Casey gave no outward sign that he had heard this shout.

The pitcher smiled and cut one loose, across the plate it spread;

Another hiss, another groan, "Strike one!" the umpire said.

Zip! Like a shot, the second curve broke just below his knee -

No roasting for the umpire now - his was an easy lot;

But here the pitcher whirled again - was that a rifle shot?

A whack! a crack! and out through space the leather pellet flew,

A blot against the distant sky, a speck against the blue.

The sphere sailed on; the blot grew dim and then was lost to sight.

Ten thousand hats were thrown in air, ten thousand threw a fit;

But no one ever found the ball that mighty Casey hit!

Oh, somewhere in this favored land dark clouds may hide the sun,

And somewhere bands no longer play and children have no fun;

And somewhere over blighted lives there hangs a heavy pall;

But Mudville hearts are happy now - for Casey hit the ball!

AN AUTHENTIC MODEL "T" Ford will be a prominent prop when the Music On Stage groups presents their spring offering, "High Button Shoes" will open on Friday, April 11, play through Saturday, Arpil 12, and again on Sunday, April 13. Performances will be at 8:30 p.m. except for a 7:30 p.m. curtain on Sunday. There will be two more performances the following weekend, Friday, April 18, and Saturday, April 19. Lack of Money Forces Pupils To Sit on Floor to Eat Lunch

By Jan Bone
First In a Series

Last week, Mrs. Mariiyn Haakers, 650 W. Ambleside, Des Plaines, told a group of District 59 parents who are studying school costs that children must sit on the floor of the multipurpose room to eat lunch at Des Plaines' High Ridge Knolls School because there is no money to buy tables.

Day photographer John Kruissink dropped in at lunchtime and did indeed find groups of youngsters on the multipurpose room floor.

But Principal Thomas Powers tells it this way:

"THE BASIS of the concern is that during the lunch period, some kids are sitting on the floor to eat.

"But this is an elementary school.

"What do you see when you walk into most kindergarten rooms, anyway? Kids sitting on the floor.

"District 59 has a policy that individual building principals may, through their parent organizations, set up a lunch program under parent supervision.

"Last September, our High Ridge Knolls parents organized a lunch program under the leadership of Mrs. Joyce McNealy, 509 W. Ambleside, Des Plaines.

"Total school enrollment, including kindergarten, is 423 children. Of these, 335 are eligible to stay for lunch.

"THE PARENTS offered an all-year program for a $7 fee, and a cold-weather program for $3, to run between Dec. 1 and March 15.

"We had 230 staying in the cold-weather period, and have 115 taking part in the all-year program.

"Because this wasn't a District 59 program, I wasn't given any money to buy lunch tables. I couldn't go out and buy them."

On Jan. 17, Powers sent home a note, offering to refund money to dissatisfied parents. It read: "Several parents have inquired about all of the children eating lunch while sitting on the floor of the multipurpose room.

"Since this is truly a fact, and since I caused this action to be taken, a special explanation is in order.

"EIGHTY PER cent of grades one through five—235 children—eat their lunches here at school.

"Seating 10 children to a table, 24 tables would be required.

"We simply do not have 24 folding tables, and if we did, we lack the personnel to take them up and down. My decision, then, was rather predetermined.

"We could not seat all the children if we wished to do so.

"As most of you know, our lunch program is parent-organized and operated. Few schools in the district offer such a liberal lunch program and, those that do so, charge a larger fee.

"It is apparent that the need exists, for 80 per cent of our children participate. We do the very best we can.

"MRS. MCNEALY, the program co-ordinator, and I sympathize with those who object to children sitting on the floor for lunch, but—surprisingly—few of the children do.

"If any parent wishes to withdraw his or her child from the program, I have recommended a refund to the parents.

"For those of you who want to see the lunch program for yourself, an invitation is hereby extended."

Powers also said that at a Jan. 21 PTA meeting, only a few hands were raised when he asked people how many "felt they couldn't live with the present lunch situation."

"Next year," said Powers, "in indicating my needs for the building, I will indicate a need for lunch tables.

"Tables are 'upgrading' in the budget, and fall under the second classification. First comes equalization of our school with the other District 59 schools.

"We do not have a District 59 lunch program. No school is entitled to lunch.

"FOR NEXT year's budget—in my own budget—textbooks, paper, teacher salaries, and learning center supplies all have precedence over lunch tables.

"The majority of parents want their youngsters to stay at school to eat lunch. Although no one is crazy about the idea of children sitting on the floor, it doesn't stop parents from going ahead and spending the money to participate in the program.

"Basically, this is not such a large issue."

Next: Lunch at other District 59 buildings.

USO Center Benefit Set For Saturday

The second in a series of USO benefit programs will be held at noon Saturday at Mister Edward's restaurant, Illinois Rt. 83 and Landmeier Rd.

Proceeds will help finance construction and furnishing of a USO center at O'Hare International Airport.

Denis R. Luellen, 1138 S. Wolf Rd., Des Plaines, who is making arrangements, said items are needed for the white elephant auction.

The items may be left at any Des Plaines fire station. Persons may call 827-5816 for reservations or pickups for the sale, he said.

Luellen said it is not necessary to attend the luncheon in order to take part in the auction, scheduled for 2:30 p.m.

There also will be a fashion show and music by pianist Marie Sartor and Tony Raine on the accordion.

Crash Injures Youth

Ricardo Pimentel of 1330 E. Rand Rd., Des Plaines, was injured Wednesday when his auto slammed into a street sign at Rand and Grove.

The 18-year-old youth, who suffered a broken jaw in the mishap, was listed in good condition at Holy Family Hospital.

Des Plaines patrolman, Larry Gniot, said Pimentel's auto was northwest bound on Rand when it skidded out of control as the youth was changing lanes.

The auto, according to Gniot, skidded 235 feet before striking the sign on the center median.

Grove Edges Huskies, 55-54, in Final Event

Steve Schuler strains to top Hersey teammate Glen Rathke and Elk Grove's Mel Greathouse to the wire in the closely-contested 50-yard dash last night at the Gren fieldhouse.

By Bill Copeland

The Elk Grove Grenadiers, plagued with illness and injuries, overcame the eager Hersey Huskies in the last event, to take a close 55-54 victory last night over the Hersey indoor track team.

The Elk Grove eight-lap relay team made up of Bob Bachus, Wayne Wille, Bob Flesch and Gary Shick finished first with a 2:42.0; giving their team enough points to capture the victory.

BOB BACHUS was the leading scorer for the Grens, winning three first places and accumulating 15 points for his team. Bachus, a tough competitor in the middle distance events, sprinted to a 56 5 finish in the 440-yard dash and also finished ahead of the pack with a 2:14.9 in the half-mile. Bachus also won the long jump with 18 feet, 10¾ inches.

The only two other winners for Elk Grove were Mel Greathouse who vaulted 12 feet, and Wayne Wille in the mile with a 4:57.0.

Elk Grove took six individual second places accounting for 18 of their 55 points. Mark Lichter turned in an 8.6 performance in the high hurdles and Rick Bruns ended with a 11:02.2 in the two-mile. Other second place winners include Shick in the half-mile, Flesch in the 440-yard dash, Rick Hess in the shot and Howard Margulis in the pole vault.

SKIP PETERSON was a double winner for the Huskies, taking the high hurdles with an 8.2 and the lows with a 7.5.

Steve Schuler won the 50-yard dash for Hersey with 5.9, and Greg Gawlik crossed the winning stripe well out in front of his nearest competitor with 10:37.7.

Gary Gardell tossed the 12-pound ball 43 feet, 9¼ inches, to win the shot, and Don Spry cleared the high jump at five feet, four inches for a win for Hersey.

Peterson, Kurl Kaifer, Mike Pribilski and Schuler all combined their efforts for a winning time of 1:14.2 in the four-lap relay.

SECOND PLACE winners for the Huskies were Glen Rathke with 6.1 in the 50-yard dash, Kiefer with 7.9 in the lows and Tom Klinger with 5:01.0 in the mile. The only other second place winner was Schuler with 18 feet, 10¼ inches in the long jump, and five feet, four inches in the high jump.

Wildcats Sneak off with Triangular Win

By Linda Hamilton
Sports Editor

Wheeling's trackmen, behind two wins and two seconds by Nick Silvestri and a hard-fought five-point effort by the 12-lap relay team, captured a triangular meet last night against Prospect and Forest View.

The running score found the Wildcats and the Knights trading leads eight times until the relay teams let things stand at Wheeling, 56; Prospect 52½; and Forest View, 28½.

FOR THE WINNING Wildcats, Tom Johann, Stew Oakley and Gary Hildebrandt all recorded first-place finished in addition to Silvestri.

The Knights counted on Art Bedsworth, Bill Allen, Bob Pomrenke, Jeff Meissner and Keith Matthews to keep them nipping at Wheeling's heels with blue ribbon performances.

For Forest View, Terry Shakon had the only individual first, but the four-lap relay team also recorded a win.

Other second-place winners for Wheeling were Kevin Barthule, and Johann, while Prospect counted seconds from Dan Dall, Dan Dittman, and Bill Treece.

FOREST VIEW'S second placers were Don Hammer, Bob Miller, and Bob Bell.

The meet ended the indoor season until the Wildcat Relays are run this Friday at Wheeling. The relays will include all Dist. 214 schools and will conclude the indoor season.

Boys Win Second Championship

The Northwest Suburban YMCA boys' swim team swam at Thornridge High School in Dolton Sunday in the Boys' Blue League Swim Championship.

The Northwest swimmers captured their second overall high point trophy with a score of 299. Harvey was a close second with a 296 slate, followed by West Suburban (164) and Elmhurst (85).

IN THE CADET division the relay team of Dave Doehler, John Eliot, Chris Stewart and Mike Walsh combined to win the first place laurels in the 100-yard medley relay. Doehler also earned a first place award in the 25-yard backstroke and he combined with Eliot, Danny Jump and Mike Walsh for another relay win, this time in the 100-yard freestyle relay in the cadet division.

The only Midget division winner was breaststroke Brad Busse in the 50-yard competition. In the Prep Division Merv Pastel captured two individual firsts, in the 100-yard individual medley and in the 50-yard breaststroke. Dan Glover also received a first place award in the 50 yard butterfly. The Prep team captured Two relay firsts. Mike Salerno, Don Glover, Pastel and Dave Sehnert teamed up for a first in the 200-yard medley relay. In the 200 yard freestyle relay the Northwest swimmers also seized a first place.

Mike Richartz earned a first place award in the 50-yard freestyle and teamed up with Jeff Arhart, Jim Davies and Mike Freeman for a first in the 200-yard freestyle relay.

Three Win in Eye Openers

In the Thursday Eye Openers women's bowling league, Esther Soukup, Jean Brogdon and Gayle Balboa combined to wrest the individual laurels.

Brogdon captured the high individual game honors with handicap (227) and scratch (203).

Balboa seized the high individual series with a handicap (553) and the high individual series scratch went to Soukup at (522).

The Mockingbirds and the Eagles received the team honors in the high team series (2,040) and the high team game (719), respectively. For the week of March 20, the standings are 1. Skylarks, 2. Buzzards, 3. Flamingoes, 4. Mockingbirds, 5. Doves, 6. Dodos, 7. Cuckoos, 8. Loons, 9. Roadrunners, 10. Eagles, 11. Budgias and 12. Parakeets.

'Vindicators' Avenge Football Loss With Two Wins

By Bill Price

The name of the game was revenge, or as the Prospect Knights prefer to call it, vindication.

Seeking vengeance for their 34-0 loss at the hands of the Cardinals last fall on the grid, the Knights dropped the Cardinals, 21-20, on the hardcourt last night in a game that pitted members of Prospect's football team against representatives of the Cardinals' championship crew.

The two teams battled it out for two quarters before the coaches of Prospect took the floor and showed that they practice what they preach as they rolled over a contingent of coaches from Arlington, 47-18.

THE GAME opened with Ron Nelson of the Arlington "Birdmen" scoring on a long jump shot. Rick Soduski tied up the score for the Vindicators before Dennis Meacham put Arlington ahead by one on a free shot. Jim Tilsch tallied for Prospect with a jump shot from the stripe, but Nelson tied up the score again as he sank a charity shot with less than four minutes remaining in the first period.

Gary Bach of Prospect and Chris Buttenob of Arlingtoo representatives of their respective basketball squads as well as their team's grid entries, each tallied from under the boards before Jay Harris tied up the score at eight-all just as the buzzer sounded indicating the end of the period.

It looked as if the Birdmen were going to pull away in the second quarter as Nelson and Craig Deehring each pumped in long jump shots to give the Cards a four-point bulge, 14-10.

The Vindicators rallied at this point however, as Bruce Busse tallied on a charity shot and Jim Novack and Bach chalked up four markers between them on jump shots. Nelson added a free throw to tie the game up at 13-all before Bach hit on another jump shot from the corner.

DEEHRING TIED the score up again with 3:40 left to play in the game after he was fed by Buttenob under the boards. Harris put the Cards ahead by one as he made good on a foul by Bach.

Novack exploded the four points in the next minute as he pumped in two jump shots to give the Vindicators the lead at 19-16.

Buttenob made both ends of a one on one and Harris hit from under the boards again to put the Cards ahead, 20-19, with less than a minute to play. Bach saved the day for the visitors as he arched a long jump through the net with 17 seconds remaining. Bach came back to steal the ball, and the time ran out with Prospect finally tasting victory against the Cardinals this year.

In the second game, the Vindicators from Prospect easily dominated the action as the coaches from Arlington seemed a little sluggish against their younger, quicker opponents.

PACING THE Vindicators was George Bork, a 1960 graduate of Arlington High School who went on to earn Little All-American status as a quarterback at Northern Illinois University. Bork tallied 17 markers to lead both teams while John McGee added another 11 for the winners. Mike Nisen was the only other player to break into double figures as he contributed 10 points to the Vindicators' winning cause.

The first period saw the Birdmen getting off to a fast start as Chuck Haines and Gary Brodnan each tallied on jump shots. Nisen retaliated with one of his own for Prospect, but the Birdmen kept their four-point advantage as Arlington head varsity basketball coach, George Zigman, hit from the corner with a shot that would put many of his young proteges watching the contest to shame.

Bork bit on a 20-footer just before Brodnan sank a charity shot. Jerry Lovejoy and McGee each added two points for Prospect with their long jumpers, but Zigman kept the Birdmen ahead, 9-8, as he sank another of bis patented set shots.

THIS WAS FATED to be the last time that the hosts led as the Prospect coaches gained momentum and pulled away in fine form. Before the quarter ended, the Vindicators had built up a 19-14 lead, with Nisen, Lovejoy and Bork doing the scoring.

In the second period the hosts scored only six points while their guests went on a rampage, pumping 28 points through the nets. The Vindicators held the Birdmen scoreless or a five-minute stretch soon after the period opened and increased their lead during this drouth from 21-15 to 36-15. Bork scored 13 points in the final period while Brodnan led the Birdmen with four.

Although both contests were light-hearted and there were no hard feelings on either side at the conclusion of the nights' events, it was evident that the Knights appreciated even this small form of vindication.

River Trails Park Candidate Wants Merger of 2 Districts

By Ben Clarke

Norman F. Johnson, a candidate in the River Trails Park District election on Tuesday, April 1, said yesterday he would like to see the territories of the River Trails and Prospect Heights park districts combined.

Johnson told The Day that the merger "would be less of a tax burden," and that he feels Prospect Heights is now divided with too many individual groups within the community.

JOHNSON IS ONE of two candidates vying for the post of Park Commissioner is the first commissioner election since the park district was formed in August of 1965.

Also running for the one six-year vacancy is Eugene DiBlasi, 40, of 1909 Ivy Ln., Mount Prospect, presently a commissioner.

Johnson, 42, of 1003 E. McDonald Rd., Prospect Heights, is a journeyman pipefitter and has been a Prospect Heights resident since 1947. He has been on the Prospect Heights Board of Trustees since 1960, and its president since 1962.

HE SAID THAT he thought the park board should have a "blue collar" worker among its membership. He said he felt that this was an advantage in dealing with the general public.

"I understand the value of a dollar better, being a blue collar worker," Johnson said.

Johnson has another proposal. He said he thinks River Trails Park board should ask the Cook County Forest Preserve District to install a swimming pool on its land east of River Rd. between Willow and Camp McDonald Rds. He said this could serve residents of Prospect Heights and surrounding communities.

Johnson said he felt there could be more school-park district co-operation, on the development of recreation facilities as a money-saving device.

JOHNSON SAID, If elected, "I want to do every thing possible to keep our children off the streets. We have to have some place for the kids."

He and his wife, June, have one daughter, who is a freshman at Hersey High School.

DiBlasi has been on the park board since the district was formed in August, 1965. He is the Des Plaines agency manager for a national life insurance company.

DIBLASI IS chairman of the park board's finance committee. He said he still has hopes of the park district obtaining a federal grant-in-aid of $475,000 which was applied for in 1966.

The sum represents 50 per cent of the money spent for park sites plus 50 per cent of the cost of other developments qualifying under the grant-in-aid act.

If granted, the park board would use the money to build a swimming pool at the Woodland Trails park site, Wolf Rd. and Euclid. The park board has been turned down once on the application.

DIBLASI SAID the board hopes to overturn the provision that once an applicant is turned down on a site an application cannot be made again for the same site by the same public body.

He said the finance committee has been exploring other ways of easing the tax burden. "We've checked into state aid, and more grants of all types, and we will keep checking," he said.

DiBlasi said the park district "is getting out of the embryo stage and getting into the fruition stage," and that he would like to be part of it.

HE BELIEVES it was one of the most progressive boards in the state and "has done a lot in a short time." He singled out for praise Roger Bjorvik, the district's attorney, whom he characterized as having "vast park board experience."

DiBlasi and his wife, Virjean, have a son, 7, and a daughter, 5.

In the park district, he has been a helper with the touch football and the craft programs, and was instrumental in getting the band program started.

IN OTHER community activities, he has been board chairman of the American Cancer Society in the northwest suburban area, and a member of the Suburban Veterans Chorale, a men's singing group that often entertains hospitalized veterans in the area.

There will be one polling place for the election, at Euclid School, Euclid and Wheeling Rd. in Mount Prospect. Registered voters may vote from 6 a.m. to 6 p.m.

For the voter who will not be in town, absentee ballots may be obtained through Monday, March 31, at the park district office 1820 E. Kensington Rd., Mount Prospect. This is just east of Park View School.

Boundaries for the park district are River Rd. on the east north to Old Willow, Old Willow to Wolf Rd., Wolf to Camp McDonald, Camp McDonald to Wheeling Rd., Wheeling to Euclid, Euclid to Illinois Rt. 83, Illinois Rt. 83 to Kensington and Kensington to River Rd.

Horn Stolen

A horn rim valued at $12 was stolen from a car while it was parked at St. Viator High School, Arlington Heights yesterday, according to police.

Francis V. Gallagher, 3 E. Suffield told police that the car was driven to school by his son, who discovered the theft.

'The Slip' Just Keeps Going

Whoever does such things at the Country Club Theatre is lengthening the slip of "The Girl in the Freudian Slip" which was originally scheduled to close March 30. The new terminal date is Sunday, April 13.

Tom Elrod is back in the role of the psychiatrist. Tom was on a leave to "do" the Auto Show in Chicago and his role was taken by Ric Riccardo, Chicago restauranteur and husband of "The Girl," Faith Quabius.

The theatre was dark for a few days when Ric slipped onstage on a glass and finished that unscheduled performance in Augustana Hospital recovering from blood poisoning. He's up and about and carrying his arm around in a cast.

THE THEATRE is rapidly becoming a landmark in the area. It certainly is a spot where things seem to happen.

Last December, a young couple who had engaged the Old Orchard facilities for their wedding reception suddenly discovered that they needed a place for the ceremony to be performed.

Both were in amateur theatricals and they chose the stage of the little theatre.

Dennis Kennedy, a veteran actor in the Country Club Theatre, has also requested permission to use the stage for his April 20 wedding to Jan Bradford. He would like it to be before the 7:30 p.m. Sunday performance. Jan is secretary to Riccardo.

According to Gert Gettings, the couple has not decided yet whether or not they will invite the public to the wedding.

Rev. McDonald To Speak On WGN

An inspirational talk by the Rev. Robert McDonald, pastor of St. John United Church of Christ, 314 N. Evergreen St., Arlington Heights, will be given Friday over WGN radio at 12:55 p.m.

The Rev. McDonald will speak during the program "Time to Reflect," a public affairs department presentation of the station. The program presents clergymen of all faiths and denominations of the Chicago area.

The event, sponsored by the Illinois Grade School Music Association, was held in Round Lake and children from 15 school district participated.

Students receiving first place ratings at the contest were Allan Graham, Kimball Hill; David Geuger, Robert Geuger and Peter Winiketes, Salk; Karen Brown, Central Road; and Rick Hutchison, Rick Johnson, David Adams, Lene Kesen, Seen Allen, Leslie Pfoutz, Steve Mamoyac and Robert Mulley; Carl Sandburg.

John Blue of Cardinal Drive won a second place award as did Paul Geuger, Douglas Herry, Christine Schirmer and Wayne Schroeder of Salk. Also winning second place awards were Lori Merchiori and Karen Wurl, Kimball Hill; Berry Van Delinder and William Nesbit, Central Road; and James Brettner, Janet Wittig, Linda Krol, Den Pirron, Judy Stellfus, Mike Werling and Paul Germano, Carl Sandburg.

Robert Corbett of Chicago has been named co-ordinator of Western Electric's Step-up Project for the Rolling Meadows plant. He holds a B.S. degree in psychology from Loyola University and will be supervising 20 trainees in the project.

Three Prospect Bands in Concert

The Prospect High School music department will present the symphonic band, concert band, and stage band in concert Saturday, March 29, at 8 p.m. in the school's Little Theatre, 801 Kensington Rd., Mount Prospect.

The symphonic band is comprised mainly of upperclassmen and has a membership of sixty-two. The concert band is comprised of underclassmen and has a membership of eighty-nine. The stage band, which recently won first place in the Badger State Band Contest in Wisconsin, has a membership drawn from both symphonic and concert bands.

Directors of the bands are Morgan J. Jones and Kenneth L. Williams.

Featured trombone soloist will be Roger Janssen, originally of Peoria and currently with the Fifth Army Band and the Chicago Civic Symphony Orchestra. A reception will follow the Concert at which those attending may meet Janssen.

Tickets are $1 for adults and .50 cents for students, and may be purchased from any band member or at the door.

Planners OK Development

The Arlington Heights Plan Commission last night voted to recommend approval of a planned development by developers Bebbin and Trieger.

Those voting against were Fred Ainslie and Russell Colvin. Colvin said that the density would be too great for the area and that it needed more greenery, though it would be well within the code.

A 48-unit apartment is planned for a site bounded by Chestnut, Fremont, and St. James Streets. There are plans for 22 one-bedroom apartments.

The Plan Commission recommendation will be presented to the Village Board on April 7.

Jorge Likes America More As Warmer Weather Nears

Jorge, on the left, and Cart Galbraith with whom he lives wash dishes together.

Coming from a warm climate to northern Illinois in the fall can be quite a shock as Jorge Gomez, the foreign exchange student at St. Viator High School, Arlington Heights, has discovered.

Jorge, a 19-year-old from Bogota, Columbia, doesn't really like winter here and says he's happier now that the weather is warming up.

Other than that, he said he is enjoying his stay with the Loren Galbraith family of Palatine. He said it has been a good experience and he has learned a lot.

He attends St. Viator's down in Bogota, too, where he will begin the second semester of his fifth year after he goes back. High school education there is six years long.

Although he has had six years of English and has practiced speaking English with the priests and his North American friends he had some difficulty understanding it in classroom situations.

He is taking French, English, geometry, chemistry, and religion this year and finds chemistry quite difficult because of the terms used.

He likes the student-teacher relationships here and finds the teachers friendlier than in his native land.

He said that in Colombia, the children have more respect for their parents and rarely "talk back." Families are more closely-knit with more concern for each other. They spend more time together. Children talk over problems with parents more readily and also realize that parents can give excellent advise because they are older and more experienced.

Jorge plans to go into advertising after he is graduated. He plans to study it in a United States College because the schools are more established and the teachers more experienced. However, Jorge wants to practice advertising in Colombia because there is an open field for young, modern ideas.

In Bogota, Jorge has worked on projects sponsored by his school, teaching the poor how to build houses of wood, how to cook and sew, how to keep things clean and sanitary, and other things which will help them lead better lives.

This has affected him a great deal, and he said that all his life he is going to help the poor when he can.

This does not mean that he is going to just be a soft touch for someone too lazy to work for himself. The people have to be willing to work for themselves.

HERE LUNCH is at noon and supper at 6 p.m. and he finds himself getting hungry again about 9. He likes American food and likes to snack. In fact, since he's been here he's put on 12 pounds. However, meals are bigger back home and more leasurely. After dining, the people sit around and talk. He doesn't like the rush, rush, rush.

They have student demonstrations in Colombia, too, although it is always college students. He said that they are carried on much as those are here.

In Colombia, they are called a "huelga," which is a protest or kind of an expression of discontent on the part of workers or students.

There have been fewer of these "huelgas" in the past seven months or so since the president of Colombia has taken the steps of having any person participating arrested, put in jail and fined no matter who he is.

One thing that disappointed Jorge when he arrived here was the attitude and prejudice towards Negroes.

In Colombia the Negroes aren't looked down on, but are treated as human beings and friends.

He has been given many ridiculous reasons why people don't like Negroes.

When he was in Washington with a friend, he had several good experiences with Negroes. He and his friend went to a discoteque. He was sitting at the bar while his friend was dancing when a Negro couple came in.

Jorge had been talking in Spanish and the man asked him where he was from. Jorge told him Colombia and they got to talking. They got on the subject of racial discrimination and Jorge told him they didn't discriminate against Negroes in Colombia.

THE MAN bought Jorge a drink and offered to drive him to the airport if he needed a ride. Jorge already had transportation, but the experience lingers as a good one.

According to Jorge, the teen-agers in Colombia have more freedom than here since they have no curfews and no drinking laws.

This does not create the problems most Americans think it would since the young persons for the most part don't take excessive advantage of it. They use more maturity in deciding what hour to come in and how much to drink.

Also the boys in Colombia have more respect for the girls and more or less put them on a pedestal. Girls aren't treated just as one of the guys, but rather are persons to be respected and treated politely.

He finds people in America less sentimental and romantic than in Colombia.

All in all, he enjoys America and the experience he has had here.

Pupils Depict African Congo

The African Congo is depicted in Kathleen Keller's classroom at Robert Frost School in Prospect Heights.

Using straws, toothpicks, rafia and other materials, the fourth-graders have created several model villages which depict life in the Congo.

The children made their models true to life by depicting costumes, homes, utensils and plants native to this part of Africa.

So You Want to Be

Career In Nursing Requires Education and Dedication

Nursing is a field where employment opportunities are expected to be excellent well into the 1970s.

Nursing care, of course, plays a major role in treatment of persons who are ill.

Registered professional nurses administer medications and treatments prescribed by physicians; observe, evaluate and record symptoms, reactions and progress of patients; assist in education and rehabilitation of patients and improve their physical and emotional environment; instruct auxiliary personnel or students; and perform other duties concerned with the care of the sick and injured, prevention of illness, and promotion of good health.

THE LARGEST group of professional nurses are hospital nurses. Most of these are general duty nurses, who perform skilled bedside nursing such as caring for a patient after an operation, assisting with blood transfusions and intravenous feedings and giving medications.

They also supervise auxiliary nursing workers. Some hospital nurses work primarily in the operating room, but others limit their work to certain types of patients such as children, the elderly, or the mentally ill. Still others are engaged primarily in administrative work.

Private duty nurses give individual nursing care to patients who need constant attention. In hospitals, however, one private duty nurse may sometimes take care of a few patients who require special nursing care but not full-time attention.

OFFICE NURSES assist physicians and dental surgeons, and occasionally dentists, in the care of patients in private practice or clinics. Sometimes they perform routine laboratory and office work.

Public health nurses care for patients in clinics or visit them in their homes. Their duties include giving first aid treatment or periodic nursing care as prescribed by a physician, demonstrating diet plans to groups of patients and arranging for immunizations.

These nurses may work with community leaders, teachers, parents and physicians in community health education programs. Some also work in schools.

Nurse educators, as their name implies, teach students the principles and skills of nursing, both in the classroom and at the bedside.

OCCUPATIONAL health or industrial nurses provide nursing care to employes in industry and government, and along with physicians are responsible for promoting employe health.

Considerably more than half a million registered professional nurses are employed in the United States, about two-thirds of them working in hospitals and related institutions. Almost 100,000 of them are private duty nurses. Others are employed as public health nurses in government agencies, visiting nurse associations and clinics; more are in nursing schools, and a considerable number are in industry.

The federal government also employs many nurses, mainly in the Veterans Administration. Some, of course, are serving as commissioned officers in the armed forces.

A LICENSE is required to practice professional nursing in all states as well as the District of Columbia. To obtain a license a nurse must have graduated from a school approved by a state board of nursing and pass a state board examination.

Graduation from high school is required for admission to all schools of professional nursing, and many schools accept only graduates in the upper third or half of their class.

Demonstrated competence in science and mathematics may also be required.

THREE TYPES of educational programs - diploma, baccalaureate and associate degree - offer the basic education required for careers in professional nursing.

Diploma programs are conducted by hospital and independent schools and usually require three years of training; bachelor's degree programs usually require four years of study in a college or university, although a few require five years; and associate degree programs in junior and community colleges require approximately two years of nursing education.

Young people considering a nursing career should have an interest in people and a desire to care for the sick and injured. Other personal qualifications needed are dependability, good judgment, patience and good physical and mental health.

OF SPECIAL interest, perhaps, is the fact that under the Nurse Training Act of 1964, needy students may obtain loans, a portion of which does not have to be repaid if the student obtains full-time employment in nursing after graduation.

Information can be obtained from the nearest office of the State Employment Service, as well as from high school counselors.

Mental Health Group Lunch Planned April 8

Mrs. Jon E. Floria, 1342 West Park, Arlington Heights, chairman for the Mental Health Association of Greater Chicago, announced that the association will sponsor a Management Mental Health Luncheon April 8, in the Pick-Congress Hotel.

The topic of the luncheon will be "Drug Abuse in Industry" and the main speaker is David H. Goldstein, M.D., medical director, New York Times and professor, Department of Environmental Medicine, New York University Medical Center.

The association is a citizens' action group working on behalf of the mentally ill in all areas from childhood mental illness to the emotional problems of geriatrics. It conducts a five-point program with activities in the fields of service planning, education, action and research.

The flag of the country for which he died and the flag of the school which he attended fly at half-mast for Pfc Jim Kalter. Kalter, 21, died on March 3 in Vietnam of wounds suffered on March 1. He was graduated in 1965 from St. Viator High School for Boys. He lived at 211 Wolf Rd., Prospect Heights.

DOCTOR SAYS

Nightly Mineral Oil Use May Have Side Effects

W. G. BRANDSTADT, M.D.

Many persons, convinced rightly or wrongly that they need to take a laxative, have started to take mineral oil and have taken it regularly for many years. When this indigestible oil is taken at night (the usual time) a thing layer spreads over the mouth and tongue. During deep sleep and snoring, some of the oil enters the lungs. Far from being harmless it causes an inflammation of the lungs that leads to scarring and difficulty in breathing.

Two patients at the Will Rogers Memorial Hospital in Saranac Lake, N.Y., a 53-year-old woman who had taken mineral oil every night for 18 years and an 82-year-old man who had taken it every second night for 20 years, complained of shortness of breath on the slightest exertion. In the past, the only treatment for this type of lung disease was to discontinue the mineral oil. Although this led to a gradual improvement, real relief took several years.

These two patients stopped taking mineral oil, and because their doctor believed that a steroid hormone would relieve the inflammation, he gave them prednisone. Both patients began to improve at once, although their sputum still showed oil for over a month. After four or five months their damaged lung tissue was restored to nearly normal.

Although it is comforting to know that victims of this disease, chronic lipid pneumonitis, can be cured, I cannot urge too strongly the prevention of the disease by avoiding the routine use of mineral oil. In any case, there are better ways to avoid constipation.

Q—Wheny my hay fever continued long after the pollen season, my doctor prescribed Mysteclin F. What is it for? Will it help to clear up a sinus infection? How long can I safely continue to take it?

A—This drug is an antibiotic used to combat a wide range of bacterial infections. If your sinusitis is caused by bacteria rather than by a virus, the drug should help you. In general, it is not wise to take any antibiotic for more than three or four weeks because this gives organisms that are not susceptible to it a chance to multiply. If it must be given for a prolonged period, your doctor should be on the alert for early signs of kidney, liver and blood diseases.

Q--I have asthma that causes me to wheeze and feel weak. Could it be from my nerves? What is the best treatment?

A—Although most cases of asthma are caused by inhaling pollens or house dust or by eating foods to which you are sensitive, heredity and emotional stress are now believed to be contributing factors. The best treatment is still a careful search for the causative allergen and avoiding it when it is found. After all, the nervous tension could be a result, rather than a cause, of your asthma.

Q—I am a woman, 60, and I have eczema. What causes it? How can I get rid of it?

A—The allergens that cause eczema are usually foods, especially milk, eggs and wheat; durgs, especially sulfonamides, vitamin preparations, liver extracts and coal tar products; or skin contact with various fabrics or chemicals. It often requires the services of a skilled allergist or dermatologist to find the cause but, once this is found, complete relief is possible.

Q--Are hay fever and asthma inherited?

A--A predisposition to these allergic diseases is inherited in some cases.

Q—I have been taking two shots a month for eight years for my allergy to ragweed. Could the shots cause rheumatic pains in my joints?

A—Too large a dose may cause hives or the symptoms of hay fever or asthma but would not cause joint pains.

Q—Every June, as soon as the roses bloom, I start to sneeze and my eyes water. My mother says that if I were allergic to roses, I would have these symptoms any time of the year if I was near these flowers. What do you think?

A--If you are sensitive to roses, you would sneeze any time you inhaled rose pollen. Your allergy may be caused by the pollen of some other plant that blooms at the same time of year as roses.

Q—My husband, 34, has hives. The pills he is taking don't help. He quit eating eggs and drinking milk but that didn't help either. He is a printer. Could the ink he handles cause his hives?

A--Yes, especially if his hives clears up over the weekend when he is away from the shop. Your doctor could cinch the matter by making patch tests with a neutral substance on one spot and printer's ink on another.

Q--When someone approaches me to make conversation, I get all choked up, my throat gets dry and I shake all over. How can I overcome this?

A—When an adult shows personality traits appropriate to a child, he has an overdose of immaturity or, expressed another way, self-centeredness. The longer this type of behavior is allowed to persist the harder it is to correct. You need expert help from a doctor who specializes in personality problems.

Schlickman Bill Backs Ogilvie's Message on Easing Annexations

By Richard Crabb

Rep. Eugene F. Schlickman (R-Arlington Heights) filed House Bill 1241 with the clerk of the House of Representatives yesterday immediately after Gov. Richard B. Ogilvie presented his message on local government.

The bill supports the proposals made by Gov. Ogilvie for the liberalization of the annexing procedures by municipalities of contiguous areas.

Ogilvie called attention to the fact that present laws permit a small number of residents living in unincorporated areas next to municipalities to prevent an orderly annexation.

THE SCHLICKMAN-sponsored bill, that has the Republican leadership in the House as co-sponsors, provides both safeguards for the legitimate interests of individuals in unincorporated territory and establishes a process by which municipalities can under certain conditions bring about annexation.

One of the conditions is that full municipal services must be available to the residents of the unincorporated area. Important action was taken yesterday in the House on two other related Schlickman bills. These are House Bills 107 and 108, the first of their kind in Illinois and perhaps in the nation, which provide for a regulation of door-to-door solicitors.

After a final hearing on the bills, the House Municipalities Committee approved the bills with a "do-pass' recommendation to the House.

THESE BILLS are the result of more than two years of work by Rep. Schlickman during which he has systamatically secured the views of both the major organizations selling through door-to-door solicitors and officials of many municipalities in Illinois.

The lawbooks of other states hava also been searched for helpful ideas.

There appeared before the House Municipalities Committee yesterday a dozen individuals representing both business organizations and municipalities.

Harold Ross, an official of the Field Enterprises Educational Corp., which is one of the largest direct-selling organizations in the country, spoke in behalf of the bill as did Steven Sargent, executive director of the Illinois Municipal League.

OFFICIALS of a number of other business organizations and of Evanston, Glenview and Glen Ellyn also appeared at the hearing in Springfield yesterday and spoke in behalf of the bills.

The bills introduced into the house Wednesday was the 22d bill filed by Rep. Schlickman in this session of the General Assembly.

The deadline for filing bills is April 15. Schlickman expects to file several additional bills before the deadline.

Two Schlickman- ponsored bills have already been passed by the House and sent to the Senate for approval. The other bills are in committee. A summary of the Schlickman bills follows:

H.B. 59--Creates a new Civil Service Act for Cook County, and repeals sections of Counties Act relating to Cook County civil service.

H.B. 107--Creates Direct Sellers Licensing Act and provides direct sellers the option to either register with the Department of Registration and Education or be subject to any municipal licensing or regulation. It empowers the department to revoke, suspend or refuse to issue or renew certificates upon certain grounds, and providas penalities for the violation of this act. An appropriation of $10 000 to the Department of Registration and Education is provided.

H.B. 108 -Adds a new section to the Illinois Municipal Code to empower municipalities to license and regulate direct sellers not registered with the Departmen of Ragistration and Education under the Direct Sellers Licensing Act.

It also sets standards which municipalties must follow in licensing and regulating, and exempts certain businesses from coverage.

H.B. 111--Adds a section to Northeastern Illinois Area Planning Act and creates Legislativa Advisory Committee to advise and consult with commission on policy and administration of act.

It also provides for appointment of members, term of office, appointment of chairman, vice chairman and secretary, and reimbursement for expenses and appropriates $2,500.

H.B. 130--Amends act relating to disposition of products of convict labor to permit sale of works of art or literature produced outside the work program of the institution.

H.B. 158--Amends Section 9 of Probation System Act by removing the population restriction on number of probation officers that may be appointed.

H.B. 159--Amends act relating to control of public graveyards to raise the annual compensation of cemetery trustees to $100.

H.B. 178--Amends Finance Act to require any voucher over $1,500, submitted to auditor by state agencies, to state if it is in payment on a contract for professional, technical, or artistic skills, and to state whether the contract or a memorandum for such services has been filed with the auditor general.

H.B. 179--Creates a Zoning Study Commission, and defines its powers and duties. Report to be made to General Assembly by Feb. 1, 1971. Appropriates $25,000.

H.B. 304--Amends 75th biennium appropriation to the Commission on Human Relations, as follows:

To contractual services, $4000, travel, $2,000, commodities, $1,000, and Contingencies, $1,600.

H.B. 531--Amends School Code to require candidate for county superintendent to possess valid administrative certificate with superintendent endorsement, and requires he be engaged in at least two of the previous four years in teaching or supervising in the common public schools, a college or university or serving as county superintendent in the state.

H.B. 564--Adds to an act to revise the law in relation to jails and jailers and authorizes Department of Public Safety to issue order closing a county or city jail which fails to meet certain standards.

Prescribes procedure to be followed for hearings on such an order and provides for judicial review.

H.B. 565--Amends the Illinois Municipal Code to provide that the board of inspectors of a city jail are subject to the Department of Public Safety's order closing a jail which fails to meet certain standards.

H. B. 566--Repeals sections of an act to revise the law in relation to jails and jailers which imposed a duty upon the grand juries to inspect county jails and the circuit court to inquire into the jails' conditions and remedy such conditions by court order.

H.B 629--White Cane Law declares right of the blind to use of public facilities and places of public accommodation and provides penalty for denial of this right.

Declares state policy of employing handicapped persons when their disability does not pravent the performance of the work and provides for designation of "White Cane Safety Day."

H.B. 783--Authorizes the Department of Public Works and Buildings to make an engineering examination, survey and report on the Buffalo Creek-Wheeling Drainage Ditch watershed in Lake and Cook counties and appropriates $15,000.

H.B. 784--Amends act regulating real estate brokers and real estate salesmen. Provides that no action shall be brought on a contract between seller of real estate and a broker or salesman unless the contract is in writing.

H. B. 835--Adds to Mental Health Code to authorize a peace officer, having cause to believe a person is in need of mental treatment, to take such person into custody and transport him to the nearest available physician or to a hospital and provides for procedure to secure prompt examination, admission or release of such person.

H.B. 836--Amends School Code to permit physical examination performed by out-of-state physician to be used by new employes to satisfy their physical fitness requirment.

H. B. 1022--An act permitting the Department of Public Safety to extend the limits of the place of confinement of inmates so that they may attend the funerals of specified relatives and for other specified purposes under prescribed conditions.

H. B. 1023--Amends Not-for-Profit Corporation Act. Prohibits use by not-for-profit corporation of the names of political parties in its corporate name unless the use is consented to by the county chairman of the affected political party.

It's Not Hersey, It's River City

"River City. Station Stop, River City."

"Music Man" is coming to town with the blare of the trumpets, clash of the cymbals, and beat of the drums tonight and tomorrow in the John Hersey High School Little Theater, at 8 p.m.

The cast has already performed the play twice this week, Wednesday evening and a Thursday matinee. The Wednesday audience consisted of Gold Card Club members (area citizens over 50), administrators, guest directors, and faculty.

MIKE McLEAN, junior, will portray Harold Hill, the Music Man. Bonnie Bowker, sophomore, and Jennie Quick, freshman, will be double cast as Marian.

Other major cast members include K. C. Scott, Mrs. Paroo; Scottie Petarsen, Winthrop; Sam McCall, Mayor Shinn; Kathy Borgardt, Eulalie McKechnie Shinn; Kan Scharpelz, Marcellus Washburn; Debbie Patersen, Zaneeta; Dave Good, Tommy Djilas; and Dave Stroder, Rich Noll, John Franklin, and Tad Bierderman as the quartet.

The cast was selected through acting, vocal, and dancing tryouts. Mike, K. C., and Bob Moore, as Charlie Cowell, will also be competing at the state speech tournament at Illinois State University at Normal. The three will be traveling between Normal and Hersey both days to compete.

"THIS CONFLICT has required a maximum effort from everyone involved but proves that the impossible is possible, said Harold Petersen, director.

"As always, at Hersey, the spirit of the cast, band, and crews is unbelievably high and it makes all the work that much easier," he continued.

Meredith Willson's musical success played over 1000 performances on Broadway and was later made into a movie of the same name. The film, with Robert Preston and Shirley Jones, premiered in Mason City, Iowa, Willson's hometown.

"IT IS intended to be a valentine and not a caricature. The humor of this piece depends upon its technical faithfulness to the real small town Iowans of 1912 who certainly did not think they were funny at all," commented Willson of the musical.

The play, which has been sold out for over a week, was chosen "originally because of its popular appeal. But that was before I realized how hard it would be," said Petersen.

The band will be directed by Don Canazva, with Charles Jenks as choral director, Christina Weeks as technical director, and Shirley Strzelecki, student director.

THE BAND will provide show accompaniment with members participating in the "80-member 'Music Man' band on stage."

"Hersey is the first District 214 school to present a musical during its first year," said Jenks. "This is quite an accomplishment."

Costumes were designed by Petersan, with the cast's townspeople making their own. A few of the leads' costumes were rented. Band uniforms were borrowed from Arlington High School.

The Hersey drama department, when "Music Man" is entirely completed, will present "The Odd Couple," May 16 and 17. Tryouts will be held in the near future.

Two young adults from the Clearbrook Center Workshop in Rolling Meadows assemble display cartons as part of the vocational training program, one of the many subcontracts that are part of the vocational training at this vocational center. These young men are paid by piece work basis for work done while receiving training.

Center Gives Unemployed Skills for Useful Jobs

After five months of training in Clearbrook Center's Sheltered Workshop and Vocational Training Center in Rolling Meadows, Fred has been able to become a full-time employe of Reynolds Products, 3800 Industrial Avenue, also in Rolling Meadows.

"Fred's doing a real nice job," said Gordon Reynolds, his supervisor. "He's making $2.20 an hour and works full-time and some overtime. I'm real happy with him."

Fred, who is from Rolling Meadows, was referred to Clearbrook Center, at 3201 W. Campbell by the State Division of Vocational Rehabilitation.

CLEARBROOK and the DVR have a contract that permits some of the individuals the state is working to use facilities at the center.

The sheltered workshop at Clearbrook opened three years ago. Here, mentally and physically handicapped young adults who cannot presently function indpendently in outside employment are trained under professional supervision to lead normal and productive lives.

And, in cases like Fred's, may even become employed and become a responsible, contributing member of society.

Rosemary, also from Rolling Meadows, has been a kitchen aide for the Lutheran Home and Service for the Aged at 800 W. Oakton St., Arlington Heights, for five months.

ROSEMARY cleans dishes before they are placed in large automatic dish washing machines and assists with setting and clearing tables.

Rosemary's peers and other adults know her as "co-operative, affectionate, cheerful and social."

Neither Fred nor Rosemary was specifically trained to do a particular job. Instead, training at Clearbrook Center helped them learn general skills they may encounter in a work situation.

These skills include counting, reading, writing, measuring, using the telephone, packaging, typing, cleaning and sorting.

Thay also learn about money, wages, time clocks, what is employment, what working means, what are its responsibilities, filling out job applications, use of public transportation, use of washrooms, what work breaks are and using tools they may encounter on the job.

A QUALIFIED professional staff at Clearbrook evaluates each young adult, and, when the staff agrees that an individual is ready for outside employment, a placement counselor arranges job interviews for the client.

But the client decides for himself which job, if any, he would like to apply for.

Clearbrook guides the young adult through his first outside working experience by making the necessary arrangements for his first day of work and helps him fill out any required paper work.

When the first day of work arrives, the placement counselor takes the client to work and attempts to make the transition as smooth as possible.

The counselor keeps in contact with is client and attempts to make the transition as smooth as possible.

THE COUNSELOR also maintains contact with is client and his place of employment to prevent or solve any difficulties that may arise. The employes receive the full benefits offered by their places of employment and enter into the regular competitive pay scales.

The ultimate goal of Clearbrook Center's workshop program is to make as many clients as possible into participating members of society.

Clearbrook Center for the Retarded is a private, non-profit agency, licensed by the Illinois State Department of Mental Health to provide services to the northwest suburban area.

Presently Clearbrook serves the townships of Wheeling, Palatine, Schaumburg, Elk Grove and Maine. The center provides a daytime program for children from 3 through 15 years of age.

For handicapped adults from 16 years of age and upward, the center provides a sheltered workshop and a social activity center.

CLEARBROOK serves those mentally retarded and multiply handicapped children and adults who are not eligible for public school classes.

These include children who are too young for placement in public school special education classes, those too severely handicapped for such placement and those who are beyond public school age.

Dr. Lahti Appointed To Accrediting Panel

Dr. Robert E. Lahti, president of Harper College in Palatine has just been named by the American Association of Junior Colleges in Washington, to serve a three-year term on the board of commissioners of the National Commission on Accrediting.

Dr. Lahti will be one of six commissioners from the junior college field and will represent the commission's north central region.

His term of office will begin immediately following the annual meeting of the National Commission on Accrediting, to be held at the Drake Hotel in Chicago on Friday.

Dr. Lahti's term of office of the Board will extend through the annual meeting of the Commission in 1972.

Newman Killed In Viet

The defense department has announced that the husband of a Des Plaines woman 1st Lt. Thomas M. Newman, 24, was killed in Vietnam Friday when his helicopter crashed.

He is survived by his wife, Mrs. Barbara Newman, who lives at 452 State St., as well as his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Del Newman; a brother, Marc, and a sister, Patricia.

Newman, who has been in Vietnam since September, was killed when his helicopter came down near Saigon.

Newman was graduated from Ripon College, Ripon, Wis., before entering the service to become a helicopter pilot.

Funeral arrangements are pending at Des Plaines Funeral Home.

Your Horoscope

FOR FRIDAY

ARIES (March 22-April 20)--An excellent time to find an outlet for your interest in building. Should a private dwelling take your thoughts, consult an expert.

TAURUS (April 21-May 21)--Destructive criticism will do no one any good. Direct your remarks to those who will best know how to help themselves.

GEMINI (May 22-June 21)--Set to work early in the day to clear the decks for the weekend. Otherwise, you may find that you must make a change in plans.

CANCER (June 22-July 23)--Think along constructive lines and you will be more likely to act constructively, too. Rash behavior leads to unhappy results.

LEO (July 24-Aug. 23)--Don't worry about personal problems until you've given them enough time to begin to work themselves out.

VIRGO (Aug.24-Sept.23)--Avoid setbacks at home or on the employment scene. Attend to even the most minor detail with special care.

LIBRA (Sept. 24-Oct. 23)--Unsuccessful ands are not necessarily the result of slow beginnings. You may have started off at too rapid a pace.

SCORPIO (Oct. 24-Nov. 22)--Obstacles thrown in your path early in the day can be more or less discounted. Not so those that show themselves later on.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 23-Dec. 22)--Employ a little optimism and you can transform a gray day into one of many hues. A good time to contact loved ones.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 23-Jan. 20)--Special concern regarding matters of health could well pay off in spades. Caralassness could lead to trouble.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 21-Feb. 19)--Though co-workers may assist you in many ways, they cannot guarantee your success. Depend upon your own resources.

PISCES (Feb. 20-March 21)--Don't let financial debts aontinue any longer than absolutely necessary. Business details should be cleared away at this time.

Number of Election Precincts Increased

Reflecting a dramatic rise in area population, election precincts in Wheeling Township will be increased from 79 to 89 this summer.

Reason: some precincts have nearly 1,000 registered voters while the more normal precinct complement is around 500.

COOK COUNTY Clerk Edward J. Barrett has recommended this redistricting to the County Board, which in July will vote on the final map.

Leaders of the Republican and Democratic township organizations said they were favorably impressed by the plan and could find no serious fault with it

There seemed to be few political implications in the redistricting And neither party claimed any advantage after an initial glance at the plan.

THOUGH THE redistricting is firm, the actual and final lines of demarcation in dividing large districts into smaller ones remains tentative. And it is possible that boundaries the County Board finally approves may be slightly different.

State Rep. Eugene F. Schlickman (R-Arlington Heights), who is the Regular Republican committeeman for the township, received a copy of the plan from Barrett's office this week, as did his Democratic counterpart in the township, James F. McCabe.

"There may be some slight adjustments in the dividing lines," Schlickman said. "But my first impression after glancing at the map was one of satisfaction.

"I THINK THAT Barrett has done an objective job of selecting precints for division. The first thing that I did when I got the list was go to the registration figures. And after I did this, I was satisfied."

McCabe seemed to be of a similar turn of mind. "Though the map still has to be studied, I have no great objection to it," he said.

He added that the map was no great surprise to him. "One precinct had 1,546 voters, and it was obvious that it had to be redistricted into three parts."

BEYOND THE FACT that more precincts means five more election judges per precinct and faster voting service, Schlickman said the redistricting is just another indication of the vast population growth the area has been experiencing.

He said the township population now stands at about 125,000, a 200 per cent increase since 1956, when he first came to live in Arlington Heights.

"In recent years," he said, "we have had a net increase of 3,000 and 4,000 people annually. And this rate will continue if not accelerate."

HERE IS A LISTING of the precincts that are to be redistricted and the number of registered voters they now contain:

Precinct 11 at Kensington Rd. and Wolf Rd.—825

Precinct 12 at Willow Rd. and Lee St.—932

Precinct 14 at Arlington ngton Heights Rd. and Fairview St.—802

Precinct 48 at Cambridge Rd. and Dundee Rd.—811

Precinct 54 at Hemlock St.

Blaze Damages Apartment

Fire caused minor damage early today to the hallway of an apartment building in an unincorporated area between Prospect Heights and Wheeling

The blaze began on the third floor in a building in the Lamplighter apartment complex, 1417 Wolf Rd

Wheeling Fire Chief Bernhardt Koeppen said the fire's origin was traced to a pile of papers near a garbage chute.

That blaze was reported by a resident who was awakened by the smell of smoke. The building, according to the chief, was not evacuated, though several residents awakened and watched the firefighters in action.

Koeppen said his department alerted Prospect Heights firemen to stand by to assist if the flames spread, but his department quickly brought the flames under control.

"Ah, look at all the lonely people," a passage from the Beatles' song "Eleanor Rigby," is interpreted by Barbara Michels, 796 Love, Elk Grove Village, during dress rehearsal for the Elk Grove High School Orchesis production "In the Would Land of Weir." Hearing Urged For 2 Dismissed College Teachers

By Ruth Schulman

An attorney for Dr. Betty J. Enbysk and Edward Kalish read a letter at the Harper Board meeting last night, requesting that the board grant a public hearing to the two dismissed teachers.

The letter said that the firing of the two teachers constituted a violation of Federal and state laws and of the Constitution. Attorneys Ellis Rozenzweig and Richard L. Wexler, representing the two teachers, requested a public hearing and full disclosure of the reasons for the dual firings. They asked that the board reply within two weeks.

THE LETTER said in part, "The Federal Courts have repeatedly held that teachers are entitled to protection by the Civil Rights Act of 1871 against summary dismissal for invidious, improper and unstated reasons.

"To obviate the necessity for review of school board matters by the Federal Courts most boards have granted hearing to probationary faculty when requested, even though not required to do so under the statutes."

In the same vein was a statement made to the board by Mrs. Brenda Swanson of Palatine, a student in Dr. Enbysk's geology class and Kalish's "Americal Government" class.

MRS. SWANSON said, "The only authority on which I base my statement is as a member of the community and a contributor to the college. I feel the two instructors deserve better treatment.

"They were here for the creation of this college district, and therefore, participated in the molding of its ideals.

"As a result of these occurrences, the school might develop a slow deterioration due to apathy or lack of confidence on the part of students, other instructors or the community as a whole

"I realize I have no qualification or authority to comment on the fact of their non-retention but I do feel that every person is entitled to a reason why they are not rehired."

IN OTHER business at last night's meeting, Harper President Dr. Robert Lahti announced the selection of a director of planning and development, John Adams Lucas. The board approved his hiring for a 12-month period.

Donald N. Andries of Deerfield was appointed as the head of the new division of Community Relations. His year's contract will begin April 8. He formerly directed the Barat College public relations program.

The following teaching facility appointments were approved by the board: Angela Jeanne D'Aversa, political science instructor; Charles Edward Norris, anthropology-sociology; Donald Robert Holland, marketing-management instructor; Janet Gail Liptrap, co-ordinator of Secretarial Science; James R. Sturdevant, assistant professor of English; and Richard M. Bernsteing, assistant professor, electrical engineering and physics.

Park Board Lets Contracts, Curtails Plans

By Gary Shiffman

Cutbacks on buildings and equipment were made last night when the Arlington Heights Park Board awarded contracts for development of nine parks and construction of a swimming pool.

Cancelled by the board were plans to install lighting for one baseball and two soft ball diamonds at Recreation Park. Also eliminated were plans for buildings at three of six new parks.

The new parks for which construction contracts were awarded were:

Frontier Park, Palatine Rd. and Kennicott.

Heritage Park, Fernandez and Victoria.

Camelot Park, Brighton Pl. and Suffield Dr.

Carefree Park, Belmont and Douglas.

Raven Park, Highland and Berkley Dr.

Patriot Park, Dale and Palation Rd.

Contracts were also awarded for improvments at three existing parks. The board also agreed to the construction of a swimming pool on Ridge across from Arlington High School.

Eliminated in the cutback will be a maintenance building at Frontier Park and shelter buildings at Evergreen and Carefree Parks.

"Money," said Park Director Thomas Thornton, "was the reason for the cutbacks." The board, in the next 30 days, may make still more changes in improvment plans, but the cost of the projects is expected to remain the same.

Thornton said plans call for the cost of construction of buildings and pools to be $2,273,985 and the cost of development of the sites to be $438,467.

Plans for the improvments were made last spring and a referendum providing funds was passed last July.

Train Platform Extension Report Premature, Say Palmatier, Hanlon

A report that the Chicago & North Western Railway would extend its Arlington Heights station platform 60 feet to the west within two weeks may have been premature, according to Francois Palmatier, caucus candidate for trustee, and Jean Hanlon, independent candidate for trustee.

"The citizens of Arlington Heights have been misled," Mrs Hanlon said.

"BECAUSE OF THE number of requests and specifically Palmatier's, the department of passenger services has agreed in principal to extend the present center platform by 60 feet," she said

Palmatier said that March 17 he wrote the railroad regarding a morning train, which on that date blocked southbound traffic on Arlington Heights Rd. for 35 minutes

"Last Friday I received a reply dated March 19 from Mr. Larry S. Provo, president of the railroad. He said that instructions had been issued to train crews so that all westbound trains would clear the Arlington Heights Rd. crossing gate," Palmatier said

PROVO WROTE, "I shall have the director of commuter and passenger services, Mr. H. A Lenske, confer immediately with our operating superintendent to see what can and should be done to minimize the down-time on gates involving trains traveling in both directions.

"He will then meet with you to discuss the steps that we can take to improve the situation, including the possible extension of the center track platform between Dunton and Vail Avenues."

Palmatier said that he has not heard from the railroad since then.

"I will call them tomorrow and ask if they intend to extend the station platform 60 feet to the west," he said last night.

LAST THURSDAY, March 20, the 5:30 p.m. train from Chicago which arrives in Arlington Heights at 6:09 p.m., stopped one car-length further west and the conductor said that this was done because they wanted to clear Arlington Heights Rd., Palmatier said.

"This still wasn't far enough to make the gates at Arlington Heights Rd. go up The train would have had to pull another 25 feet farther west to make the gates rise," he said.

According to Mrs. Hanlon, the railroad has a 100-foot Arlington Heights platform extension in its 1970 budget.

"I TALKED TO a Mr. Copeland with the railroad and he said that they agreed in principle to extend the platform 60 feet by placing gravel on the roadbed to raise it to the same level as the tracks," she said.

"He told me that it is possi-

Congreve Urges Sewer Limit

A policy to limit the amount of use Mount Prospect, Arlington Heights, Des Plaines and other municipalities can get from their common interceptor sewer was suggested this week by, Mount Prospect Mayor Daniel Congreve.

Metropolitan Sanitary District Supt. Vinton Bacon took the suggestion under advisement, but said he is afraid there might by legal implications which may prevent the suggestion from being implemented.

CONGREVE suggested that the interceptor, which gathers sewage from the sewer systems of each community and carries it to a treatment plant, be restricted in stages, so that in effect the farther away from the plant--or upstream--the smaller the inside of the interceptor would be.

A major factor of Mount Prospect's problems with sewer back-ups and flooding is the fact that during storms the interceptor is already full when it enters the village from Arlington Heights, Congreve said

It is for this reason that Mount Prospect is beginning to build lift stations to force its sewage into the interceptor making it surge forward faster into Des Plaines.

Congreve proposed that each town be permitted to introduce half again as much into the interceptor during storms as each would normally introduce during dry weather

IF THIS WERE done, Congreve believes it would force each municipality to be more attentive to the illegal connections of storm sewers to sanitary sewers, which floods the sanitary sewer interceptor with storm water.

As he sees it, the MSD can either adopt this policy or else build an new interceptor.

Clerk Candidate Pledges Election Reform Support

Legal reforms to simplify voting registration and voting procedures have been promised by Betty J. Revard. Town Caucus Party candidate for village clerk.

"I am concerned by the small turnout of only 15 per cent of the registered voters in the last village election," she said.

"I have met with Rep. Eugenia Chapman (D--Arlington Heights) and Eugene Schlickman (R — Arlington Heights) and am confident of an effective working relationship," she said.

One of the pending bills which Mrs. Revard said she would support is House Bill 781, which would permit village registration almost the year-round.

"It is this way at the county clerk's office and I feel that it would encourage greater registration and avoid frustrating peak load delays at the village clerk's office," she said.

"THIS BILL also would increase voting hours to 7 p.m. enabling commuters, who are disenfranchised by the 6 p.m. poll closing time, to vote," she said.

Other bills she has pledged to support are House Bill 57 and Senate Bill 54 which would permit newsmen to observe at polling places.

"These bills would serve a dual purpose of creating more interest and providing impartial observation and reporting of the handling of elections," she said.

Mrs. Revard criticized her opponent, independent candidate Jeanne Novotny, for publicly claiming credit for tha idea of paying election judges $5 as an incentive to show up for the one day training session.

The election laws were amended in 1967 to provide that "all judges who have been certified by the County Clerk...as having satisfactorily Completed, with...2 years ...the training course...shall receive additional compensation of $5 per day," according to Mrs. Revard.

Mrs. Novotny said that the section of the law quoted by Mrs. Revard does not apply to Arlington Heights.

"It applies only to judges appointed by the county clerk or by a board of election commissioners," she said. "Here the judges are appointed by the board of trustees after I prepare a list.

"What I have done, in affect, is give the judges who come an extra $5,"

She said, however, that appointment of judges should be taken out of the trustees' hands.

"I would favor some form of a board of election commissioners for each municipality of, say more than 50,000 population," she said.

She said that about 5,500 residents who are of voting age are not registered and that this number can be reduced by recruiting residents through publicity, working with civic groups and personal follow-ups.

"I PLEDGE, if elected, to hold extra office hours for commuter convenience in registering," she said.

"Because the Cook County Clark has authority to deputize additonal registrars and to designate temporary locations for registrations, maybe we can put his authority to work for the villagers of Arlington Heights," she said. "I certainly would explore all possible angles to facilitate registering and voting."

Another concern to Mrs. Revard is the difficulty of finding and reading legal notices.

"Within the limits of the law, I certainly would try to make legal notices more readable and findable," she said.

"Topical captions would help readers identify notices of special interest so they would not have to read all the fine print to find out what it's all about."

She said that she would speed up the recording of zoning plats so that up-to-date information always would be available to the engineering staff.

Mrs. Novotny said that this no longer is a problem.

"The recording used to be handled by the village attorney," she said, "but he was very busy with other things. So, since last October, one of the girls from this office has been taking the plats downtown to the county clerk's office to hava them recorded."

Law Urged Limiting Above-Ground Pools

An ordinance regulating above-ground swimming pools was recommended last night for consideration by the Village Board April 21.

A village board three-member Public Safety Committee, headed by Trustee Roy Bressler, will draft the new ordinance.

Village Atty. Jack Siegel drafted an ordinance March 3 which combined regulations for above-ground and below-ground pools.

Portable backyard pools, if more than two feet deep, are prohibited by the existing ordinance, but could be allowed if they complied with certain health and safety requirements.

Harold Best, village building commissioner, said that motors and drop cords are electrical hazards in above-ground pools that should be corrected. He also cited the need for spelling out what is adequate re-circulation of water.

Last night the commission discussed the regulation pertaining to diving boards for above-ground pools, fences, re-circulation and electrical hazards.

Cynthia Evelyn Kirchner, 21 days old, of 1020 S. Evergreen, Arlington Heights, died Wednesday at Northwest Community Hospital.

She is survived by her parents, Ronald and Judith: and grandparents, Godfred and Evelyn Bulow of Pell Lake, Wis., and Mrs. Phyllis Kirchner of Arlingtoo Heights.

Services were scheduled at 1 p.m. today in Lauterburg & Oehler Funeral Home, 2000 E. Nnrthwest Hwy., Arlington Heights. Burial was to be in Windridge Cemetery, Cary, Ill.

Mrs. Marjorie Annen Carter of Arlington Heights, dean of Wheeling Township officers who is unopposed in her bid for a third term in Tuesday's election, axplains to Marshall Theroux, Republican candidate for Wheeling Township assessor, how her office has earned more than $1 million in commissions since 1963.

Tax Collector's Surplus Aids Wheeling Township Schools

By Richard Crabb

Mrs. Marjoria Annan Carter, daan of Wheeling Township officials who is unopposed in her bid for a third term as township tax collector, told The Day yesterday that commissions earned by her office since 1963 have enabled the township to meet all of its expenses and distribute to the elementary schools in Wheeling Township more than $1,000,000.

Mrs. Carter, an authority on township government is permitted under state law to retain for the township 2 per cent of all Wheeling Township real estate and personal property taxes paid in her office rather than being paid to the Cook County treasurer in the county building in Chicago's Loop. This past year Mrs. Carter collected more than 90 percent of all real estata and personal property taxes paid by Whaaling Township citizens.

TOWNSHIP SURPLUS funds can only be paid out after approval of township residents at the annuaj or special town meeting. This year's town meeting is to be held at 8 p.m. Tuesday, April 1 in Minar Junior High School on East Miner St. in Arlington Heights.

At this meeting, residents are expacted to authorize distribution of $350,000 in surplus funds, most of which is likely to be given to the public elementary schools.

Mrs. Carter said "If Illinois had not selected the township form of government, Wheeling Township would not have the opportunity to go to the polls Tuesday and select their own officials, or to attend the annual Town Meeting at Minar Junior High School that evening and have the opportunity to determine exactly how township surplus funds are to be handled.

"What is more," she said, "their tax bill probabiy would be higher.

"WITHOUT TOWNSHIP governmant, tha county's policies would prevail. Home rule and local contact would be out the window. Cook County is enormous, so big that if it were a state it would be bigger in population than the rest of Illinois and the 8th largest state of the Union.

"At a time when avery item in the cost of living is going up," said Mrs. Carter, "Constantly increased savings to the taxpayers of Wheeling Township heve been made since 1963. The tax year of 1941 brought the first axcess of commissions over expenses, just $32.75. Since that time, a total of $2,282,265. has been earned by the township in commissions in excess of costs of collection.

This is why no taxes are levied to operate Wheeling Township offices, and "as a matter of fact," said Mrs. Carter, "the increasing earnings, plus economies of operation, add up to an annual surplus in tha township treasury.

Elementary school districts, mental health agencies, senior citizens aod youth groups, historical and museum agencies are all supported in some part from these surpluses.

"AND BECAUSE taxes collected in my office are distributed promptly and directly," said Mrs. Carter, "all taxing bodies get their funds faster. The costly wait for the wheels of the County to grind out chacks is eliminated.

"The need to borrow funds by tax anticipation warrants is reduced. Interest costs to the taxpayer are therefore minimized.

"The Collector's office also mails all raal estata and personal property tax bills. Currently some 50,000 such bills are handled each year," she said.

Mrs. Carter has prevented penalty for late payments for many residents of new subdivisions who might otherwise not have received their bills on time. She advises residents of the valuation and tax when their tax bill goes directly to a mortgage holder. She accepts lata tax payments at her local office and delivers them to the County Building in Chicago to save residents a trip.

"But my assessment is too high!" is a common complaint. Marshall Theroux, candidate for Assessor says, "I can help." Theroux, a resident of the area since 1950 and father of two sons in college, said that although it is the county which actually assesses real eastate, he will, if elected, next Tuesday, "Help get thet bill in line."

AS THEROUX sees it, "The basic issue Whealing Township voters will decide when they select their assessor April 1st is how best to assure fairness of assessments."

"To support the just complaints of local taxpayers and to intercede for them at the county office" said Theroux, "is one part of my policy of absolute fairness. After all, a citizen should not heve to spend time being shuffled from office to bureau to office in the county building when he has an elected township assessor perfectly willing to take care of the matter for him."

Equally important to Wheeliog Township residents, Theroux said, "is that my election offers protection in the highest tradition of the two party system. A Repubiican township assessor provides an essential check and balance to the Democrat county assessor's office."

Platform

ble to blacktop the gravel this year if they do install the extension," she said.

Mrs. Hanlon said that the entira project depends oo available cash and on approval from the North Western Railway engineering department.

"THE ENGINEER responsible for this section of track is stationad in Milwaukee and as of Thursday (March 27) the department of passenger services in Chicago had not received any response from the Milwaukee engineer," she said.

She said that H. A. Lenske, director of passenger services, told her the extension could be started about two weeks after approval was given by the engineering department.

Both candidates agreed that an extension would be only a temporary solution.

PALMATIER SAID, "The village engineering department was told three or four months ago that the railroad would increase train lengths to 14 cars as the demand for seats justified it."

"I checked and the downtown terminal has two platforms that are long enough for 14-car trains," he said.

The length of a standard railroad car is 85 feet, said Mrs. Hanlon.

"THIS IS 25 feet more than the 60-foot gravel extension and if two cars are added to the present 11-car trains, then the old problem would still be with us," she said.

Learn To Say No: Sister Gabriel

BY FRANCES ALTMAN

When we think of women in relation to our community, we think of them as mothers, nurses, chauffeurs, teachers, counsalors, grandmothers, seamstresses, cooks. The list is endless and yet none adequately describes woman's primary role, that of being just herself.

This in essence was the topic probed by Sister Gabriel in her second annual Lenten talk befora tha Women's Association of Southminister United Presbyterian Church.

"What is woman's role in the community?" Sistar Gabriel asked many times. And in quiet, thought-provoking responses she challenged the 100 or so ladies to take critical and conscience inventory of themselves, to free themselves from the fears and commerical conformities which previal in our society today.

"WE HAVE not been educated to be humanly conscientious," she said. "When we allow ourselves to stop running; when we explode what is insida of us; when we allow ourselves just to be ourselves, then we are playing our primary role as women!"

Sister Gabriel acknowledged that her own theories and ideas on acceptance have been greatly inspired by Dr. Donald J. Tyrell, practicing clinical psychologist in Arlington Heights, whose new book on the subject, "When Love Is Lost" is soon to be published.

But ragardless of whose theories they may be, to most women this is dreaming the impossible dream. A dream that requires a strength and willingness to face the consequences such honesty would bring.

AS EASTER approaches, Sister Gabriel reminded that "this is a time to think and wonder." On either hand there are women in the marketplace, competing in virtually every field with men. And if they are not competing, they are picketing for the right to competa. But is this really equality! Are these external efforts going to satisfy?

"Go back into history," urged the smartly tweed-dressed Sister, who entered into the religious order of Sacred Heart of Mary in 1953 and now heads the Religion Department of Sacred Heart of Mary High School in Rolling Meadows.

"There you will see that the home was the heart of a woman's world. Husband and wife ware a unit meshed together. The woman's role was bent upon preservation, appropriation and conservation. She took pride in taking tha fruits of her husband's labors and spinning them into yarn or canning or making candles.

"But little by little woman has baen relegated to an unimportant role. What we call conveniences has in actuality deteriorated the family unit.

"WE SEE the slogans daily, 'Take Mom out of the kitchen!' 'Less work for Mother.' We are only pills away from setting a perfect meal on the table," concludes Sister Gabriel. In rationalizing a woman's many frustrations, she said, "Today's woman is trying to replace the male through competition but really she is reacting for survival.

"Woman's foremost responsibility should be to get tuned in on herself, learn whet motivates her. Ask herself a simple question or two. Who am I? What's it all about?"

In such a megalopolis community women take on too many responsibilities, family, church, school, garden club, hospital auxiliary. Responsibility, she explained, is simply the "ability to respond."

AND RESPOND we do! Exuberantly! So much so that we arrive home not alive but exhausted. We are dead on our feet when we should be alive and vibrant.

"When the keynote of our lives is not joy," warned Sister Gabriel, "somathing is wrong!"

People watching, sha ravealad, is one of the fascinating ways she uses to find people who hava a real sense of presence. Only a few will ever evoke a certain serenity, sense of presence or inner confidence.

Humorously she reminded, "Wa are never asked, who are you? Instead we tell how many children wa have, what our husband does, how many cars we own. We explain all of our functions but we never tell anything about our real, under the surface selves.

IN OUR society wa tend to look only at the good. We try to hide, forget or not admit our worst. We describe people by their virtues or their vices. We all feel accepted as long as wa perform. When we stop parforming wa have our moments of greatest despair. Thus, we accept performance and not the person. In this we have errored!"

With a slap at Madison Avenue, Sister Gabriel blamed them for their share in convincing us that if wa are to big, we need to diet; too small, build ourselves up; too plain, us cosmetics.

"WE CANNOT face ourselves, our weaknesses, our dishonesty!"

Briefly she touched upon the two no-nos in our modern society: tha oppression of violent expression and any type of sexual questioning. The former, she viewed as the more incedious way of making people feel unaccepted. "So many of our deepest convictions are not permitted to surface. There is so much in our lives that is closed."

We may laugh at the bad breath commercials, she reminded, but very few of us in actuality could say such a thing to a friend. Instead we would bite our tongue and go bake a pie or wash windows.

"We cannot escape the fact that we live in an era of personalism, built on sells and Pepsodent smiles." In a sense we all employ sensitivity training to get around the hangups in life. We avoid being "tactless" by lying.

SISTER Gabriel described our way of life as "living in a filtered reality." Before the Gutenberg press, people learned by doing. Now we can become experts in any field and yet never experience it in raality. These audio-visual type experiences, she believes to be one of the reasons for the unrest in the youth of today. "They want throbbing reality!"

Instead of giving them reality, we build up a great pressure cookar of self-denial. We will not allow our children to experience failure.

Women here we stand, bedragled, downtrodden, tired. Still we are expected to "put our best foot forward." And instead of having the strength to say "no," we respond positively because this is what is expected. This is conformity!

"April Splendor," a champagne brunch on April 20 at Park Ridge Country Club will benefit several hundred children served by the Illinois Children's Home and Aid Society.

Stop Calling Your Kids Names

BY GERRY WALSH

No doubt you have called many people names that are unprintable in this paper. Most peopla when they are angry call someone a name occasionally. It is a universal practice, and it is accepted by mature adults as a part of life.

However, these epithets do not affect an adult's personality development, much as they may dislike you for your opinion of what they are.

Many well intentioned parents, who would never call a neighbor "names," much as they would like too, never give a second thought to name calling when it comes to their own children. Perhaps they do not know that if you call a child a name enough times he will become that.

FOR EXAMPLE: Johnny spills a glass of milk--and what child doesn't?--and his parents respond with, "You're clumsy," or "You're stupid." If this name calling is repeated MANY times, Johnny will really believe that he is clumsy and stupid. You, his parents, have stated the fact over and over again and you are his god.

If we tell him, "You're a born slob," he will soon give up any attempt to be neat. Do you say, "You are so dumb," "your are so irresponsible," or "you are a total loss at math?"

Many parents say this kind of thing all the time and never think that it is more destructive and harmful to their child than spanking or slapping.

ONE OF the worst things that can happen to a child is to hava a parent or a teacher who is sarcastic say, "You think you are really big stuff, don't you?" Too bad we aren't all so brilliant!"

What response can a poor kid maka to that statement? He cannot answer in words--but he does make a response. He grows sullen, resentful and hostile. In words of one syllable--HE HATES YOU!

Besides name calling, good parents are often guilty of extreme rudeness. "Shut up," is heard in doctors reception rooms, department stores and on the street every day of the week. Sura you feel like saying, "Shut up," but if you can control yourself and not say it to your overtalkative bridge partner, you can refrain from screaming it at your vulnerable child. He may be afraid to scream it back at you, you are bigger and atronger, but he will learn from your example to scream at SOMEONE.

YOU WON'T suffer, get fired, or dropped from the club if you shout names and cutting phrases at a small child. You will just be a loser in that very important parent-child relationship. After years of this persecution you will be crying, "What did I do wrong!"

We are all told to "Give your child more love." That means a great many things, some are easy, some are very difficult. It also means many "Thou shalt nots," and a very important one is: Thou shalt not call a child bad names.

Do not deny your feelings, a young child is happier around parents who are able to express their real feelings. But, he is a lifetime loser if he has parents who are name-callers.

For the lucky ladies of the Misericordia Auxiliary, spring arrived this year on March 10 when the famous designer, Chester Weinberg, previewed his new spring collection for the group at a press luncheon at Maxim's. It was just a peek, however, of what Mr. Weinberg will be showing at the annual Misericordia fashion show, April 16, at the Conrad Hilton. Mrs. Donald W. Stribley, Arlington Heights, president of the auxiliary, gives her approval to an announcement poster.

Splendor for Children

"April Splendor" is the theme announced by the North Suburban Auxiliary of the Illinois Children's Home and Aid Society for their April 20 benefit champagne brunch at the Park Ridge Country Club. All proceeds will benefit the society which has been in existence since 1883, is non-sectarian and inter-racial, and accepts children of all races, nationalities and creeds.

During 1968 services have included tha placement in permanent homes of 322 babies, 287 youngsters given regular counseling under the foster cara progrm, 538 unmarried parents were counseled, 15,000 interviews with professional social workers and 3,600 hours of psychotherapy by the Society's therapists and psychiatrists.

They also rendered 40,260 client-days of care for children in foster homes and 12,060 client-days of care in residential treatment programs for children.

Art League Framed

The April meeting of the Mount Prospect Art League will feature a demonstration in framing by Peggy Kuehnle, a talented artist who was graduated from the University of Arizona. Miss Kuehnle is associated with Clausen's Frame Co. of Winnetka, a business serving the North Shore for 25 years.

The meeting will be held at 8 p.m. Tuesday, April 1 at the Mount Prospect Community Center, 600 S. See Gwun.

ART LEAGUE members exhibiting for the month of April are: Virginia Smith, Northwest Medical Center; Beverly Galandak, Mount Prospect Oral Surgeons; Denis and Janine Daniels, Mount Prospact Library; Carol Krzyzak, Arlington Realty; Betty Bieg, Wellborn Shoes; Crystl Hansen, Mount Prospect State Bank; Birdell Wendt, Mae Belle De Moch's Beauty Salon; Fran Boeck, Mount Prospect Hardware, and Mary Bydlon, Louie's Barber Shop.

Just Sew-Sew

By Eleanor

Belts - the "new look" of fashion this year is the belted suit, dress and coat. If we had kept some of our clothes from eight or ten years ago, we'd be in business!

It is not always possible to purchase a leather belt to match fabric, making it necessary and certainly more striking to make a self-belt of the same fabric as the garment.

There are several methods to accomplish the task of making a belt. Here is one of them:

CUT A PIECE OF fabric 1¼ inches wider than the desired width of the belt and one inch longer, preferably on the lengthwise of the material. Remember to allow enough length of fabric to travel through the buckle with a small tab remaining. Fold and stitch lengthwise, right sides together, with a ⅝ inch seam. Trim seam to ¼ inch.

BEFORE TURNING THE belt, fold so that the seam is in the center of one side. Now stitch one end in the shape of a vee at the end, with the point of the vee at the edge of the fabric. You are ready to turn the belt by using the blunt end of a pencil or knitting needle. After the belt is turned, cut a vee at one end of the belting identical to the one you just finished stitching.

Now insert the belting, which is a little tricky. You may have to fold it slightly so that it will slide into the belt. For added detail, you may top stitch through all thicknesses; however, this is not necessary.

AT THE TAB END, take hammer and large nail, or use a paper punch, and cut three holes approximately one inch apart. If your machine has a zig-zag stitch, buttonhole stitch these three holes, allowing the needle to enter as close to the hole as possible, laying the belt flat on the machine and turning it as you work the buttonhole . . . similar to embroidery.

If your machine does not have the zig-zag, it will be necessary to work a hand embroidered buttonhole. Apply the buckle at the other end of the belt.

ANOTHER METHOD, BUT much more difficult, is to cut your fabric only ⅞ inch wider than the belting. Turn and press less than ½ inch on each side of the belt. Lay the belting in the center, bringing the ½ inch to the other side, and stitch through all thicknesses, making sure your stitch remains the same distance from the edge. If the material frays, you may want to turn in the edges, thus requiring that you add this to the width when cutting. All other hints apply for tab and buttonholes.

Arlington Musicians Score In State Contest

By Marianne Brown

Round Lake High School hosted the state music contest last Friday. Over 1,000 students participated from the northern part of the state.

Both the vocal and instrumental departments from Arlington took part.

The vocal department, under the direction of Jerome Pugsley and Boyd White of the music department, won 19 superior ratings and seven excellent awards.

Vocal entries included two each of madrigal, mixed single and double, girl's single, girls' double, and boy's single selections One boys' double was also entered.

THE FOLLOWING students took a superior, which is worth 90-100 points in scoring:

Awards for solos went to juniors Ann Franzese, girl's Medium voice Rex P rvin, boy's medium voice, and Donne Wadsworth, girl's medium voice.

Seniors receiving awards included Steve Latta, boy's high voice; Lisby Peek, girl's high voice, and Robin Seiler, girl's high voice. Two sophomores also got superior ratings. They were Mike Ford, boys' high voice, and Sue Palmatier, girls medium voice.

SUPERIOR ratings for ensembles entered in the contest went to the girls double ensemble which included juniors Rosalie Keller, Karen Kirkland, Gail Sauers, Leslie Deehring, Jody Culberson, and seniors Karen McReynolds and Pat Hruby.

Another girls double ensemble also won a superior rating. The ensemble included juniors Nancy Vanek, Eve Lacker and Sandy Vogeler, and sophomores, Pam Hodges, Barbara Hudec, and Nancy Bauler.

Two girls single ensembles also took superior ratings. Sophomores Linda Schoepke, Sue Palmatier and Cathy Cushing made up the first ensemble and the second was the Harmonettes, an all girls singing group at AHS. Members of the group who participated were seniors Lisby Peek, Lisby Peek, Sandy Hilton, G nny Hewley, Karen Markstorm, Lynn Kirchhoff, and Anne Zonsius.

CHORALIERS, another vocal group, won a superior rating.

Two vocal duets, consisting of senior Robin Seiler and junior Ruth Nelinger, and senior Bruce Harmon and junior Ann Franzese, all took superior ratings.

Three individual students took excellent ratings at the contest. An excellent rating is worth 80-89 points in scoring.

Juniors Dan Renz, boys low voice; Darrell Rowader, boys medium voice, and Gail Sauers, girls medium voice, all won excellent ratings. Arlington's mixed double ensemble, the boys single and double ensembles, and the remaining madrigal also placed with excellent ratings.

Arlington won the solo and ensemble competition last year with a total of 76 points.

AHS'S INSTRUMENTAL department entries included a trio and duet. Senior Betty White, junior Debbie Whiting and freshman Charles Stegman performed violin solos.

The Arlington band also took part in the contest at Round Lake. Several solos and an ensemble were entered. Senior Charles Schlaufman and sophomore Russ Daughtry performed on the tuba. Freshman Dave Zonzius, and junior Alice Stigger played the French horn. Oboe solos were presented by junior Barb Auge and Barb Heile, and junior Kim Sheviak played the clarinet.

Flute solos were given by freshman Sue Cranci, sophomore Maili Powell, and junior Betty Adams. Junior Tom Frisbie competed with an alto coronet solo, and senior Glenn Pierre on the alto sax.

FOR THE first time, opera came to Arlington when the Girls' Glee Club presented a program entitled "Opus Operatic" Monday, March 17.

The program was presented in the school's Bristol Theater and termed as a musical experiment. The concert was entirely presented in English with the background material narrated by Jerome Pugsley of the music department.

THE AHS music department also recently announced the selections of the annual musical and the cast for the production. It will be presented Friday and Saturday, April 25-26 in the Grace gym. The musical will be "Finian's Rainbow."

Senior Lisby Peek will play the female lead of Sharon. Junior Rex Parvin will play Woody, the male lead, and Dick Rausch, junior, will play Finian.

The music department also initiated 25 new members into Tri-M (Modern Music Masters) Feb. 27. The initiation took place in Bristol Theater. Several new members performed for the club at the initiation.

New senior members include Debby Brown, Bruce Harmon, and Bill Stelling. Juniors initiated were Rex Parvin, Gail Sauers and Paul Thompson.

NEW SOPHOMORE members include Karen Ahnquist, Bruce Carlsen, Russ Daughtry, Kurt Frantz, Pam Hodges, Barbara Hudec, Sue R. Johnson, Debby Leydig, Ellen Olson, Sue Palmatier and Diane Reider Additional members are Kris Rongner, Linda Schoepke, Mel Smith, Sandy Vogeler, Steve Wehmann, Linda Wastphal, Barb Heile and Maili Powell.

The students had to take a written test and perform a musical number. Applicants were rated by their teachers for the qualities of leadership, scholarship and character.

Day by Day

The Lighter Side

By Catherine O'Donnell

It is too bad for anyone to have missed attending a meeting of candidates for the various elective posts. Right now, with Tuesday just four days away the tension is mounting.

Candidates are tired of talking and talking sounds like a broken record. There are those who have not changed a line of their presentation since the campaigning began.

THERE ARE THOSE in the audiences who haven't missed a single meeting. There are candidates who compare lines of newsprint in inches to see who's leading.

There are optimists, pessimists, quarterbacks, second-guessers, advisers in the background. Behind every candidate are hundreds of cheerleaders.

One of the oldest gimmicks in a political campaign is the planted question. The planted question is one asked by a friend to bring out the candidate's Strong point.

OR IT CAN be asked to bring out an opponent's worst point or to start an argument to liven up a dull evening of talk, talk, talk. It's a fascinating period in the life of a community.

It's a time when the hopefuls get new friends and watch old friends cross over It's a great time to discover that no matter how serious the situation there are many humorous and even comic happenings that will need retrospect to be appreciated.

The following anecdotes had the audiences laughing.

ONE OF THE TOP laughgetters has been candidate Charles Zeller, who has either a keen sense of humor or a real penchant for fun. At the end of the speech-making at Ivy Lane last week, questions from the audience were on the agenda.

"I would like to ask this question of the two candidates for president," a man rose from his seat to say, "If--"

At that second, Zeller walked out of the room.

The man had a second chance during the meeting, sponsored by the League of Women Voters, a dedicated group which allowed only written questions.

At one time during the campaign, Zeller had listed the groups and organizations that he'd been in as part of his background resume.

The written question asked, "With all of the organizations that you belong to, how do you expect to find time to be the mayor (president)?" Back came the reply, "I resigned them all yesterday."

JACK WALSH is a serious speaker. His talks are excellent.

He is an accomplished speaker. He shows little levity but occasionally he breaks up.

At the same meeting of the League of Women Voters, he was asked a question that sounded something like this. "Do you think that women have held enough appointed positions in this village?"

He looked at the audience, comprised chiefly of the women League members. He looked at the ceiling, looked at the women watching and gave a one-word answer, "No."

Another question asked, "Would you care to comment on the comment made by etc.,"

Walsh's answer came slowly as if he were thinking deeply, "My comment on the comment is--no comment."

BILL GRIFFIN, who has been espousing the cause of youth as a former Boy Scout professional, drew a big laugh at the same meeting when the written question was read, "If you are so interested in the young people, how come some of them are out after curfew distributing caucus literature?"

His genuinely surprised look was followed with, "I didn't know."

Another answer born of surprise came after the same meeting from Tom McShane who is heading in the direction of the Park Board.

"If you have any trouble passing out your literature," offered a good soul, "let me know." Startled, McShane came back with a swiftly, "Trouble? I've got seven kids."

AND THERE is Barbara Vidmar, who follows a thought through with the vaunted dedication of an FBI agent. She is armed with positive facts and figures and smiles as she tosses bombs into the gathering of voters.

"I do not want anyone to think I am politicking," said incumbent Charles Bennett who is not running for office, as he passed out sheets of mimeographed figures to the audience at the Stonegate Association meeting.

The figures were designed to discount Mrs. Vidmar's plea for village-owned ambulances. "Your first figure is incorrect, Mr. Bennett," she announced quickly.

Bennett then started to relate Arlington Heights had three sources to draw on for ambulances, "There's Haire, Lauterburg-Ohler and A. C. at Golf and Rand," he said.

"That last was closed a year and a half ago, Mr. Bennett," she shot back.

At the League meeting during Barbara's talk, which was composed of questions, she asked, "Would the railroad build a platform and open Arlington Heights road for you if you had to wait for 35 minutes as they did for Mr. Palmatier?" Even Francois Palmatier who is seeking reelection laughed at that one.

VILLAGE TRUSTEE Roy Bressler, who said that his try to office this time is so that he can "step up to the Park Board," was deploring the duplication of activities in the schools and the parks. He niftied this one, "We've got to decide which will recreate or educate."

The greatest laugh so far has come from Nat Leighton's preview of possible things to come if he is elected to the Park Board. "We could have a dog contest," he tells the audience tongue-in-cheek, "in which the winner would be the dog that looks the most like John Woods, Jack Walsh or even Nat Leighton."

You see, there is a lighter side. The other candidates who have had their moments and who will be anxiously polling the watchers who are watching the polls on Tuesday are Jeanne Novotny, Betty Revard, Dwight Walton, and Jeanne Hanlon.

And in the township, there's Herman Koeneman who has taken on the formidable Republican slate, in the only opposition. His target is Marshall Theroux.

Things to Enjoy

By Barbara Smart

BY BARBARA SMART

Do you know there are about 34 organizations in this young town for men, women and children to develop physcially, mentally, spiritually, in service to others, in personality and talent, and just to enjoy? Many are electing new officers about now.

The village board probably offers its members several of the advantages mentioned and, oh, what a hubbub there is in certain quarters about the approaching election--what factions fighting within themselves, and what dark prophesies if one or another is elected!

Personally, I've always very much enjoyed the candidate forums. This year's will be held at the Emmerich Park Municipal Building, as before, at 8 p.m. Monday, March 31.

I expect some of the speeches to be amusing and some of the debate with other candidates and the audience pretty heated.

The lady and gentlemen you may expect to see put their cases before you are Beverly Warner, Neil Hopkins, Gary Armstrong, Ed Fabish and John Lenahan.

LEE PAULUSKAS stepped down as president of the Garden Club recently with too heavy a schedule, she felt, to do it justice.

One of her recent "activities" is the business of making people like me just green with envy about her's and Eugene's planned motor trip in Europe in September.

They will leave the children in Germany with Lee's parents and eventually see Monaco as well as the usual stops on the continent.

Her firm refusal to include any of France, if possible, because the French they are a funny race, adds one more "nay" vote around here when the subject comes up.

Another local lady tells of asking for the Eiffel Tower and her cab driver finding her just impossible to understand while his meter ticked on. My own experience was, compared to Parisians, the average New Yorker is a gentle soul.

THE GARDEN CLUB, with Vice-President Eunice Haack officiating, had to hold an election of a new board yesterday to start off its new affiliation with the Illinois Federation of Garden Clubs.

Meetings of the over 20 cultivating ladies are currently held at the Rose Bowl the second Tuesday of each month. Guest speakers give them gardening soup to nuts, ground preparation to flower arranging, that is.

EARLIER this week Jean Clifford turned her presidential duties with the Cambridge Countryside Club over to Ann Madden.

Wednesday's full luncheon schedule for the Cambridge group held installation of all the officers, plus school talk with the scallopine. Candidates for the school board elections spoke at the luncheon in Villa's Italian restaurant.

Jean says the membership has grown incredibly with 80 dues-paying women and turnouts of over 100 when guests are allowed.

It is principally a "fun" club, she says, sampling the numerous interesting restaurants in the vicinity once a month.

Of course, there is a service implicit there, too. The ladies may thereby inform their husbands as to where they may be taken to dinner, she added with a straight face. Such a program as the one this week gets the largest response from the membership, she says.

SCHOOL Superintendent Kenneth Gill will meet at Poe School in Berkeley Square Monday at 8 with parents from Cambridge, Dun-Lo and Buffalo Highlands and try to unravel the school assignment tangle to everyone's satisfaction.

Gill is the "man between," with the present building budget allowing completion of only part of the proposed Tarkington School, west of Sandburg.

This means, he says, either grades kindergarten through fourth go, with fifth and sixth going to Sandburg, or grades through sixth may attend but kindergarteners attend Sandburg.

These alternatives and others will be discussed at the parents' request Monday.

WHILE trying to "make do" with the schools now possible in this highly taxed area, Gill and the school boards are faced with more and more building of homes, not revenue-making industry. He says, legally no one can stop builders from building.

A Chicago paper recently recorded Buffalo Grove as issuing more building permits than any northwest suburb. An additional referendum will be required, Gill says, just to make Tarkington a full grade school through sixth.

"You'll have to help yourself—right now my thoughts are turned inward for greater self-realization!"

Letters to the Editor

A Republican, Is A Republican, Is A Republican

EDITOR:

There's this thing that's bothering me quite a bit about all this carrying-n about this lady Jeanne Novotny who is running for Village Clerk. Maybe somebody can straighten me ut before I go to cast my one vote.

In the first place, I know already that Mrs. Novotny can't have her head on straight to be taking all this abuse and doing all that work for so little money, but then she must have something going for her since she's had to bone up quite a bit on election laws, state statutes, village ordinances and all those things like that that go on in a village hall.

She seemed to do pretty well getting our voter registrations squared away when we moved here, although something mysterious happened (as it often does) on the way through the County Clerk's office.

Anyway, this Mr. Schlickman, who evidently has something to do with the Republican party hereabouts, seems to feel that Mrs. Novotny has done a Bad Thing in asking her Republican friends to help her win the election. Now wouldn't it be kind of foolish to go to the Democrats since Mr. and Mrs. Novotny seem to have worked quite hard for the Republican party?

To get to this thing that really bothers me is that I understand the folks on the Caucus Party asked for and got help from Republican workers even though there is this lady who is a Democrat who is running on their ticket. I can understand this Mr. Beacham, the Caucus campaign manager, getting kind of vicious with Mrs. Novotny since she chose not to run on the Caucus ticket and would surely have been an asset, but this Mr. Schlickman I don't understand.

Well, it does get exciting to think that here in our little village we get just like downtown around election time, and maybe this Mr. Schlickman thinks he's going to need all the help he can get from wherever he can get it the next time he runs for whatever he runs for. Besides, any straight thinking Republican knows what a help a Democrat can be in Cook County when it comes to handling ballots.

So please--if someone can--straighten me out because I just didn't think there were any Republicans you couldn't help out when the chips are down. Besides, I have this one vote....

Mrs. Robert A. Kipley

You're Welcome

Editor:

Forgive my delay in thanking you for the fine coverage you gave to the diet workshop, "The Way To Protect A Man's Heart," which was sponsored by the Heart Association of North Cook County and the North Suburban Association for Health Resources. Your willingness to help publicize this event contributed substantially to the outstanding attendance -- more than 2,000 guests.

In addition to research and community services, education is one of the most important aspects in control and prevention of heart diseases. Our North Cook County Division of the Chicago Heart Association sincerely hopes that those who attended this large meeting learned more about the relationship between diet and heart health. And because of your fine coverage those who were unable to attend also benefited. Thank you very much.

Please accept our deep appreciation for helping us extend our educational program into the communities we both serve. It is our wish that the end result will be longer and healthier lives for our friends and neighbors.

Virginia R. Hunter Division Director Heart Association of North Cook County.

Holy Week Services at Randhurst

Where You There will be the theme for a series of brief religious presentations on the Randhurst Mall, offered by churches in Mouol Prospect, under the auspices of the Ministerial Alliance headed hy Father Donald Feosky of St. Raymond's Catholic Church.

Fifteen lo 20 churches, of oearly as many denominations, are joining to bring the Holy Week and Good Friday meanings to pre-Easter shoppers at the Randhurst Center. A variety of musical, dramatic, scriptural, instrumental and spoken messages will express the traditional Easter message in the modern idiom, at the hours of 1, 4, 7 and 8 p.m. on Thursday and Friday before Easter and at 1 and 4 p.m. Saturday.

While there will be Holy Week services in most of the cooperating churches, the public presentations are an attempt to contemporize and take lhe Easter Message to the people of the community. A sizeable number of individuals from each church will be taking part in the program.

Pastor Nolan Watson of St. Mark's Lutheran Church and Dr. Robert Matthews of Trinity Uoited Methodist Church are co-chairmeo of the program and arrangements committee. The Randhurst Corporation has been generous in making its facilities available to the churches.

Sorority Happenings

Kappa Delta

An operalogue will be presented by Mrs. Richard Impey, Arlington Heights, before the annual meeting of the Northwest Suburban Kappa Delta Alumnae Association, 8 p.m. Monday, March 31 in the home of Mrs. L. W. Arentsen, Rolling Meadows. Co-hostesses for the evening are Mrs. George Edgcumbe, Mount Prospect, Mrs. Thomas Meier, Palatine, and Mrs. Russell Oller, Des Plaines, and may be contacted for transportation to the meeting.

Mrs. Oller, president of the sorority, recently announced that the Kappa Delta Awards for Orthopaedic Research for the year were presented at the 36th annual meeting of the American Acedemy of Orthopaedic Surgeons in New York City. Three awards were presented. The first shared by Dr. Walter Abendscheio and Dr. George M. Hyatt, both of Washington, D.C. Second award was presented to Sandy C. Marks, D.D.S., and the final award cited for J. Robert Close of Los Angeles.

The Kappe Delta Orthopaedic Award wes established in 1947 and has been presented annually since 1950. In 1961 it was increased from a single grant of $1,000 to three grants of $1,000 each.

Mrs. Allen Starkey of Mount Prospect and Mrs. James Murphy of Arlington Heights report a profit of $800 from the Kappa Delta Alumnae dance held March 8. The proceeds will be divided between Klingberg School for Mentally Retarded, Countryside Center for the Handicapped and Kappa Delta's national philaothropy, the Crippled Children's Hospital in Richmond, Va. The association is also receiving contributions in the name of "The Phyllis Lines Memorial Fund."

Epsilon Sigma Alpha

A film prepared by the Children's Research Foundation wil comprise he program of Alpha Nu chapter of Epsilon Sigma Alpha at 8 p.m. April 9 in the home of Mrs. E. L. Getting, Arlington Heights. The meeting is open to sorority members, their guests and women interested in membership.

The Children's Research Foundation has one goal, that of giving more children the opportunity to enjoy e greater portion of his most precious gift, life.

EPSILON Sigme Alpha is a service sorority with "aiding the handicapped" as its national project. Alpha Nu will become the newest chapter in Illinois when it is chartered on April 23.

Membership will not be closed until that night and women 18 years of age or older and high school graduates are invited to call Mrs. Allan Schoeid, field director, at 529-9666 for further information.

Gamma Theta

A card party will be the highlight of the month for Gemme Thete chapter of Epsilon Sigma Alpha sorority, 8 p.m. April 18 in the social room of St. Hubert's Church, Hoffman Estates. Proceeds from the party which is open to the public, will be used to aid the sorority's handicapped children's projects.

Tickets, et $1.25, are aveileble by celling Mrs. Robert Koif at 894-4519. Refreshments will be served and many door prizes will be awarded.

In other sorority activities, a committee of five visited the Little Angels Nursing Home for retarded children March 12 and will return this month to present each child with en Easter basket. Members ere also sewing clothing for the children et Hilltop House, another home for retarded children.

MARCH 17 the group held their first rush social to which prospective members, Mrs. William Christianson, Mrs. Charles Humphreys, Mrs. John Betes, Mrs. Erwin Schmit Jr., Mrs. Paul Schmitt, Mrs. Robert Prins, Mrs. John Latko, Mrs. Rudoiph Prochaske, Mrs. Bruee Campbell, Mrs. Eugene Re, Mrs. Roger Woolan and Mrs. Chris Bainbridge were invited.

These women have been invited to ettend a model meeting April 7 at the home of Mrs. William Stupka. Also planned for later in the month is a wine tasting party for couples at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Alan Schoeld.

Delta Delta Delta

Miss Sue Murphy, the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Dewey F. Murphy, Arlington Heights, was recently elected assistant house president of Delta Epsilon Chapter, Delta Delta Delta social sorority at Millikin University, Decatur, Ili.

Capistrano Casserole

Each region of the country has its own special signs of spring but probably the most famous is the annual return of the swallows to San Juan Capistrano on March 19.

On this date each year, visitors throng the old mission to watch the arrival of the birds and to celebrate the feast of St. Joseph.

This happy spring forecast is the inspiratioo for Capistrano Casserole, e sevory meal-in-one recipe developed at the R. T. French Company's Test Kitchens in Rochester, N.Y.

A combination of ground beef and beans seasoned with an envelope of chili seasoning mix, this dish has exciting South-of-the-Border flevor. Crowning the casserole are golden poteto balls easily prepared with instant mashed potato granules and rolled in cornmeal.

For taste and color contrest, Pepper Selad with Ooions would be ideal. Serve with an oil and vinegar dressing sparked with Worcestershire sauce for a slightly different touch. And for dessert, e fresh fruit salad would be cool and complementary.

CAPISTRANO CASSEROLE

1½ pounds ground beef
1 envelope French's Chili-O Mix
1 can (15-oz.) kidney beans, drained
2 cups tomato juice
1 envelope (5-serving) French's Instant Meshed Potato granules
¼ cup cornmeal

Brown meat in large skillet. Add contents of Chili-O mix, beans and tomato juice; bring to e boil and cook 10 minutes. Meanwhile, prepare mashed potatoes according to directions on package, using 1¼ cups water instead of 1½ cups; let stand 5 minutes. Form into 12 to 16 small balls; roll balls in cornmeal. Pour chili mixture into a 2-quart casserole. Top with potato balls. Bake in 400-degree oven 15 minutes. Makes 6 to 8 servings.

PEPPER SALAD WITH ONIONS

¼ cup salad oil
¼ cup vinegar
1 tablespoon Worcestershire sauce
1 teaspoon garlic salt
1 teaspoon sweet basil, optional
2 green peppers, cut into rings
2 red onions, sliced
lettuce

Combine oil, vineger, Worcestershire sauce, garlic salt and basil in a covered jar; shake to blend. Arrange green peppers and onions on a bed of lettuce. Pour dressing over vegetables. Serves 6 to 8.

Sigma Sigma Sigma

Sigma Sigma Sigma Alumnae will celebrate Founders Day with a banquet at noon, April 19 in the Palmer House, Chicago.

All Chicagoland elumnae are invited to come and renew old friendships. For transportation or further information please call Mrs. Richard Koopman, 392-0577, or Mrs. Tom Bessey, 296-6313.

Rummage For Sale

Palatine Chapter No. 585, Order of the Eastern Star, will hold its annual spring rummage sale on Saturday, March 29, at 7:30 a.m.

The Paletine Masonic Temple, 1 N. Plum Grove Rd., Peletine, will be the scene of the event and bargains galore will be eveilable to the thrifty shopper.

Sylvie Larson is the Worthy Matron and Ren Oolterman is the Worthy Patron of Palatine Chapter.

Alpha Omicron Pi

"A" stands for April 19 and "Arthritis" in Alpha Omicron Pi's Northwest Suburben Alumnae Chapter, who will devote this meeting to stuffing hundreds of envelopes for their nationel philanthropy, the Arthritis Foundation. At 8 p.m. Mrs. John Holmes will open her Arlington Heights home as an "office." Three Arlington Heights members, Mrs. Thomas Horrigan, Mrs. Thomas Munson and Mrs. George Vitoux will assist as hostesses, serving a dessert and coffee.

Coming up in May will be a second informal meeting, the group's annual potluck dinner. For this reason Mrs. Warren Potter, membership cheirmen, is urging newcomers and infrequent attenders to make e special effort to join in on these two dates.

RECENTLY Mrs. William Borst, Mount Prospect, and chepter vice president, reported on the group's weekly visits to an arthritic in the area. Since the program's onset in December, several members have spent two or three afternoons with their elderly friend. Volunteers are Mrs. Laurence Frerk, Mrs. William Tubbs, Mrs. Vitoux, Mrs. Martin Voise, all of Arlington Heights; Mrs. Borst, Mrs. W. R. Mottweiler, Mrs. Daniel Pellettiere, all of Mount Prospect; Mrs. Paul Jung, Mrs. Warren Potter and Mrs. Albert Sittaro, Palatine, and Mrs. John Nicholas, Park Ridge.

Not only do the swallows return to Capistrano, but the hungry "birds" in your family will chirp for this casserole combination of ground beef, beans and chili seasoning mix. Its companion is pepper salad with onions.

Throw Away Your Curtains

Housewares have taken a new decorative turn toward the disposable with the introduction of bright durable but disposable curtains, aprons, bathmats, washcloths, towels and smocks.

Fresh'Ners of non-woven fabric by Kimberly-Clark Corporation can now dress-up the lady and her household, even match the colorful patterns available in Marvalon coverings.

"Fresh'Ners were developed to provide an answer to the homemaker's dream of frequent changes in decorative accessories at minimum cost," says Devid Lincoln, Kimberly-Clark's marketing menager of Consumer Disposable Specialties. "These functional accent items make it practical for a homemaker to follow her whims about decorative chenges without budget worries."

THE FRESH'NER fabric is e material which is as soft as cotton and as durable as linen. Although it is not designed to be washed and ironed, its sturdy construction makes it possible to use and reuse meny times before ultimetely throwing Fresh'Ners away.

The bathmats, towels and washcloths, ere mede of severel highly absorbent layers. As an added feature, the bathmat has a non-skid, water-proof layer on the bottom. The smocks, aprons and curtains are made of a similar fabric in e lighter weight. Fresh'Ners, in three Daisy patterns of orange and yellow; blue and green; pink and orange, will be available in area stores this spring.

E...ETERNAL LIFE

The Gospel according to John 12:12-15;
On the next day many people that were come to the feast, when they heard that Jesus was coming to Jeruslam, took branches of palm trees and went forth to meet Him and cried, Hosanna; Blessed is the King of Israel that cometh in the name of the Lord. And Jesus, when He had found a young ass, sat thereon; as it is written. Fear not, daughter of Sion; behold, thy King cometh, sitting on as ass's colt.

Campus Unrest Probed By 2 NIU Professors

Student unrest is being examined by two Northern Illinois University professors of education at De Kalb in one of the most comrehensive studies ever attempted on the subject.

Dr. Joseph R. Eilis and Dr. Michael Thompson currently are surveying 630 accredited four-year colleges and universities across the nation.

THE STUDY WILL obtain a report of the status of student unrest, opinions regarding the possible causes of unrest and an estimate of future unrest on campuses.

Questionnaires were sent at random to about 50 per cent of the nation's degree-granting institutions of higher education in order to secure responses from a student leader, a faculty leader and an administrator responsible for student personnel services.

School, Park Link Seen by Grodsky

Development of part of a 10-acre school site for recreation purposes on the basis of park district-school district co-operation is possible soon after a school being built there is completed, according to Edward Grodsky, superintendent of Prospect Heights school District 23.

Grodsky made the statement yesterday in reference to the school being built with state funds along McDonald Rd., just east of Shoenbeck.

He said that John Moore, executive director of the Illinois School Building Commission, had told him he would give District 23 permission to enter into such an agreement although title to the property would still rest with the state.

Construction of the school, tentatively known as "McDonald School," was begun after voters gave approval in a November, 1967, referendum to use of state funds for the building.

Under the building agreement, Grodsky said, the district will repay $30,000 a year on a 16 2|3-year loan from the state.

Title to the land, already owned by the school district, passed to the state at the time of the agreement. Title to the $419,000 building remains with the state until the loan is repayed. Title to the land reverts to the district at the same time.

In addition, the state made an allowance of $1,000 per room to equip each of the 17 classrooms. The school will also contain a multipurpose room, a library and administrative offices.

A survey sets the enrollmen for the kindergarten through fifth-grade school at a tentative 354, using 11 classrooms.

The other classrooms, Grodsky explained, will be used for special education classes, which are currently being conducted in the Prospect Heights Community Church at Illinois Rte. 83 and Willow Rd., the school could hold a maximum of 550, he said.

As for the school's opening date, Grodsky said, "We are hoping for September, but it is not at all certain."

22 Wayside Musicians In Solo Contest

Our Lady of the Wayside School in Arlington Heights was represented by 22 instrumentalists at the recent Chicago Archdiocesan Solo Contest at Notre Dame High School at Niles.

Second place medals were awarded to Richard Koceja, trombone; Janat Erbaek, flute; Mary Klein, clarinet; Don Fanning, alto saxophone; John Larrabee, trombone; Steve Stapleton, clarinet, and Rita Brennan, clarinet.

Marks 35 Years

Florence Bradley

"The telephone company has come a long way since the good old days" said Florence Bradley, 1245 S. Hickory, Arlington Heights, who will celebrate her 35th service anniversary with Illinois Bell Telephone Co. April 21.

"I can remember when we had eight party lines and each customer had a special ring. That could be very annoying when someone on your line had night-owl friends who called them after you were asleep."

Mrs. Bradley began her telephone career as an operator on the North Side of Chicago. For the past 22 years she has worked in Arlington Heights. Her present position is clerk in the central ticket investigating group.

She is the mother of two, including Patrick, an electrical engineer for Motorola, and Marie, a stewardess for TWA.

She is past director and secretary of the Valley Bell Credit Unit; director of Gateway Council of the Telephone Pioneers of America, and a member of the Forest View Homeowners Assn.

2 Locked Cars Looted of Tapes, Stereo Player

Stereo tape playing equipment in cars was the target yesterday of thieves in the Randhurst Parking lot, as one tape player unit and a total of 18 tapes were taken from two locked cars, according to Mount Prospect police.

The player and 10 of the tapes were taken from the car of Sam Marsala, 427 W. Daniels, Palatine. His loss was estimated at $150.

Larry Metzler, 802 E. Appletree, Arlington Heights, told police that eight tapes were taken from his car, with a loss of $60.

Children's Theatre Offers 'Red Shoes'

Once upon a time there was a little girl who put on a pair of red shoes made by a wicked shoemaker. She could never take the shoes off and so she danced and danced until——.

The rest of the story will be found in the Pick-A-Pack production of a musical fantasy based on Hans Christian Anderson's immortal fairytale, "The Red Shoes." It will be presented Saturday, March 29, at 2 p.m. in Maine Township West High School Auditorium, 1755 S. Wolf Rd., Des Plaines.

"The Red Shoes" is one of six plays being offered this season by the Des Plaines Children's Theatre, according to Robert Kunkel, director of parks and recreation for the suburb's Park District, which sponsors the project.

GENERAL admission is 75 cents per person. Tickets will be sold at the door which will open at 1:30 p.m. Children under five should be accompanied By an adult.

Coordinator Mrs. Marguerite Fedder of the Des Plaines Children's Theatra said this was the first time that "The Red Shoes" has been seen in the northwest area. Next scheduled children's play is "Jack and the Beanstalk," scheduled for Saturday, April 26. Information about the theatre may be obtained by calling the Park District Office, 292-6106.

RIGHT--Dick Kallman makes his fourth appearance at Pheasant Run Playhouse in the Neil Simon comedy "The Star Spangled Girl" which will run Friday, April 4, through April 27. Bill Bixby of "My Favorita Martian" fama is starring in tha current "Sunday in New York" which will close on Sunday.

Announce 'Brigadoon' Cast

The Best Off Broadway players have announced the members of their spring musical cast.

"Brigadoon" which will open on Friday, June 6, had one of the best attended auditions of any of the popular musicals of the group.

Allen Johnson won the right to sing the lead role and BOB President Frances Pitchford will be a very lovely Fiona. Mark Ganzer, who played Billy Bigelow in the recent production of St. Viator's "Carousel," will sing Jeff. Meg will be Pat Piper.

Others in the lead roles are Debby Miller, Don Potter, Phyllis Locker, Gil Leon and Harry Beaten. Mrs. Locker and Beaton will do solo dance numbers.

The musical is once again under the direction of Richard Tyler. The music and dance direction will be thet of Gordon Palmer and Carol Walker.

"Brigadoon" will be given at the Wheeling High School Theatre.

Vanguards Plan Rummage, Bake Sale Tomorrow

The Vanguard Drum and Bugle Corps of Des Plaines will hold a rummage sale tomorrow at Devonshire School, Roxbury Lane and Pennsylvania Ave. from 9 a.m. on.

Mrs. Florence Irsch, 109 Roxbury Lane, is chairman of the event, assisted by a committee of corps parents from Des Plaines. Mount Prospect and Arlington Heights.

Anyone having household articles, clothing, "white elephants" or almost any other type of salable article in good condition is invited to donate them to the corps for the sale.

Donations will be picked up by phoning the clubhouse office at 827-4383 in the afternoon or evening.

CAKES AND other baked goods of any description can be donated at the school Saturday morning.

Almost 30 new members from Des Plaines, Mount Prospect, Arlington Heights and surrounding communities hava recently joined the Vanguards, Illinois VFW State Drum & Bugle Corps Champions.

They will travel with the corps this spring and summer to all parts of the country to help the corps defend its many state, regional and national titles.

Battery Taken

Alen Hollett, 650 Murray Ln., Des Plaines, told Mount Prospect police that the battery had been removed from his car yesterday while it was parked in the Maple St. parking lot.

Benefit Play Set for Juckett

"Sound of Music" has been chosen as the featured play for the upcoming theater party honoring State Rep. Robert S. Juckett (R-4th).

Tha party will be held Thursday, May 1, according to committee chairman Philip Raffe.

Mill-Run Playhouse at Golf and Milwaukee, Niles, is the site for the party.

"We thought 'Sound of Music' would be an ideal stage play for the enjoyment of everyone," Raffe said. "It was unanimous."

Proceeds from ticket sales and donations will help defray Juckett's legislative expenses. Reservations may be made by contacting the Juckett Theater Committee, 720 Garden, Park Ridge, Ill.

SWING WITH DONNA DAY

Let us help you plan your swinging weekend! Dining, dancing, music, and cocktail pleasure for everyone's taste.......

A WARM WELCOME DES PLAINES HOLIDAY INN

A hearty welcome to the new Des Plaines Holiday Inn. Located on the corner of Mannheim Rd. and Touhy, it's a new center for the fun set in the Northwest suburbs. Tom Fearing, innkeeper, has something for everyone...dining, cocktails, and full meeting facilities.

The lounge, "The Pirate's Cove", and the restaurant "The Captains Table", offer high seas adventure in decor and dining. And "The Canterbury Room" has full meeting facilities for groups of 12 to 216.

We suggest you stop soon and say hello. While you're there enjoy the versatile styling of MATA ROY. Mata's a gal who will really make your evening swing with jazz organ, unusual piano, clever song styling, and novelty numbers. Put this one on your "fun calendar"!

TWO CAN DINE MORE CHEAPLY

Who ever said that two can't live as cheaply as one? Wayne's Pizza in Arlington Heights says you can...and has as offer to prove it! Every Thursday night for the whole month of April is "Couples Night" at Wayne's. Just come in as a couple and get one dollar off of any large pizza. Here's your chance. Take your favorite girl or take Mom Thursday night for the best pizza you've had in a long, long time.

EASTER FEASTS TO COME

Just want to remind all of you with hearty appetites that this column will feature...in next Friday's edition...some of the best Easter menus you've tasted. So, watch for the location of your Easter feast...coming soon!!

There's nothing like Dixieland jazz to make an evening jump and guarantee fun for everyone. The BRASS RAIL in the SHERATON O'HARE on Mannheim does it again with the "Function Junction Five"! The "Five" are currently appearing in the "King's Lair" Lounge and providing audiences with rollicking Dixieland at its finest. Eloise Love tops it off with her own rendition of Dixie jazz, and comedy all mixed into great vocalizing. Don't miss 'em...they're at the Brass Rail Tuesday through Saturdays with floor shows every night.

And for those with a quiet trend in music...THE BRASS RAIL has something for you on Sunday and Monday nights. Carman Menna plays a soft and enchanting guitar. If you hear him once...you'll have to go back again. Take my word for it...he's great!

A NOTE OF THANKS TO:

Zappone's Brandywine. My dinner was delicious, the service excellent...a memorable evening.

Horoscope

FOR SATURDAY

ARIES (March 22-April 20)--The pessimistic Aries may miss out on an opportunity for cementing family relationships. Look on the bright side.

TAURUS (April 21-May 21)--Don't allow the details of a simple operation to become so complicated that the end does not justify the means. Prune your plans.

GEMINI (May 22-June 21)--Highly rewarding family activities are in store this Saturday for the Gemini who doesn't insist on a sure thing.

CANCER (June 22-July 23)--Of many issues, only one is completely relevant to the present project. Weed out those which will not serve you.

LEO (July 24-Aug. 23)--Promises are less than likely to take you far today. Insist that others carry out their plans or cease to count on the VIRGO

(Aug.24.-Sept.23)--Make personal contacts count for much on a social level. Make no attempt to mix business with leisure-time activities.

LIBRA (Sept. 24-Oct. 23)--New opportunities for activities vital to a feeling of family solidarity should open up for Libra today. Take advantage of them.

SCORPIO (Oct. 24-Nov. 22)--Both business and social fronts are active this Saturday. Family plans may have to be shelved until afternoon.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 23-Dec. 22)--Too many available choices may cause you some confusion at this time. Select the activity that best suits the entire family.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 23-Jan. 20)--Though you may feel especially energetic this weekend, be sure to intersperse periods of rest among times of activity.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 21-Feb. 19)--Early morning difficulties with younger family members should disappear by afternoon if you employ tact.

PISCES (Feb. 20-March 21)--The mentally alert and physically able Pisces stands the best chance of attracting the attention he needs today.

Skip Peterson

Skip Runs Away with 'Athlete' Award

Skip Peterson, a junior at Hersey High School, has been named the Day's Athlete of the Week this week for his consistant and outstanding performances in indoor track this season.

Peterson has been consistently winning in both the low hurdles and the 50-yard dash this season. He has also been running the high hurdles in the Huskies' last few meets and is a member of the four-lap relay team.

SKIP'S BEST time in the 50-yard low hurdles is a 6.1, and he has turned in a respectable 6.6 in the highs. His best performance in the 50-yard dash so far is a 5.5.

Last week against Conant, Skip picked up three blue ribbons for the Huskies. His wins were highlighted by a 5.7 finish in the 50-yard dash.

According to head track coach Art Steele, Peterson is one of the best from the area in the low hurdles and will be a leading competitor when the outdoor season gets underway.

Hurdle coach Rich Fulk said Skip gets one of the fastest starts out of the blocks of any athlete he has ever coached.

"Skip has good form and excellent courage," said Fulk. "If Skip works hard enough this season, he stands a good chance of going down to state in either the 100-yard dash or the low hurdles.

PETERSON'S TRACK career began at Wheeling where he competed on the varsity as a sophomore. He also got a little varsity experience the last part of his freshman year.

Peterson not only enjoys competing on the track team, but is also looking forward to next year's football season. "I like track a lot," said Skip, "But if I had to make a choice between football and track in college, I would pick football."

Until Skip broke his arm last fall he played a major role in both the Huskies' defense as a linebacker and offense. In Hersey's first game this year he scored their only touchdown on an 80-yard run through right tackle and gained 120 yards in only eight carries against a varsity team.

In the Prospect game, Peterson took a pass and raced to his second 80-yard run of the season.

"SKIP DID A great job for us before he was hurt," said head football coach Len Burt. "Skip is devoted to the game of football. He came out and practiced the remainder of the season although he couldn't play in the games."

"Skip is big and quick and fits perfectly into our split-T offense. He is a strong hitter and is capable of breaking tackles as he drives through the line."

According to the coach, Skip was much improved over his freshman year and has been working on his passing and catching although he is mainly known as a runner. Peterson will be one of the co-captains for next year's squad.

NOMINATIONS FOR Athlete of the Week are accepted by mail by the Prospect Day, 114 S. Main, Mount Prospect, 60056, or by phone at 255-7200.

Huskies Readying Team

Hersey High School will field its first tennis team this spring, and head coach Lother Piestrup is hoping for a 'pretty good season.'

The Huskies will naturally have to rely on a young squad to compete with the likes of Arlington and Forest View in the tough Mid-Suburban League. As there will be no seniors at Hersey until this coming fall, the Huskies will have their hands full.

AIMING FOR the top spot at number one singles will be Mike MacLean. Mac Leon was number two singles at Wheeling last year and appears to be the top man at Hersey so far. Mac Lean is the only member of the Huskies team who has had previous varsity experience.

Vying for the number two singles position are Mill Chen, Mike Dunne, and Rick leadley. All are given a good chance to make it as there are still two more weeks of practice before the meets begin.

The number one doubles team seems at this point to be made up of Tom Ruprecht and Stein Ohrstrom according to Piestrup. This could be one of the Huskies most potent entries as both boys are getting into fine form said their coach.

THE NUMBER TWO doubles team is still very much undecided. A number of boys are still battling for the two positions available.

Among those in contention are Bill Hutton, Greg Galowitch, Gary Myers, Dan Rattner and Greg Williams.

Wildcat Relays Draw Impressive Field Today

By Bill Price

Tonight at 5 preliminary competition in the fourth annual Wildcat relays will get underway with Arlington High School favored to take the coveted team crown for the second year in a row. Figured to push the Cardinals for the team title is host Wheeling and Palatine.

All area schools have squads entered in the meet which is the last indoor contest of the year for all entries. Starting next week the teams will move outdoors, and, weather allowing, will begin the outdoor season.

MUCH OF THE Cards strength lies in the field events where they are expected to take three individual titles. Paul Tollefson should be an easy winner in the shot put as he has hit over 57 feet on two occasions this winter. None of the other entries in the 12-pound throw have broken 50 feet indoors. In serious jeopardy is the meet record for the put, set last year, by Arlington's Tom Chandler at 55 feet, 2 inches.

Gary Fagerson is figured to be another winner for the Cards, his specialty being the pole vault. Like Tollefson, Fagerson has not been beaten thus far this year. His competition should come from Mel Greathouse of Elk Grove, Fred Harth of Arlington and Stew Oakely of host Wheeling.

In the long jump competition, Todd Somers of Arlington is the pre-meet favorite. Somers finished third with a jump of 20 feet, 3 inches last year, but has already broken 21 feet this year. Sam Wit, also of Arlington, has had several good jumps this season and should not be counted out.

IN THE HIGH jump, Jeff Meissner of Prospect has been the most consistent performer entered. Meissner took a third at the Blue Demon Relays last Saturday with a jump of 5 feet, 10 inches. Fagerson could surprise with another win for the Cardinals as he, too, has made the same height this year, but he ended up in a tie for fifth last week with a 5 feet, 8 inch jump.

Skip Peterson of Hersey, Gary Hildebrandt and Oakley of Wheeling are the favorites in the 50-yard dash, while Palatine's Jim Verburg is also a contender. All three have run 5.6 indoors. Hidebrandt is still a question mark for the short dash tonight as he has been bothered by a sore hamstring muscle for the last week.

In the 440, Hildebrandt is a clear favorite. The Wildcat speedster ran a 52.8 at Maine East three weeks ago and already has met most of his competition in dual meets. His only loss this season in his specialty was to Maine East's Dave Hoffman who has a perfect slate for the quarter mile.

THE HALF MILE run is pretty much up for grabs with a number of boys given a good chance at the crown. Joe Hooker of Arlington, Paul Royer of Wheeling, Dick Paulson and Bob Pomrenki, both of Prospect, all should be near the top.

Dan Pittinger of Fremd, Mark Visk of Palatine, and Tom Swanson of Arlington all have turned in fine times in the mile run. Visk appears to have the edge on the others however as he recorded a sub 4:20 timing for the mile near the beginning of the season.

The two hurdle races figure to the most competitive events on the night's card. Nic Silvestri and Tom Johann of Wheeling and Dave Steele of Arlington are the leading contenders. All three boys earned a trip downstate in last season's outdoor campaign for their fine work over the barriers.

In the Blue Demon Relays Silvestri took titlist honors as he skimmed over the 50-yard highs in 6.3 seconds, a new meet record. Steele took a disappointing fourth in that race but should be better prepared for tonight's contest as he had only two weeks of practice prior to last week's meet.

There will be two relays contested on the varsity level, the four-lap and the mile events. In the shorter race, Wheeling has a slight advantage over the other entries with Arlington and Prospect given a good shot at the firstplace medals.

In the mile relay, Wheeling appears to have a definite edge over the other contenders. A foursome of Silvestri, Bill Sommer, Royer and Hildebrandt has the best time entered. At last week's invitational the Wildcats took runner-up honors in this event, but were without the services of Hildebrandt. Rick Peliand, Gary Raddeman, Mike Dority and Hooker could surprise for the Cardinals.

The frosh-soph edition of the Wildcat Relays will get underway tomorrow at noon.

Dog Obedience Matches Begin Here in Two Weeks

The Northwest Obedience Club of suburban Chicago is presenting its first dog obedience match of the year on Sunday, April 13.

The match will begin at 10 a.m. and will be held at the Mount Prospect municipal garage, 11 S. Pine St. Entries will close at 12 noon on the day of the match.

The public is invited to attend and see the many fine breeds of dogs being put through their obedience exercises with trophies being awarded to the best performers.

Jane Libberton, Bill Kofler, Kent Delaney, Fred Opyt and Karl Schmitt will judge the contest.

For further information contact Averry Wolfrum, 32 N. Quentin Rd., Palatine. Proceeds from the match will go to the Clearbrook School for the Retarded, Rolling Meadows.

'Y' Girls Seek 4th State Trophy

Day reporter George Halas, a varsity letter-winning swimmer both his sophomore and junior years at St. Viator High School in Arlington Heights, will be covering the YMCA girls state swim championships in Peoria in person this weekend. The story and pictures will appear in Monday's sports pages of The Day.

By George Halas

The Northwest Suburban YMCA girls swim team will try for its fourth consecutive state championship tomorrow at Peoria Richwoods High School. The Swim Queens have qualified 37 girls in 10 relays and 10 individual events.

Coach Al Geisler is wary of the competition this year and is anticipating a tough meet. "Whatever happens, it's going to be tight," said Geisler. "BR Ryall will be tough." He is, however, hoping that his relays will be stronger than the others.

IN THE CADET (8 and under) division, both the medley and freestyle relays qualified for the state meet. The girls on these two relays are Gretchen Fricke, Cathy Hocking, Patti Larsen, Laurie Nelson and Jenny Stuart. In addition, Miss Larsen qualified in the 25 freestyle and Miss Fricke will swim in the 25 butterfly.

The Midgets (9 and 10) free relay will be comprised of Jama Allan, Sue Enander, Carol Howland and Kathy Blair, while the medley relay will contain Cindy Antonik, Judy Gran, Maureen Geisler and Cheryl Takata.

Miss Allen also qualified in the 50 backstroke and the 100 free. Miss Enander made the 50 free and Miss Blair will join Miss Allen in the 100 free.

Kay Corbett, Lee Doehler, Jody Epatein and Patty Vataiaro will comprise the Prep (11 and 12) medley relay. The Misses Corbett and Doehler will join Carol Geisler and Sue Stahnke on the freestyle relay.

Miss Stahnke also qualified in the 100 individual medley with Miss Corbett and the 50 breastroke and Miss Geisler will swim in the 50 free.

The Junior (13 and 14) medley relay will be comprised of Kim Corbett, Mary Lee Cronin, Jan Lesniak and Sandy Gabier while the Misses Corbett, Gabler and Cronin will join Kay Nielsen in the free relay.

JILL CLAWSON qualified in the 200 freestyle, Miss Corbett made it in the 100 free, Miss Gahler qualified in the 100 butterfly, Miss Lesniak will swim in the 100 breastroke and Andy Sue Hibbs will compete in the 50 free.

In the intermediate (15-17) category, Kathy Dalton, Connie Foster, Liz Tobin and Patty Wollerman will swim in the medley relay while the Misses Dalton and Foster will add their talents to those of Sue Ivison and Mary Ellen Geisler in the free relay.

Misses Dalton and Foster also qualified in the 50 free. Miss Wollerman made the 100 backstroke along with Jan Allen while Miss Tobin made the 100 breaststroke along with sister Ann. Ann Tobin also made the 100 butterfly.

ROUNDING OUT the team's strongest division are Sue Chips in the 200 individual medley and the 100 butterfly, Miss Ivison in the 50 and 100 freestyles, Ruth Gabler in the 200 individual medlay and the 100 backstroke and Sue Arnold in the 200 free.

Sheila Rafferty made qualifying time in the Junior 200 free, but did not qualify because of a ruling specifying that only the top four swimmers would qualify in that particular event.

St. Viator Golf Players Looking For Good Year

The golfers at St. Viator High School are looking forward to the coming season. Coming back after a Chicagoland Prep League championship and a fifth-place showing in the district meet last year is the nucleus of the Lions team, five returning lettermen.

The Lions also won the conference crown in 1967 and are figured to repeat again this year.

PACING THE LIONS on the fairways this year will be senior stalwart Andy Gore. Gore earned his varsity letter in his sophomore year and was the best in the area last year. In pre- season practice rounds, Gore has consistently displayed the fine form that earned him a trip to the state finals in Champaign last year after a second-place district showing.

Gore's fine 72 in the district competition labeled him as the one to beat this year when the qualifying competition gets underway.

Also returning to the Lions crew is Jim Dawson, third man for the Lions in the district in 1968. The stocky senior will undoubtedly be one of the key players this year as he has adapted a vigorous pre-season training schedule and is already easily breaking the 40 barrier for nine holes.

KEN MATTINI, another senior, has been coming into form of late for the Lions. Mattini shot a fine 78 in the district meet last year and one of the Lions top performers all season.

Senior Ed Vallely, along with Gore and Dawson had the opportunity to play on the varsity level as a sophomore. A returning letterman, Vallely is expected to be near the top for the Lions when they tee off for their first meet in early April.

The other returnee from last year's squad is Don Weber.

Also vying for starting positions on this years are Jeff Girard, Mario Vitale, Terry Cullen and Joe Doughrty.

Everything taken into consideration, the Lions' outlook this season can be summed up as very bright.

'Strongest Area Singles Team' Gives Knights High Net Hopes

By Jim O'Donnell

Prospect tennis coach Jim Wright is optimistic about his team's chances in the Mid-Suburban League this season. He has a solid nucleus of four returning lettermen, three of whom should make up what Wright feels is the strongest singles team in the area. The doubles teams may be the Achilles heel of the Knight's net squad this year, he said.

"We have the best singles player in the area in Dave Johnson," said Wright. Johnson, a senior, will fill the number one singles spot during the upcoming campaign. The number two singles spot will probably be filled by senior Chuck Hughson, according to Wright. Seniors Mike Wells and Bob Bruhl are fighting for the number three spot.

WRIGHT IS still not sure who will be making up his doubles team. He said that one doubles spot will be taken by the loser of the Wells-Bruhl contest for number three singles man, Jim Witt and Kevin McIntosh, both juniors with no varsity experience, may make up one of the doubles squads. They were the number two doubles conference champions last year on the frosh-soph level.

Others vying for varsity doubles spots include several juniors and two sophomores. If the two sophomores, Steve Collins and Dave Nalson, fail in their attempt at making the varsity team, they should make up the core of the frosh-soph net squad.

On the frosh-soph level, where Wright is assisted by coach Jim Gelhaar, it should be a building year. The team is very inexperienced and includes six freshmen. Gelhaar is stressing fundamentals this season with the younger boys.

Wright has been innovating during the early practices, using a video-tape machine," This is the first season we have used the tape machine because previously we had too clumsy a machine to bring outdoors to tape," Wright said. "The one we use now," he added, "is completely portable, and can be replayed in stop-action or slow-motion."

THE REAL benefit of taping matches, according to Wright, is that if a coach tells a player that he made a fundamental mistake, such as foot-faulting, the player cannot argue because the mistake is there on tape.

Wright expects the Knights' toughest competition for conference supremacy to come from defending conference champ Arlington, last year's sophomore conference champ Forest View and upstart Hersey.

To beat these teams the Knights' doubles squads must come through with very strong performances in Wright's estimation.

Prospect's first four matches of the season are at home. They open their season against Maine West on April 10. This is a week later than most teams' season openers, but Wright feels the extra practice time will help his club. Prospect's first conference match is on April 17, when the Knights will entertain Palatine.

Major Leaguers Try Out

Major league tryouts for the Arlington Heights Boys Baseball League will be held tomorrow and Sunday at 1 p.m.

Boys living on the north side of Arlington Heights should report to Greens park at the corner of Olive and Douglas. Candidates on the south side of town should come to the Pioneer Park number three diamond.

To be eligible for the major league, boys should be 11 or 12 years old on July 31. There will be ample opportunity for every boy to display his talents. Do not forget your glove.

'Teen Trips' To Canada Offered Boys

A new organization called "Teen Trips" offers two to five weeks of adventure to boys aged 11-19.

Chartered busses take them to a base camp on the Min-trips into the wilderness. Hiking, fishing, camping, swimming, and other outdoor activities are all included.

According to Larry Gold, originator of the organization, everything is furnished except clothing. This includes sleeping bags, knapsacks, fishing license and all camping equipment. Two-week sessions are $200 and five-week periods are $400.

A new feature starting this year will be fly-out fishing trips to more remote lakes.

Comments of Young Critics

'I Love Them, I Love Them'

The Parents Arts Council of School District 59 set about the task of doing what the Parents Arts Council is supposed to do, develop or try to develop the taste, imagination and talent that is part of the "makeup of each child's personality."

"Good theetre experiences", said President Marilyn Magsamen of Elk Grove, "will build in our children the basis for becoming discriminating adult audience."

The children have to be young and that they were when they were entertained last weekend by the talented Best Off Broadwey players doing a capsule version of one of their hit shows, "The King And I."

THE COMMENTS of some of the young critics were registered by Arts Council publicist, Georgiana Stach, of Mount Prospect.

Wendy Schumacher, 9, 525 Bell Drive, Des Plaines, enthused, "It was great. I really had a good time." Kim Behk, 8, 48 Jeffrey, Des Plaines, said, "The ballet, The House of Uncle Thomas was the best."

Donna Yeager, 8, 817 Lancaster, Mount Prospect, spoke for all of her sister Brownies from Troop 300 who said according to Mrs. Stach that you never heard such adoration. Donna's comment was, "Oooooh, he's so cute. The King's son (Prince Chululongkorn) was the best of all."

NED QURESHI, 5, 55 Jeffrey Lane, Des Plaines, added, "I liked Uncle Thomas, the one with the black mask, best of all." Debra Valkenaar, 9, 808 S. Lancaster, Mount Prospect, stood outside of the auditorium watching the actors leave, "Oh, there's the princess. There's another one. And there's Anna's son. I love them, I LOVE THEM."

Lise Lindmerk, 8, 311 Lynn Court, Des Plaines thought, "The music was awfully pretty." and Michael Stach, 5, 919 Lancaster, Mount Prospect, added, "I think the king is pretty." His practical sister, Kathleen, 9, wondered aloud, "All those children. Do they get paid for being in the pley? Could I get a part like that?"

JEFFREY Hildebrandt, 7, 69 Clearmont Dr., Elk Grove Village learned something, "I didn't think they could tell a story just by singing songs." Mary Jo Rasmussen, 11, 461 Leahy Dr., Des Plaines, made it a family affair when she attended with her mother and three other children.

She critiqued, "It was a nice play. I think Anna was very pretty and wore such beautiful dresses.

Lisa Andronoco, 9, 400 S. Busse, Mount Prospect just couldn't stay away. She attended both performances and with good reason, "The ballet was the best part because my dancing teacher, Mrs. Locker, was in it. I'm going to see "The King And I" again tomorrow when I come with my family. I've been invited by Mrs. Locker to come back stage.

KATHLEEN AND Irene Greener, 370 Wellington, Elk Grove Village, egreed in unison, "We like the part ebout Uncle Thomas and the King was a good man." Sandy Javen, 7, 219 Parkchester, Elk Grove Village said, "I think the people with the painted feces were funny."

And there you have the juvenile critics who saw humor, pathos, love, adoration, dancing, songs and beauty in the musical. The Arts Council should feel very successful.

The new $2 million headquarters for the American Management Association on W. Higgins Road near Chicago O'Hare International Airport, was dedicated Wednesday. Alexander B. Trowbridge, association president and a former U. S. Secretary of Commerce.

Management Group Dedicates Facility

The American Management Assn. a New York-based, non-profit and non-political organization devoted exclusively to management education activities end services, dedicated Wednesday its second largest meeting facility in the nation near Chicago's O'Hare International Airport on West Higgins Rd.

In brief dedication remarks, Alexander B. Trowbridge, president of AMA and former U. S. Secretary of Commerce, said that the Chicago building would play host to some 600 AMA meetings during its first full year of operation with an expected attendance of 15,000 registrants.

The Association will continue to sue Chicago hotels for its larger meetings such as the personnel, packaging and insurance conferences which ennually ettract several thousend additional registrants.

The $2 million building, adjacent to the Chicago Marriott Motor Hotel, contains 25 meeting rooms seating from 15 to 150 persons. A maximum of 400 registrants can be accommodated at any one time. The facility is AMA's second largest in U.S.--the association's New York headquarters building contains 42 meeting rooms -- and a future addition, roughly doubling present capacity, is planned.

'Staircase' Heads List At Ivanhoe

The Chicago stage premier of "Staircase" heads the list of five plays being offered on subscription by the Ivanhoe Theatre. This is the first season subscription plan for Chicago's most exciting theatre-in-the-round.

Subscribers to the series of five plays will receive in addition to perferential dates and seating, a discount of 20 per cent on regular performance prices, according to Richard Jansen, owner of the Ivanhoe. In effect, the subscriber will see five plays for the price of four.

The subscription line-up includes, in eddition to "Staircase"; Lillian Hellman's still potent "The Little Foxes"; Noel Coward's nostalgic and very funny "Hay Fever"; "The Deputy", that chilling controversy of a play by Rolf Hochhuth ebout Pope Pius XII, the Nazis, the Jews, and World War II; and "Tchin-Tichin", the furiously funny comedy by Sidney Michaels.

In addition to the discount, subscribers will receive tickets in advance of the performance and will have the same choice seat locations all season. If necessary, exchanges are permitted for a more convenient performance during the same week.

For further information and subscription forms contact the Ivahoe Theatre box office, 3000 Clark St., or phone 248-6800.

House Check Begins at Top

Spring is the time the wise homeowner makes a very careful inspection of his house. Nothing will age a home as quickly as a heavy winter. Heavy snows, high winds, alternate freezing and thawing can do an extensive amount of damage. Now is the time to assess just how much has been done.

Some of the damage may not be readily visible, hence the careful inspection. If not tended to, some of these problems which are minor now can become major ones later on.

First place to check is the roof. Even the roof of a new house may not come through a bad winter unscathed. You may be able to spot most of the trouble from the ground, but a look from the top of a ladder is even better.

Check for torn or curling shingles. Cement them down with a heavy dab of roof coating. Press in place.

EXAMINE the flashing while you are at it. This you will find around chimneys and in roof valleys where slopes come together. If the damage is severe get a professional roofer to make the repairs. Small cracks can be taken care of with roof coating.

Next in line are the gutters and downspouts. Gutters may be sagging due to the weight of the ice and snow that accumulated during the winter. The gutter should slope gently and evenly in one direction toward the downspout. Refasten loose hangers.

Clean out any accumulated debris that is in the gutters. There should be a screen or strainer over the opening into the downspout.

Winter is rough on masonry. Tiny cracks fill with moisture, then with the alternate freezing and thawing they expand. Mortar works loose eventually.

Check carefully if you have a brick or stucco house. Examine the foundation of any house. Clean out crumbling mortar and replace with fresh mortar mix.

Examine sidewalks and drives for cracks that may have opened up during bad weather. Chip out the bad spots and use a concrete patch to repair.

WITH BOTH mortar and concrete patches remember to moisten the area thoroughly to begin with and then to keep the patch moist until it is cured.

Check your windows for cracked or missing putty. Remove unsound putty and replace. Check all calking joints around door and window frames, around the foundation and in inside corners where walls meet. Clean out defective calking and recalk.

If paint has been damaged, scrape off the loose surface, prime and then repaint when the prime coat is thoroughly dry.

Preparing Surface Key To Refinishing Floors

A finish that will floor you can be yours, no matter whether the decor is traditional or modern, or the floor itself new or old.

Surface preparation is the essential factor in any wood finishing job. A thorough sanding, sometimes a double sanding operation will eliminate any previous coating and smooth out imperfections and marks. Corners may require careful work with a small hand sander after you have done the preliminary sanding.

Modern efficient equipment rented through local dealers who specialize in just such homeowner's helps will speed up the job and save you money in the long run.

Usually, a residence floor needs a first sanding with medium sandpaper, then a treatment with extremely fine standpaper. Most important is the removal of all sawdust before you apply the finish.

This is a two-coat process, if you use the Minwax products, available in most area hardware and paint stores. The 60-year-old firm claims that its stainwax finish is the original pentrative used across the nation.

MINIWAX ALSO carries a complete line of finish materials, both liquid and paste waxes, "Blend-Fil," which minimizes defects such as nail-holes and blemishes, a special wax for asphalt tile, rubber tile, and lineoleum, an exterior wood finish and a protective beautifying masonry sealer.

The two-coat process needs little skill to make it a success, and you can use either a brush or a cloth. One big asset of the old-line product is that this first application does not raise the grain of the wood, as often happens when other wood finishes are used. After 12 hours, the second coat can be applied, then allowed to dry 24 hours.

There's a wide range of both masking colors and transparent tints in these quick drying wood finishes. Masking types not recommended for floors, but for furniture, paneling and trim; transparent colors are excellent for floors, trim paneling and furniture.

For a two-coat job, one gallon usually covers from 250 to 300 square feet.

If you have a minor refurbishing job in mind, such as restoring pre-finished paneling, cabinets, or smaller wood objects which are worn or "distressed," there's an antique oil finish by the same company which can be applied with a clean cloth, buffed, then left alone, with little maintenance thereafter, since it leaves a film to prevent clinging dust. For best results on badly worn or stained wood, apply this finish with fine steel wool.

A FREE 12-page illustrated brochure with detailed instructions on wood finishing expertise is available from Minwax Co., Inc., Oak St., Delawanna, N. J. 07014.

Umeo Kagei, consul general of Japan, escorting a 20-member Japanese Urban and Town Development Study Mission, stands next to Robert C. Winkle, Centex sales director and Jack Pahl, mayor of Elk Grove Village; next to him is Hidei Edo, head of the study mission, touring the United States. The group spent a day recently studying Elk Grove Village and Elk Grove Industrial Park.

Japanese Study Mission Tours Centex Park Here

Headed by Hideo Edo, the 20-member Japanese Urban and Town Development Study Mission arrived in the USA recently and included the Centex Industrial Park on its itinerary.

Consisting of heads of prominent Japanese real estate, building and development companies, banks and representatives of the Japan Productivity Center, a conterpart in Japan to the U. S. Agency for International Development in the Technical Cooperation Program, the group toured the major cities of California, Texas, Louisiana and Florida; then arrived last week in Chicago.

Accompanied by Umeo Kagei, consul general of Japan in Chicago, they spent a day in Elk Grove Village. Under the guidance of Robert C. Winkle, Centex sales director, they inspected the planned residential community of Elk Grove Village and Elk Grove Industrial Park, studying American design, construction and "total community planning" methods.

At a luncheon hosted by the Centex Corp., the group leaders expressed the mission's gratitude for their host's hospitality and valuable contributions to the enrichment of the Mission's experiences in America. The group is now heading for the tour's final legs and then, via Washington, Baltimore, Philadelphia, New Jersey and New York back to Japan.

Boom Year Ahead

According to the U. S. Department of Commerce, 1969 should be a banner year for home building.

Despite the highest interest rate for mortgages in man years, the building boom is expected to be reminiscent of the post World War II year's when millions of Americans moved to suburbia.

Because a home is such a large investment, probably the largest single investment most people make, the Chicago Better Heating-Cooling Council urges prospective home buyers to pay close attention to the major components of the house they plan to buy. Since heating is regarded as the most important feature with regard to comfort within the home, the heating system should be specified before the home is built. Otherwise, warns the Council, it may be too difficult and expensive to change it later on.

A hydronic (modern hot water) heating system, according to the Council, has baseboard heating panels mounted on the "outside" walls of the home to maintain gentle, even temperatures throughout the house. Installed at ankle height, the baseboard keeps the floor warm by emitting rays across the room, and tests made at the University of Illinois confirm that temperature differences are lowest between the floor and ceiling as well as wall-to-wall in hydronically heated homes.

In addition to heating comfort, hydronics offers flexibility in home decorating. Because the baseboard panels are low and unobtrusive, draperies may hang floor length without scorching, and carpets may be laid wall-to-wall. Most furniture may be placed near or even against the panels without blocking the heat.

Finally, hydronics may be used with all fuels- gas, oil, or electricity.

Theme with Built-In Permanence

Most "national week" observances last just seven days, then promptly are shoved aside by some other cause clamoring for attention.

The National Lawn and Garden Week, being observed for the first time during the first week of spring, March 20 through 26, with the theme "Growing With America," is one of the very few which have a built-in all-year-long permanence.

Sparked by the "Growing With America" slogan, the objective of improvement in the appearance of homes, neighborhoods and communities across the nation is one that is sure to enlist the whole-hearted support of garden clubs, horticultural associations, individual homeowners.

Without consciously signing a pledge to help make and keep America beautiful, every citizen who takes an active interest in highway plantings, industrial landscaping, appealing improvements right on the home grounds, will join the national beautification program and, the chances are, will continue to spruce up the corner where he works or lives.

The national observance simultaneously will get a big assist from our own local but global-sytle avent.

THE CHICAGO World Flower and Garden Show munitiea, with numerous leading nurserymen, landscapers and gardening experts, not to mention garden clubs from area communities, featuring traditional displays of favorite flowers and plants as well as the latest horticultural developments.

This year, Harold O. Klopp, landscape architect in Rolling Meadows, is the world-famed show's over-all designer. Early reports, according to Klopp, point to Chicagoland greenhouses having considerable plant material already forced into early leafing and flowering, so that the displays at the show will present unusual qualities of lavish and colorful beauty.

To start off on the right foot, homeowners will find most useful this list of five brochures available at these prices, at the USDA Agricultural Service suggestion, by ordering from U. S. Government Printing Office, Washington, 20402.

BETTER LAWNS No. 25, 25 cents; Fertilizers for Lawns and Gardens, No. 89, 5 cents; Lawn Week Control with Harbicides, No. 123, 25 cents; Lawn Insects: How to control them, No. 53, 15 cents; and Lawn Diseases: How to control them, No. 61, 20 cents.

There's also a timely pair of brochures to advise you on how to plant and grow return-every-spring flowers or annuals which must be planted early every spring. Growing Flowaring Perennials, No. 114, 15 cents, and Growing Flowering Aonuals, No. 91, 10 cents, are also obtainable from the same printing office.

One important detail: before you get going on any outdoor activities around your house, spend some time in clean-up and spruce-up chores, raking tha dead material from lawn and shrubbery, cleaning up winter debris and clutter to prepare the way for those lovely plants and shurbs.

Maine North Site Road Concern Told

Residents of Linnea and Oak Lns. and the Oak-Meadow Civic Assn., met with tha School District 207 Board of Education and school administration officials Monday night to express concern about the location and use of access roads to Maine North High School, which is expected to be constructed and open in September of 1970.

Following a lengthy discussion of the undesirability of bus and other school traffic on residential streets adjacent to the school site, tbe board adopted this motion:

"Providing a suitable main road can be obtained from the north...and that a suitable entrance can be provided by Dee Rd. from the south at the new Maine North school, it is the intent of thia board that the school will use Dee Rd. as a main access route for buses from the south."

Robert A. Wells, administrative assistant to the superintandant, stated that final drawings for Maine North are expected to be completed by March 28.

After that date a complete set of the drawings will be on display at Maine East for inspection by interested citizens. The drawings will be in Wells' office at Maine East.

Roy O. Makela, chairman of the board's building and grounds committee, indicated that the bid due date for mechanical sub-contracts for the construction of Maine North had been set for April 28, and that a one-week extension of the bid due date would be given for the general contractor.

Harold Markworth, school business manager and board secretary, was given authorization for parts of the preliminary budget to order instructional supplies in the amount of $105,000; health supplies in the amount of $1,500; and boys' athletic interscholastic supplies in the amount of $55,000.

Prairie Land Check Given To Governor

The Des Plaines chapter of the Izaak Walton League presented Gov. Richard B. Ogilvie with a check for $1,000 toward the purchase of Goose Lake Prairie, Grundy County, at the Chicago Boat Show Friday.

Goose Lake Prairie is the last remaining tract of undisturbed prairie land in Illinois. According to Conservation Director William Rutherford, the state needs to raise $700,000 from the public to complete the purchase, and about $400,000 is now either in hand or pledged.

The Iazzk Walton League is collecting donations for the purchase at its boat show booth, and donations are also being expected during the Chicago World Flower and Garden Show.

Make Your Own Weathervane

A weathervane for the top of your garage, ahed, backyard pergola, or even a clothespole can be an extra fun item, both for you to make, and for the family to enjoy.

If you have a boy scout in the family, he'll be eager to show you just how to have the crossarms lined up correctly for the compass-point directiona. An easy way to remember the line-up is to think of the word NEWS (North, East, West, South, of course), then attacb the N at direct opposite to S, with the E between them, equidistant, going clock-wise, and ending with W, opposite the E, still going clock-wise.

Materials for the vane itself can be cut from waterproof exterior plywood, one-half inch thick, or aluminum sheeting, about ¼-inch or even 3|16-inch thick. Make the sketch of whatever you plan for the indicator on ruled paper, so you can follow the pattern carefully when cutting it out with a scroll saw or even a hand saw, if you are a skilled operator. The indicator can be whatever your whimsy dictates: the traditional rooster, or a pointing hand, or an Indian wearing a headdress, or an arrow. Let the family bave a voting match on it.

THE NEWS letters should be not less than 2 inches high. Depending on how far up the vana will ba mounted, you may want to usa aven iarger onea. Hardware stores carry stock sizes and typefaces and all you need do is drill holes to fasten them to the arms extending out from the center column holding the vane. This column must be a bearing sieeve, perferably of copper, arranged so that the slightest breeze will move the indicator (rooster, arrow or hand) to show wind direction.

You may have to experiment by adjusting the indicator until it is in perfect balance and does not overbalance the four arms, so it helps sometimes to mount it temporarily on a barbecue table or similar ground level site, before you have it perched finally on top of the garage or other peak.

The family will tell you what color it should be, so that's one part of the pleasant chore you can let them handle.

Time to Think Of Air Comfort

Now that the equinox has taken on a green look and we are officially having variable spring weather outdoors, it's a cosy thought to know the indoor weather will be comfortable with your air conditioning unit automatically delivering the correct degree of air control.

No matter how rainy the days ahead, you don't have to fret about everything indoors being damp to tha touch. Your air conditioning system quickly and efficiently gets rid of excessive moisture.

That is, if you do have air conditioning. If you don't, it's a good time to plan room by room comfort for your home.

When Willis Carrier came up with the "Eureka" of creating indoor climate, 67 years ago, he probably never realized how many homeowners, generations later, would class him in the invention category as a great benefactor of humanity.

Today you can live, sleep, eat, work, play, all in a conditioned atmospbere which enables you to turn on whatever weather you desire.

Fickle climatic variables need not pester you any more. And if you are allergy-prone, there's definite relief in this modern way to eliminate pollen from the air you breathe indoors.

Area firms authorized to handle the Carrier line of air conditioners include Tapper's Central Heating Co., 1056 Lee St., Des Plaines, and Palatine Heating and Cooling Co., 1740 N. Rand Rd., Palatine.

Windsor Meadows Model Features Interior Details

Home-seekers touring the model group on display in Sleepy Hollow, just west of Dundee on Higgins Rd., continue to "discover" new and interesting details of home design – especially in interior features.

A good example of this appealing treatment of interiors, is the "Windsor Meadows." This eya-catching one-story ranch home, atyled in a distinctive French Provincial concept, was recently selected for a special article and citation in American Home Magazine. It is one of the several award-winning homes designed by Don Scholz, head of tha nationally-known Scholz Homes, Inc.

Plans and features for the "Windsor Meadows" can be eltered and modified to meet the particular preferences of purchasers. Among the attractive options are three of four bedrooms, basement, wood-burning fireplace in living or family rooms, etc. Fixtures, paneling and other finish features may also be modified, as selected by the new buyers.

Popular model home now drawing visitors to Sleepy Hollow, just west of Dundee on Higgins Rd. is the "Windsor Meadows". Photo indicates the open, well-planned interior – looking across family room, kitchen and dining room. The model group may be toured daily until dusk.

THE DESIGNER'S approach to interior details, resulting in some unusual and distinctive effects, is exemplified in the semi-open planning on the family living side of the home. Here are found "conversation piece" features such as the paneling and beamed ceiling of the family room, and its informal fireplace. The adjacent kitchen can be seen beyond an unusual dividing arrangement of finely-crafted turned posts.

The sunny informal eating area is opposite the U-shaped kitchen. And the formal dining room is at a corner of the house, receiving plenty of of natural light via heavy sliding glass doors.

The complementary finish of these rooms, and the semi-open treatment, make them a very attractive group for comfortable family living.

The spacious living room measures nearly 19 feet in length and 14 feet in width, and may be built with the second fireplace. It is quickly raached by the entering visitor, being located straight back through the centered foyer and front entryway.

The sleeping area makes up the third area of this model. This is reached via an el-shaped corridor extending past the family bath. Modern lighting, colorful tiling and matching fixtures are found in both the family bath and in the private bath in the Master Bedroom. Carefully-selected built-in vanities, with wide mirrors and medicine cabinets, are also featured – and the private bath in the Master Bedroom is just off a convenient dressing room.

ANOTHER unusual plan feature found in the "Windsor Meadows", is a sewing and laundry room set between family room and garage. Here, a handy work counter gets plenty of natural light from the window above it– while, at one side, a large closet provides space for ironing, cleaning and household needs. Conveiently, tha powder-room ia at one end of this area, just outside the family room.

The "Windsor Meadows" and other models in the Sleepy Hollow group are open daily, including Saturday and Sunday, until dusk.

Mobile Homes Popular with Young

Would you believe she's slaving over a hot stove? Hardly. It's easy to see why this young housewife finds mobile home ownership attractive, in common with many young-marrieds. Mobile Homes Mfrs. Assn. claims nearly 50 per cent of the 5 million persons living in mobile homes are young adult couples under 34 years of age.

Built-in brand name appliances, roomy cupboards, ample lighting, convenient kitchen work areas, and that low average cost of $5,700 for a mobile home entirely furnished, are all adding up to make the combination a most attractive one to young marrieds, according to Mobile Homes Manufacturers Assn.

The group is a Chicago-based organization which has exciting statistics to offer.

Included in their array of facts are these: nearly 50 per cent of the 5 million persons living in mobile homes are young adult couples under 34 years old, with married college students and families in the Armed Forces finding mobile home living well suited to their needs.

Mobile homes, according to association surveys, come completely furnished at an average price of $5,700 for a home 12 feet by 60 feet which contains 12 by 57 actual area of living space. This works out at about $8 a square foot, while the conventional home costs about $15 per square foot. And that's without furnishings.

THE PURCHASE of such a home allows the newlyweds to enjoy the advantages of home ownership at a low price and with easy financing for a period of seven to 10 years, with a down payment of 20 to 30 per cent. This also gives them an equity towards the purchase of a conventional home when their family needs change.

In 1967, mobile homes accounted for 86 per cent of all single-family homes sold for less than $12,500 and 73 per cent of all homes sold for less than $15,000. They represented nearly 25 per cent of all single-family houses built in 1967.

Last year, the mobile home industry shipped to dealers more than 316,000 units, a 32 per cent increase over the 1967 figures. Retail value was $1.8 billion.

The 40-year-old industry started with such humble designs as a box built on a farm-wagon body to a bus made over into a tourist cabin on wheels. From 1,330 units produced in 1930, the production is on its way to better the 1968 total of more than 316,000 mobile homes.

The $5,700 price should not deter the couple who want something better: there are more elaborate and spacious designs for the asking, while there's a wide range of color and decor to choose from: Early American, French Provincial, Oriental, Mediterranean, contemporary or the "now" look. And, while there's an increasing demand for the $12,500-and-up mobile home, the MHMA says that the average monthly rental rate for a space in a mobile home community is $40.

At those prices, it's a good bet that the young marrieds will find themselves in the line forming to sign up for mobile home living, elbow-to-elbow with many retirees who find it the solution to many retirement problems.

The over-55 group already comprises 25 per cent of the 5 million persons living in mobile homes. These retirees claim they can live comfortably on a reduced income, cut costs and still be in congenial surroundings, while keeping active.

Patience Needed by Painters In Spring's "Silly Season"

A common affliction of the spring "silly season" that attacks many an eager handyman is the urge to grab a can of paint and a brush and start lavishing pigment on everything in sight.

Before you start any sprucing-up jobs, remember two basic things: Prepare the surface before painting and wait for moisture to disappear from the item you're about to paint.

material, nail down loose boards, fill in cracks and holes with fresh glazing material and, if you're working on storm windows and doors, check first for crumbling or loose putty or missing glazier's points, replacing them before painting.

Incidentally, it's easier on you to paint such windows and doors if you first remove them, and put them across sawhorses or the barbecue table horizontally, which also prevents splashing paint all over the door frames or the regular windows.

'Little Details' Carefully Chosen for High Point Homes

Little details become more and more important as home-seekers become more sophisticated and as houses increase in price.

"Cookie-cutter homes that look alike inside and out have long passed from the scene; today's buyer wants his home to reflect individuality, even down to the hardware on doors and cabinets," said Lowell Siff, marketing vice president of the Hoffman Rosner Corp., a leading Chicago area home builder.

Ten years ago a builder could get by with one standard front entrance hall for all of his homes. Today, the alert builder offers a wide range of door styles, as well as different types of brick, siding, lighting fixtures, flooring, cabinets, ornamental fences, and fireplaces.

"We'll spend almost as much time deciding on small things like a door pull or the type of stone to be used in a fireplace as we will on the basic house design," Siff said. "That's because we know that details create the flair, excitement and elegance to turn a good house into a special one."

HE SAID, too, that the more a home costs, the more the buyer expects in the way of custom details and the more the builder can afford to provide the fine finishing touches.

To design for emotional identification and impact takes great sensitivity to buyer taste trends, Siff said. It also means understanding how these tastes relate to status symbols involved in buying a home.

"Today's home-seeker has an educated taste level and a selective eye. He is concerned with a great deal more than just basic shelter," he said.

"Fine appointments such as an unusual front door, unique lighting or handsome hardware on good-looking cabinets give a home status and generate a mood. And if the mood is inviting, the house will sell."

Choosing the few right details from among the many available and giving the chosen few judicious placement is a matter of close teamwork at Hoffman Rosner.

Final selections in terms of quality, function, and decorative impact are made by a marketing team headed by Siff and including James March Goldberg, the company's chief architect and marketing director; Morton E. Silfen, sales vice president, and Robert Rosner, president.

Here are a few of the details given special attention in the model homes of the new High Point community in Hoffman Estates:

Entrances are created to be attractive attention-getters. Depending on the style of the home, decorative stone partitions are sometimes used to define the forecourt in front of the entrance and to act as a backdrop for plantings and flowers.

DESIGN OF the actual door is highly important to the total effect and styles range from double glazed doors, to planked doors with strap hinges, to raised panel doors with fixed shutter trim.

Colonial graciousness is instantly expressed in the glazed double doors of the mid-level Hadleigh model home in High Point. The raised panel doors with diamond muntins are stained in rich Amesbury finish indicative of the Early American flavor of the interior. Glass portions of doors also offer excellent natural light for entry foyer. Built by Hoffman Rosner Corp., the three- or four-bedroom Hadleigh is one of eight new model homes now being shown at High Point in northwest suburban Hoffman Estates. The Hadleigh is priced from $29,950 including full-improved site.

A variety of sidelights are used to "frame" doors and give added natural light to inside foyers.

Exterior lighting fixtures are chosen to accent both period and contemporary themes. Selections range from replicas of 18th century ship's lanterns to sleek, modern globes.

Six different fireplace designs are available at High Point. Styles range from classic colonial designs with wood frames and raised stone hearth to modern corner treatments that combine wood paneling with honed bluestone.

Interior doors receive as much attention as the house entrance. Wood paneling is used to lend rich detail to room settings while distinctive sliding louvered doors cover closet entrances.

Decorative eye-catching hardware, used throughout the models, varies in style from streamlined circle designs in burnished brass tone to replicas of early American knobs and latches in soft, pewter finish.

Winter-proof, wood double-ung windows receive a variety of individual treatments from simple frames with an uncluttered expanse of glass to elegant double glazed styles with ingenious diamond muntins that snap out for easy cleaning.

Kitchens come in for serious planning and all accessories are chosen with an eye to a total blend right down to dishwashers with cabinet fronts precisely matched to cupboard finishes.

"WE KNOW from experienre that very often it's the light fixture in the foyer or the quality of the hardware on a door that create a pleasing 'memory point' for the potential buyer which distinguishes that home from all others he has seen," Siff said.

"When that happens, it's proof once again that the best things still come in small packages."

Model homes in the 106-acre High Point section include ranches, split-levels and mid-levels. Prices range from $29,500 to $36,500, including fully-improved site.

Located on Higgins Rd., two miles west of Roselle Rd., the model homes are open for inspection daily from 9:30 a.m. to 6 p.m.

Call for Dist. 59 Audit, Labeled Nonsense

By Richard Crabb

Carl R. Hansen of Mount Prospect, Elk Grove Township Republican committeeman, today called "nonsense" the suggestion by the Elk Grove Township Active Citizens Party, that present township officials should delay further distribution of surplus township funds to School District 59 until, there can be an investigation of conflicting audits of the district's books.

Supervisor William Rohlwing of Elk Grove Township who will ask citizens to approve at the annual town meeting Tuesday night, the transfer of another $100,000 in township surplus funds to District 59, called the Active Citizens Party charges "campaign table pounding."

Richard H. Hall, campaign manager of the Republican backed slate of candidates for township office and himself a candidate for township auditor, called the request for a delay "another red herring."

EARLIER this week Paul Shanyfelt of Elk Grove Village, candidate for supervisor on the Active Citizens Party slate, called for a halt in the turning over township surplus funds until the difference in audits of the school district funds could be investigated.

Shanyfelt pledged that if elected, he would offer the school district officials an opportunity to explain the audit differences directly to the citizens in a public meeting at the Township Hall as a means of developing community understanding and confidence in the handling of public funds by the school district.

"THE ELK GROVE Township Democrat Party is again grasping at straws in a belated attempt to revive its sinking township slate, which they choose to call the Active Chizens Party. They are certainly 'active' enough," Hansen continued, "but this activity has become so misdirected as to confuse these active Democrats as to whether they are running for township or school district office.

"Partisan politics in school matters is something the Republican Party in Elk Grove Township has studiously avoided," Hansen noted. "It behooves either party to introduce this element at this governmental level, and I strongly encourage our local Democrat Party adherents to think twice before they move farther down this road."

He added, "The tactics--or lack of them--evidenced by Elk Grove Township Democrats in this election show conclusively that in neither campaigning or in government can they be counted on for the sound and constructive approach so needed today. It is high time they devise a more constructive approach."

ACTIVE Citizens Party candidates reported earlier that they had been denied a public meeting place in one of the schools of District 59. Supervisor Rohlwing said that the Elk Grove Township Hall is available to the party.

"I hate to disillusion my opponents, but I had no knowledge of their contacts with the school in their attempts to get a location to hold a meeting," Rohlwing said. "They could have used the Township Hall for their meeting if they had asked us. Only one month ago a Democrat precinct captain held a meeting in Town Hall.

"If the ACP knew more about township government, they would know that the Town Hall is available for use by any legitimate group or organization. Once elected the township officials become representatives of the people and their political affiliation becomes secondary."

Observed Rowlwing, "There is an old saying that when an attorney has facts, he pounds those facts . . . when an attorney has law on his side, he pounds the law . . . when an attorney has a hopeless case on his hands, he pounds the table . . . and that is what the Active Citizens Party is doing."

Richard M. Hall, campaign manager for the Republican Township slate, said, in response to the Democrats charge that school funds this year have been announced earlier, that there is no legal way for these funds to be released prior to their authorization by the annual meeting of the electors on April 1.

"If the Democrat candidates had more than a passing interest in the offices they seek, they would already know this."

Hall, also a Republican candidate for auditor, added, "The Democrat call for an audit of township contributions to school funds is another red herring. Each school district already has an audit conducted of its use of funds, which the Active Citizens Party candidates could have found out about with minimal effort."

Reading Clinic Starts New Building

This architects sketch shows what the new $100,000 Central Reading and Speech Clinic will look like when the building, now under construction in Mount Prospect, is completed in July. It will house a group of therapists specializing in correction of learning disabilities as they are caused by difficulties in speech, hearing, reading and vision. The clinic's staff will include a speech and hearing pathologist, a clinical psychologist and a consulting optometrist.

The new $100,000 Central Reading and Speech Clinic is being constructed in Mount Prospect for a group of therapists specializing in correction of learning disabilities.

The clinic will be a referral agency to provide diagnostic, therapeutic and skills-development services to adults and children with difficulties in speech, hearing, reading and mathematics and vision. The building will be on the southwest corner of Prospect Ave. and Pine St. Architects Thellander, Nelson & Associates of Chicago designed the building and Elm Builders Corp. of Mount Prospect is the general contrator.

The split level, air conditioned building will be elevated four feet above ground with provision for parking below. Exteriors will be face brick and exposed aggregate panels in a contemporary design of low silhouette.

Interior facilities will be oriented to serving both the child and adult patient, since the clinic has special resources for working with children of school and pre-school age.

THE CLINIC is under the administrative direction of Lori M. Frank and David M. Bray, educational therapists.

The professional staff includes a speech and hearing pathologist, a clinical psychologist and a consulting optometrist. Various professional service are provided to private individuals, private and public educational institutions and industrial organizations in the greater metropolitan area of Chicago.

Therapy areas will require a large percentage of space in the new building with Dr. Conrad E. Mazeski using half of the area and specializing in visual-perceptual problems.

Wallet Taken

Ilene C. Furman, 515 S. Dwyer, Arlington Heights, told Mount Prospect police yesterday that her wallet has been stolen from her purse while she was shopping at the Mount Prospect Plaza shopping center.

She said that the wallet contained about $10 in currency and several credit cards.

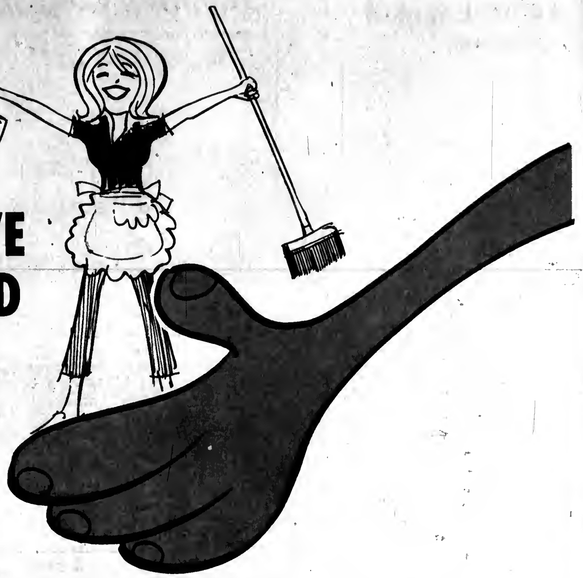
CAN WE GIVE YOU A HAND WITH YOUR SPRING HOUSE-CLEANING ?



Springtime is a time for fresh air, blossoms, romantic songs. . . . and hard work! We think you housewives deserve a helping hand with your housecleaning, so we'd like to offer you the services of a hard working little servant . . . A DAY WANT AD. How can he help? It's simple: just make a list of all those unneeded items that always seem to get in the way. (They may be things like furniture, appliances, bikes, typewriters, tools, sporting equipment and much more). Next put our hard little worker on the job. He'll go from door to door throughout the entire northwest suburbs with the word that these items are for sale. All you'll have to do is answer the phone. So, wouldn't you like help with your spring housecleaning AND GET EXTRA CASH TOO? Go ahead, make your list and watch how a DAY WANT AD can turn it into cash. Election Precincts Increased

and Euclid Ave.—973

Precinct 56 at Euclid Av. and Lee St.—874.

Precinct 58 at Willow Rd. and Schoenbeck Rd.—998.

Precinct 60 at Techny Rd. and Vista St.—1,039

Precinct 66 at Arlington ington Heights Rd. and Dundee Rd.—1,545.

Precinct 66 will be redistricted into three new precincts. Each of the other old precincts will be divided into two new precincts.

OVER IN ELK GROVE Twp., Barrett has recommended that the number of precincts there be increased from 47 to 56 also this summer.

Carl R. Hansen, Regular Republican committeeman for the township, noted that redistricting "is based on voter registration. The normal complement of voters in a precinct is around 400 to 600. But when this number breaks 800, you have to redistrict.

"We now have two precincts that have well over 1,000 voters. With the continued population growth, we may well have to have another redistricting in January.

TEN YEARS AGO, he said, the township had 15 precincts with a total population of from 15,000 to 16,000. "Now," he said, "this figure is reaching 60,000--that's a four fold increase in just ten years. And the growth is continuing."

Chester A. Chesney, Regular Democratic Committeeman for the township, said that more precincts means there might be a problem in finding women election judges. Fifty more would be required to service 10 new precincts.

As for political advantage one party might hold over the other party in the new map, Chesney belives that the Democratics may be the dominant party in a number of new precincts. "We've been getting a stronger vote in some of those newer sections of the township in Des Plaines, Rolling Meadows and Elk Grove Village," he said.

FOLLOWING IS A LIST of the precincts to be redistricted:

Precincts 12 at Cedar St. and Arlington Heights Rd.

Precinct 15 at Dempster St. and Elmhurst Rd.

Precinct 21 at Falcon Dr. and Cedar Glen Rd.

Precinct 22 at Golf Rd. and Marshall St.

Precinct 28 at Algonquin Rd. and Barker Av.

Precinct 30 at Marshall St. and Millers St.

Precinct 38 at Arlington Heights Rd. and Dempster St.

Precinct 43 at Elk Grove Rd. and Higgins Rd.

Precinct 47 at John F. Kennedy Blvd. and Arlington Heights Rd.

Chao Joins Chemplex Corp.

Kwang Cheng Chao of Arlington Heights has joined Chemplex Co., in Rolling Meadows as a senior research engineer in the polymer development section.

Chao comes to Chemplex from Friden, Inc., in San Leandro, Calif., where he was a chemical processing engineer.

A member of the American Chemical Society and the American Eletroplaters Society, Chao has a bachelor's degree in chemical engineering from Cheng Kung University in Taiwan, and a master's degree from the University of California, Berkeley.

Chao and his wife have one child.

Joins Faculty

Agnes Strassheim has joined the faculty at Robert Frost School in Prospect Heights. Mrs. Strassheim, a graduate of University of Wisconsin, has a master's degree in education.
